Big Steel Decides to Pay. Down Goes the Pound. Ladies, Squaws, Fights. No More Revivals. Too Bad.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

"BIG STEEL," giant among all steel companies, better known as United States Steel, declared the regular dividend on the preferred stock yesterday. Some had thought, some had hoped, some had feared that it would pass the dividend entirely, or pay only part of it.

Republican politicians hoped that the company would pay the dividend. Not to pay would have shown that the big steel men do not believe that prosperity is within sight.

However, the election will be decided by those that do not own any "preferred steel," and don't care whether it pays its dividend or not.

BRITAIN DISCOVERS that there is danger in allowing the pound sterling to go where it will. It fell off four and a half cents yesterday, dropping to $3.28. The British stand it well. Can you imagine how we should feel, if our dollar were worth only seventy cents?

HOWEVER, THERE are things just as bad. Our dollar is worth a great deal more than seventy cents, and a great deal more than one hundred cents. In consequence he who produces wheat, cotton, or beef or coal, or daily labor, can't get much money for it.

PRESIDENT HOOVER, discussing bad conditions in certain American trades, grass rugs, electric light bulbs and others, says currencies in thirty countries falling from 5 to 55 per cent. have enabled the countries with cheap currency to produce at low prices "to the detriment of the American worker."

If your dollar is high you worry. And if your pound sterling is low you worry. Money is a strange thing.

THE BRITISH had suggested, as a substitute for gold, a world currency based on the pound sterling. But, with the pound slipping around like a piece of soap on the bottom of a wet bathtub, that suggestion seems not so pleasing.

What would be the result if the British empire should unite with the three quarters of the world's population that have no gold, and say:

"Silver is our money. We are through with gold?"

FRANCE AND this country possess about all the monetary gold there is. Suppose the rest of the world decided not to recognize gold as money, but to establish silver on a basis of say, two ounces to the dollar, or ten ounces to the pound?

What would be the status of the gold dollar and the gold franc? Should we have to beat our gold into wedding rings and watches, or should we wait patiently for the world to come back to the gold standard? And would it come?

A number of other women say they go to prize fights because they like to see men fighting each other. And this seemed to them a satisfactory explanation of the presence of women at prize fights.

IF THOSE ladies could have gone to an Indian battlefield after the Apaches had finished a fight with some other tribe of Indians, they would have seen Apache squaws bending low, each holding in her hand an ugly little weapon with which she smashed in the skulls of any fallen enemy that seemed not quite dead.

If you had asked those squaws why they did this, they would have said, "we are fans, we enjoy it," but that would not have made their occupation any more pleasant.

THE METHODIST Episcopal Church of New York decides that "the old-fashioned camp meeting has ended its usefulness." It will use its camp meeting grounds at Ossining, formerly Sing Sing, for an orphan asylum or a home for the aged.

This means that religious enthusiasm, at least in its physical aspect, is waning. It was a cheerful sight, in days gone by, to see earnest Christians jumping up and down at a revival meeting, confessing their sins, professing their faith, and enjoying themselves. Jazz and speakeasies are poor substitutes.

MR. MEDALIE, United States Attorney, says New York City's prison on Welfare Island possesses "an organized system for the distribution of narcotics."

Some of the prisoners are profitably engaged in the selling of drugs to other criminals. Whether employes of the prison are drug dealers Mr. Medalie does not yet know. A prisoner is paid $1 for a "deck" of heroin or cocaine. If he is paid in goods taken from the prison workshop, he is paid $1.50.

When prisoners can buy drugs in their jail, you don't wonder that the ordinary individual can buy whisky at large, under prohibition.

IN THE second quarter of 1932, deaths increased and births fell off in France. The surplus of births over deaths for

OVER-STUDY BLAMED BY FATHER FOR SUICIDE

Honor Roll Junior's Body Found in Home Garage

An honor student from his days in Perry High School, the youth studied last night and then went for a walk.

He was missing this morning. His father, John Farbarik, hauling contractor, went to the garage to see if he had taken the car and found his son's body suspended by a clothesline.

The grief-stricken father said:

"Earl was always a studious boy. He never played much with the other boys. He graduated with honors from Perry High School. His marks were always high. He must have studied too hard."

Young Farbarik was a junior in commercial engineering at Tech. His professors said he was a diligent student and was twice on the honor roll.

AUTO OF VOLPE STOLEN, FIRED

The spectre of murder and misfortune that has pursued the name Volpe hovered over another of the Wilmerding clan today—Mallay Volpe.

Enemies, who appeared motivated by revenge, stole his automobile last night in East Pittsburgh and left it in flames on a hillside in Pittsburgh's West End.

Mallay Volpe, 32, is a brother of the three Volpes—Johnny, Arthur and Jim—who were murdered by gangsters in Wylie avenue four months ago.

According to Wilmerding police, Volpe and a friend parked the Volpe coupe in Electric avenue last night while they attended a movie.

It was in flames when residents first saw it, deserted. It was in ashes today.

LIQUOR BLAMED IN DEATH; 2 ILL

One of three men who police said were found apparently drunk within a 45-minute period in and near East Park, North Side, died in Allegheny General Hospital today, while another was in a serious condition.

The police said that alcoholism apparently caused the death of William Hess, about 60, who was found unconscious at Turtle way and Suisman street. At the morgue, bruises were found on his face and an autopsy will be performed.

A short time after Hess was found, police were called to Middle and Swanee streets where an unidentified man about 60 lay on the sidewalk. He was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital where is was said he had suffered a fractured skull and lacerations of the face.

A few minutes later, August Mazur, about 36, a former North Side patrolman, was found unconscious in East Park. He was taken to the hospital where it was said he was suffering from alcoholism.

Art Rooney Boasts Assembly Car Tag

Arthur J. Rooney, of the North Side, may not be a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, but at least he enjoys whatever distinction comes from owing legislative license plates. This was revealed today when Rooney's car, stolen downtown Monday, was recovered in Ingomar. The license plates read: Legislative 288. Records gave Rooney's address as 915 Western avenue. There is an Art Rooney, North Side politician, who is a brother of James Rooney, a bona fide member of the Assembly.

Reitell's State Job Now Pays $25 a Day

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Dr. Charles Reitell, Pittsburgh, who lost his $10,000-a-year job when the Legislature abolished the Greater Pennsylvania Council, is now being carried on the payrolls of the Governor's office at $25 a day, it was learned today.

The nature of his work was not announced, but he has been making studies in the Bureau of Rates and Tariffs in the Public Service Commission.

Alfonso's Daughter Undergoes Operation

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The Infanta Beatriz, eldest daughter of former King Alfonso, of Spain, was reported in satisfactory condition today after an operation for appendicitis at a hospital here.

Richard Bennett, Ill, In Serious Condition

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Suffering from pneumonia, Richard Bennett, veteran film character actor and father of the Bennett sisters of the screen, was confined to his home today. Physicians described his condition as serious.

FOOD REVOLT THREATENED IN LONDON

Scotland Yard Masses Forces as Marchers Seize Buildings

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Waving red flags and Soviet banners, Britain's hunger marchers surged into the suburbs of London tonight and took up billets in vacant houses and disused buildings.

Spurred by the threat of their leader, Wal Hannington, to resort to violence if police oppose their demonstration, some of the marchers from Plymouth, Portsmouth and Birmingham attempted to create a disturbance just inside the limits of Greater London.

As Hannington left his Bloomsbury headquarters and stepped into a fast motor car, he said:

"We don't advocate violence. But if the society responsible for the present evils can't be removed, we are ready to use violent revolutionary measures.

SECRET SIGNALS

"If the police use their batons, you can't expect the marchers to turn the other cheek. We are organized as an army with platoons and marshals. The movements of our marchers are directed by a system of secret signals."

Hannington, who calls himself chairman of the National Unemployed Council, was arrested last year for staging a revolutionary disturbance in Hyde Park. British officials charge his organization is financed by Moscow.

Meanwhile marshaling all its forces in anticipation of riots and disorder, Scotland Yard today suspended the leaves of all members of the London police force.

The leave-canceling was in line with the government's firm intention to prevent the marchers, now swiftly converging upon London, from gaining the upper hand in their fight against reduction of the dole.

SOLDIER PERILED

The trouble-makers broke out of line when a soldier, who was watching the march from the sidewalk, began to heckle the participants.

They attempted to intimidate the soldier and to force him to fight, but mounted police interfered and thrust the rioters back into line.

Jobless Riot in East, Woman Leader Held

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—An unidentified woman led about 25 unemployed demonstrators in an attempt to force their way into the City Hall today after being refused an interview with Mayor Sinclair Weeks to ask for money and food.

The woman called on the crowd to follow her and led the assault on Police Capt. Joseph Seaver who had refused to admit them. A riot call brought 40 policemen and the woman and 14 others were arrested.

CAROL SEES MAGDA IN SECRET

Monarch Refuses to Oust Favorite From Rumania

International News Service.

SINAIA, Rumania, Oct. 26.—In their romantic chateau on the pine-strewn hills of the lower Carpathians, King Carol II of Rumania and Magda Lupescu met today, apparently to pledge their love anew.

Secretly, and accompanied only by two close associates, Carol motored out from Bucharest to discuss with his titian-haired favorite the conditions imposed by his divorced wife, Princess Helen, before she will consent to a reconciliation.

The chief condition is that Mme. Lupescu, Carol's faithful companion during his five years in exile and ever afterward, leave the country, stepping down from her position as "uncrowned queen of Rumania."

CAROL FIRM

This condition, it was reported, Carol decided to reject flatly and unequivocally. His decision was reached during his meeting with the red-haired beauty whose fidelity to Carol has split the Rumanian royal family, brought about cabinet crises and aroused the outspoken indignation of large masses of the Rumanian people.

All other conditions, however, King Carol is ready to accept. He will, it is understood, allow Princess Helen at least to share the custody of their son, Crown Prince Michael.

He will restore the royal prerogatives he stripped from her at the time of their estrangement.

He will allow her the palace in Bucharest she has demanded for her own use.

But, it is understood he will insist that Mme. Lupescu, daughter of a commoner and divorced wife of a cavalry officer, remain by his side.

BOLD CONFERENCE

Carol, Col. Dumitrescu and M. Gatoski, two of his chief aides, conversed for a long time with Mme. Lupescu. When they departed, she took her usual walk in beautiful Sinaia Park. Those who saw her remarked that she was more attractive than ever. Her vivacity and youthfulness gave the lie alike to reports that she was on the verge of a nervous breakdown or that she was soon to leave the country, an outcast and an exile.

The effect of King Carol's decision upon the reconciliation efforts cannot be guessed. Princess Helen, it was understood, emphatically stipulated that Mme. Lupescu must leave the country before she will resume formal married life with her husband and be crowned with him.

Identifies Bandits

ROBBED MISS HELEN YOST . . SHE NAMED TWO NEIGHBORS!

Miss Yost, 626 South Parkview avenue, North Braddock, who for Oakland police named two North Braddock neighborhood youths as the two who held up and robbed her and her escort, John Miller, of Munhall, in Honeymoon Circle, Schenley Park. They're held as suspects in many petting holdups. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

GIRL IDENTIFIES PARK BANDITS

Two Braddock youths were arrested today accused of preying on petting parties in Honeymoon Circle, Schenley Park, after a 17-year-old girl victim said she recognized them as the pair who robbed her and her escort. She told police she met the youths at a party a year ago.

Helen Marie Yost, 626 South Parkview avenue, North Braddock, and John Miller, of 434 East Eighth avenue, Munhall, were parked in the Circle in Miller's car last night when two men came up, one of them wearing a mask and the other without disguise. The bandits took $75 and a watch from Miller, and a ring and a small amount of money from the girl, she said.

While the unmasked robber was removing her ring, the girl said, she recognized him. He realized by her expression that she knew him, she said, and drew his cap down over his face. The bandits then fled in an automobile.

Miss Yost identified the youths, she says, as "Dubby" Boyle, of Seventh street, Braddock, and "Chuck" Boley, of Braddock avenue. The police arrested them later, and said they were in an automobile stolen from Mrs. Sara Sommers, of 923½ Greenfield avenue.

Flees One Hospital, Captured in Another

Apostolos Hautraf, 39, of 58 Marion street, slipped unnoticed from Presbyterian Hospital last night and wandered through the streets to Allegheny General Hospital, according to North Side police, who returned him to Presbyterian Hospital.

Hautraf, clad only in hospital pajamas and a bathrobe, left his bed on the seventh floor and walked out the back door. A short time later he was found in Allegheny General Hospital.

ENDS TOUR 'SURE' OF VICTORY

Republican Claims of Sentiment Shift Disclaimed

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Insisting that "the Democratic tide is still flowing strong and that the national ticket will be swept into office two weeks hence," Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, today discounted claims advanced by the Republican party that there had been a definite drift of sentiment to President Hoover in the last few weeks.

Back after a swing to the Midwest and South, the Democratic presidential nominee paid his first visit to Democratic national headquarters here, where he told party workers that he expected to carry "every one of the 48 states."

TRIP ENCOURAGING

Questioned as to his reaction to the campaign to date, Gov. Roosevelt said:

"The trip in every way was not only encouraging, but confirmed my definite opinion which I gathered on the first trip—that the tide set in several weeks ago for the Democratic ticket and is continuing to flow that way and will so continue until the polls close."

The Governor declined to comment on the recent speech of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith in which the latter charged the Republican party with "bigotry."

Roosevelt said:

"I haven't had time to read it."

He also refused to comment upon the statement of Senator William E. Borah that the address of Smith had aided the campaign of President Hoover.

VISITS HEADQUARTERS

Gov. Roosevelt visited national Democratic headquarters, shook hands with hundreds of party workers, smiled genially at crowds which packed the lobby of the Hotel Biltmore, praised the efforts of James A. Farley and his co-workers and waved a battered felt hat in the air as he called out:

"The voice is ragged and the hat is worn out, but I'm feeling fine."

Roosevelt, Jr., Hurt In Football Practice

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., young son of the Democratic presidential candidate, suffered a broken nose in a practice football game at Groton School and today was a patient in Massachusetts General Hospital. But young Roosevelt said:

"I'll be back at Groton this afternoon, and this won't stop my playing football."

HOOVER WORKS ON SPEECHES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—President Hoover arranged today to make a number of brief talks en route to and returning from his fourth major political speech in the Midwest, to be delivered in Indianapolis Friday night.

Mr. Hoover today gave thought to brief speeches he will deliver in Philadelphia and probably in Wilmington, Del., next Monday, while en route to lengthier speeches in Newark, N. J., during the same afternoon and another in New York that night.

With Mrs. Hoover, the President will leave the national capital Thursday night at 11 o'clock, for Indianapolis. A stop of five minutes will be made on Friday in Parkersburg, W. Va., at 8:26 a. m.

Returning, a brief halt will be made at Parkersburg again, for operating changes at 7:05 p. m., Saturday, with rear platform appearances scheduled at Clarksburg, Grafton, Piedmont, Keyser and Martinsburg, W. Va.

Mourning Parents Tell Of Baby's Fatal Drink

A heart-broken father and mother today mourned the death of their baby in their destitute home at 1026 Welser way.

The child, Audrey Luke, 22 months, daughter of Raymond Luke and his wife, Pauline, died in Allegheny General Hospital from oil of wintergreen poisoning, according to the Coroner's report.

Last night the baby ran into the kitchen screaming her mouth was burned. The father found she had swallowed the contents of a bottle of oil of wintergreen he had left on a dresser table. He had used it to dress an injured ankle.

The mother said:

"We took our baby to the hospital. A nurse suggested to the interne the baby's stomach should be pumped out. But he said, 'No, it isn't necessary.' He told us to take the baby home and give it some warm milk which we did. He said it would be all right. We stayed up all night while baby cried. Today she took convulsions. We took her back to the hospital and she died within an hour."

The parents have two other children, Charles, 8, and Arthur, 6.

Dr. G. Walter Zulauf, superintendent of the hospital, said:

"The interne who treated the child is exceptionally conscientious and competent. I am sure he did all that could be done. Some poisons are absorbed so rapidly that use of a stomach pump is unavailing."

Three States on Coast Strong for Roosevelt

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The Pacific Coast, with the election less than two weeks off, can be counted beyond any question of doubt for Gov. Roosevelt.

California has in prospect a half million Democratic majority.

These conclusions are arrived at from a detailed county and congressional district analysis of post-card ballots from three states in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

The Roosevelt sweep of California extends the whole length and breadth of the state, from the Mexican border to Oregon, and from the Arizona-Nevada line to the sea.

Los Angeles County, which embraces eight Congressional districts, the Eleventh to Eighteenth inclusive, has returned a poll re-

COONTZ CARRIES V. F. W. BONUS APPEAL TO WHITE HOUSE

AID FOR WIDOWS AND CHILDREN ALSO URGED

Vet Petition to Hoover Opposes War Debt Cancellation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, the enactment of legislation granting pensions to widows and orphans of World War veterans and preservation of disability allowances, were recommended to President Hoover today by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The appeal, conveying actions taken at the thirty-third national encampment of the organization in Sacramento, Cal., last September, was taken to the White House by Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N., retired, new commander-in-chief of the organization.

OPPOSE CANCELLATION

It opposed cancellation of foreign debts, urged more strict enforcement of laws directing civil service preference for veterans, and said recommendations later would be made for improving veteran rehabilitation and hospitalization. It said in part:

"The thirty-third national encampment respectfully urges your utmost consideration of World War veterans' pension benefits on an equal basis with the widows and orphans of veterans of our previous wars and campaigns. There are approximately 70,000 widows and 105,000 orphans of World War veterans who are not receiving compensation or assistance in any form from the federal government.

"With the honest and sincere belief that it is advocating a measure that will contribute to the economic welfare of the nation as a whole, as well as immediate relief for individual veterans in need, the encampment reiterated its request for immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates. Funds thus distributed will go directly into the hands of 3,500,000 veterans. Taking into consideration the members of their families, the total number who will be benefited by this act will approximate 10,000,000 persons.

RELIEF EXPECTED

"It is hardly necessary to point out that a tremendous relief burden will be lifted from individual cities and communities throughout the country—communities that have already virtually exhausted all available funds for charitable purposes.

"We ask you to consider further the possibilities of national economic relief through the payment of these certificates. Vast sums have already been appropriated by the government for the purpose of credit and loans to commerce and industry. These efforts are commendable but far from adequate in the present emergency.

"The approaching crisis, made more acute by the sufferings and privations of winter, demands drastic action on the part of the government—act on that will actually place directly in the hands of the people, sums of money that will afford at least a measure of relief."

LEHMAN PARTY IN CRASH

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman narrowly escaped serious injury and two members of his party were painfully hurt in an automobile accident east of Egypt last night.

A state highway truck crashed against the Lehman car, turning it from its course. The truck then crashed into an open car containing members of the party and overturned it in the ditch.

John L. A. Halpin, Schenectady Democrat, was hurled into the air about 10 feet and struck on his head and back. He was unconscious when picked up.

George Harder, secretary to the State Democratic Committee, was painfully bruised and shaken.

Halpin and Harder were taken to Rochester.

PHILA. SEEKING ROOSEVELT

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman today said efforts are being made to have Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt make one of his final campaign speeches in Philadelphia. Van Dyke said:

"Gov. Roosevelt has appeared in nearly every major city in the East except Philadelphia. We believe a visit to Philadelphia by the Democratic presidential nominee would make certain the result in Pennsylvania.

"The Pittsburgh meeting addressed by Gov. Roosevelt is said to have been beyond question the biggest and most enthusiastic political meeting ever held in Pennsylvania. We believe Roosevelt will get an even greater reception in Philadelphia if he can be induced to speak there."

PINCHOT URGED TO BOLT HOOVER

Gov. Pinchot may be asked to declare himself as between the candidacies of President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt as the result of a Democratic meeting last night in Sharpsburg, at which Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, was one of the speakers.

McCloskey, attacking the Hoover administration, asked his audience to write to Pinchot and demand he declare for the Democratic presidential candidate. The views of Pinchot and Roosevelt are the same on utility regulation for the protection of consumers, the Johnstown Mayor said, and both are violently opposed to the Hoover principles on this subject.

Having been elected on this platform, Pinchot should now do everything in his power to make his policies effective through national co-operation, it was argued by the speakers.

Al Smith to Leave For Boston Speech

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will leave tomorrow for Boston, where he will deliver his second speech of the current campaign in behalf of the Democratic national ticket.

A series of speeches up-state and in the New England states will follow Smith's Boston appearance.

from Baltimore, the nominee was still asleep.

Mrs. Roosevelt came to the train and greeted him shortly before 8 o'clock. She remained only a few minutes, and then left for the Todd-Hunter School, where she teaches.

GOING TO ALBANY

Gov. Roosevelt will motor to Albany later in the day, and tomorrow he will confer with Republican legislative leaders on the possibility of a special session of the Legislature to provide additional unemployment relief funds. He said he would not be able to return to New York tomorrow night for the torchlight parade and dinner being staged by the actors' division of the national committee.

With the exception of four or five more speeches, Gov. Roosevelt today virtually had wound up his campaign. In the last month, he has traveled 12,000 miles through 40 states.

DEMANDS NEW DEAL

He has carried his demand for a "new deal" for the "forgotten man" from coast to coast, and he has indicted the Republican leaders as representing the forces of "destruction, delay, deceit and despair."

He has demanded immediate modification of the Volstead law with a federal tax on beer which he estimates will bring in $300,000,000 annually toward balancing the budget. He has promised that his first concern, if elected, will be to raise the prices of basic farm crops.

He has taken a stand against payment of the bonus until there is a surplus in the Treasury, and he has called for federal regulation of Wall Street.

Roosevelt closed his campaign swing at Baltimore with a smashing indictment of the Hoover administration, and a reiteration of his demand for beer. He declared:

"No amount of hysteria on the part of a bankrupt Republican leadership will divert the American people at the eleventh hour from the decision they have already reached."

He said he was waging a war in the present campaign against the "four horsemen of the Republican leadership—Destruction, Delay, Deceit and Despair."

G.O.P. Denies Charge Of Mine Leader

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—A stinging telegram from Thomas Kennedy, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, today drew from the publicity department of the Republican National Committee a denial that Kennedy's name had been used against his will in Hoover-Curtis propaganda.

Kennedy, who said his name had been used in a circular distributed by the labor division of the committee, wired the committee that it had "absolutely no authority" to use his name "with any support of the Hoover-Curtis ticket."

Britain Unsympathetic To Marchers, Says Consul

Frederick Watson, O. B. E., British consul in Philadelphia and in charge of the district including Pittsburgh, said here today the 2,000 jobless marchers on their way to London would receive little sympathy from the British people because of the nature of their demonstration.

Watson said the group was protesting the Means act which provides that persons applying for the British dole must show they actually are in need of help. As a consequence, he said, the people at large would not be sympathetic.

The consul and his wife were guests at a luncheon in the Duquesne Club given by S. A. Grayson, British consul here. Tonight they will be honored at a banquet in the Hotel Schenley.

STATE'S G. O. P. NOMINEES HERE

Republican state candidates started a busy day and evening of campaigning in the Pittsburgh district with a reception in campaign headquarters, William Penn Hotel, from noon until 1:30.

Flanking the candidates were William H. Coleman, county chairman; Mrs. Laura J. Hinnau, vice chairman, and Senator James J. Coyne.

Greeting an audience in which women predominated were former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, candidate for the Superior Court; Senator Frank J. Baldwin, nominee for auditor general, and Auditor General Charles A. Waters, candidate for state treasurer. Senator James J. Davis, en route by plane from Washington, was expected later.

Waters, ridiculing Democrats' predictions of victory in Pennsylvania, prophesied Republican majorities in 20 counties in Western and Southwestern Pennsylvania which he has visited recently.

During the evening, the candidates will start on a speech-making tour of the city. James will open in Mt. Lebanon, Waters in Homestead, Davis in Mannerchoir Hall, Nineteenth Ward, and Baldwin in South Side Turner Hall. Congressman Harry A. Estep will speak at the last two meetings.

the quarter was 11,989. A year ago it was 19,202. However, the French rely on QUALITY not QUANTITY.

In addition, population does not mean much now that the airplane has come to distribute poison gas and explosive bombs.

Ten thousand fliers, such as France produces, in first-class swift airplanes, could do more harm than five million men marching back and forth like rabbits on the surface of the earth.

HOUSTON URGES ALDERDICE FACE QUIZ

Examination on Ability As Accountant Asked For Budget Chief

Answering the defense of the office of City Budget Controller made by former Councilman Robert J. Alderdice to City Council, John D. Houston, wholesale grocer, in an interview today suggested a public examination for Alderdice on his ability as a public accountant.

Test questions prepared by certified public accountants might be used for the examination, Houston suggested. He said:

"Alderdice is there as a sort of super-councilman to give the other members of Council ideas. Doesn't it seem strange that a man who has been repudiated by the voters should act as a sort of tenth councilman?

BLAMES COUNCIL

"But Mr. Alderdice is not on trial so much as City Council for creating a useless position.

"I am going to insist on a written statement from Controller J. P. Kerr that his department cannot handle the work being done by the Budget Controller."

Shown a copy of Alderdice's report to Council yesterday, Houston pointed out Alderdice's figures on the assessment of the Houston property at Liberty avenue and Fourteenth street, and said:

"If the assessment of $36,000 on the property is correct, then the city owes us considerable in back taxes. The figure is almost double that. You can look it up for yourself."

An inspection of the City Assessor's record showed the property was assessed at the time of its sale to the Pennsylvania Railroad at $23,200 for the land and 342,200 for the building.

ANSWERS CHARGE

Regarding the canned goods short weight charge, Houston said that a complete answer to that had been set forth in a letter to Council some time ago. He said:

"It was simply a mistake in specifications made in the City Department of Supplies. They asked for medium green asparagus tips in one-pound 15-ounce tins, and there is no such thing known in the trade. They corrected their specifications the next month to No. 1 tins and we got the business."

The Alderdice report in part read:

"When the Pennsylvania Railroad attempted to purchase property for their $14,000,000 improvement they were able to do so from men who owned large tracts of land, except the Houston interests and one or two others. These people demanded many, many times the assessed value of their property, which in the case of the Houston interests was approximately $36,000.

PROPERTY CHARGE

"These people asked Council to hold up the arranagements contemplated with the Pennsylvania Railroad until they could negotiate the sale of their property with the company (which, as the record will show, Council properly rejected). The Pennsylvania Railroad finally acquired the property at many times the $36,000 assessed value.

"Council need not be reminded that Mr. Houston, as a citizen and taxpayer, was notified by Col. Dunlap, the director of supplies, that he had endeavored to supply goods to the city which were not according to specifications."

Alderdice closed with the remark that to determine the merit of Houston's complaint it was necessary to consider the character of the complainant and pointed out the principle that anyone seeking justice should "come into court with clean hands."

Bingham Assails Democratic Plank

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—United States Senator Hiram Bingham, Connecticut Republican, last night described the June national Democratic convention as "a conclave of patent medicine men" who adopted a wet plank "not worth the foam on a stein of beer" and chided United States Senator James H. Lewis, Illinois Democrat, for voting against the Bingham repeal bill.

TEXAS TROOPS AT OIL WELLS

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Additional National Guardsmen and squads of rangers today had been rushed to the East Texas oil field upon orders of Gov. R. S. Sterling to keep the lid clamped on the vast producing area in face of a Federal Court decision holding that existing proration regulations are invalid.

The troop movement was a repetition of the mobilization more than a year ago when Gov. Sterling proclaimed martial law to curb the unbridled flood of crude that undermined the stability of the oil industry and brought prices to the lowest levels in history. The Governor said:

"East Texas will not be permitted to run wild again."

17 Horses Destroyed By Fire in Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Seventeen horses, some of them consistent prize winners in Virginia and other show rings, were destroyed this morning in a fire that destroyed two barns on Birdwood, the estate of Henry Fonda.

GIRL GIVES PUP TO ROOSEVELT

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, when he left Baltimore for New York this morning, carried with him a Chihuahua puppy the present of Miss Bonnie Tubbs, of Havre de Grace.

Hugging the 6-month-old puppy, with a bright red ribbon around its neck, in her arms, the girl tried to reach the Democratic presidential nominee when his special train arrived in Baltimore, but was unsuccessful.

After he had gone to the armory for his address of the night, Miss Tubbs, disappointed but not discouraged, sought the aid of two newspapermen.

She said she wanted Gov. Roosevelt to have the dog because she likes Chihuahua and was "tired of hearing about chows and setters at the White House."

When the New York Governor returned, Miss Tubbs was permitted to board the train and, in the drawing room, placed the smoke-gray puppy in the hands of Mr. Roosevelt. He said:

Borah Irked by Smith But Still on Fence

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Senator William E. Borah, independent Republican of Idaho, told the Associated Press today his vote for President, November 8, "will be determined as the issues develop."

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, commenting on a news dispatch quoting him as saying he would vote for President Hoover but would not stump for him, asserted:

"I have never at any time made any reference as to how I should vote."

NAMPA, Idaho, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Senator William E. Borah, in an address here last night said:

"One of the most effective speeches yet made in this campaign for Mr. Hoover was made Monday night by the distinguished ex-Governor of New York, Mr. Smith."

There is room for honest differences of opinion as to what to do with the Eighteenth Amendment, Borah said, adding:

"But when he calls those men and women cranks, bigots, hypocrites and intellectual crooks—then millions of sincere and patriotic men and women who would control the liquor traffic—he leaves no doubt where respectable people of the United States ought to go."

Hoover, Ritchie to Vie For Indiana Crowds

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—Indianapolis will be the scene of the most stirring two-ring political circus in decades Friday night.

With President Hoover to appear for the Republicans and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, for the Democrats, a spirited contest to raise crowds was in progress today.

There will be no "packed crowd" for President Hoover's speech at the Butler University field house, according to Ivan C. Morgan, Republican state chairman. Morgan said:

"No tickets will be necessary for admission. It will be first come, first served."

The Butler field house has a capacity of approximately 20,000. Cadle Tabernacle, where Gov. Ritchie is scheduled to speak, will hold 10,000 persons.

The parade of President Hoover from the Union Station to the fieldhouse will be countered by a Democratic torchlight procession for Gov. Ritchie.

Morgan said that the President will deliver one of his major addresses here. Arrangements have been made for a national radio hookup to broadcast the speech. The President is expected to continue his criticism of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee.

J. V. THOMPSON BANK'S STOCK PAYS 460 PCT.

$1.16 on Dollar Given Depositors After 1915 Crash

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 26.—Stockholders of the First National Bank of Uniontown, which closed in 1915 with the failure of Josiah V. Thompson, today received $110,000 in dividend checks—the second and probably the last dividend.

However, there probably will be no complaints, for today's dividend boosts payments to $460 for every $100 share of stock. And the depositors have long since been paid $1.16 on the dollar.

Thompson, now broken financially and physically, was president of this bank, which closed when the value of coal lands slumped 15 years ago. With the World War, values skyrocketed, and liquidation was a comparatively happy affair.

TWO WIN SIEGE, KEEP HOTEL

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The three-day "siege" of the closed Franklin Hotel by a former operator and his daughter ended today as the two emerged from their voluntary imprisonment.

Henry H. James, 87, and his daughter, Sarah, had claimed the hotel, ordered closed by a trust company, could be operated at a profit. When all guests were ordered out, they refused to leave. Food was brought to them, and Miss James, one of the owners, communicated with friends by means of a match box on a string lowered from an upper window.

Today, the trust company informed them they could come and go at will, following progress in their plans for reorganization. Miss James came out for her first fresh air in three days.

It was raining, and she went right back in again.

COURT DEMANDS HALL SITE DATA

Allegheny County Commissioners must file an answer setting forth their reasons for refusing to pay $1,100,000 to the Schenley Farms Company for the Nicola Town Hall site.

Judge James R. Macfarlane today overruled a motion of the county to quash a writ of mandamus requiring the Commissioners, Controller and Treasurer to show cause why they should not pay. The answer must be filed in 15 days.

Search Extended For Missing Ohio Boy

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The three-day search for 8-year-old Ebert Holleron, missing more than 72 hours, was extended throughout the southeastern part of Cuyahoga County today.

Fifty neighbors and more than a score of police and schoolmates of the boy hunted for trace of him. Police feared he had wandered along the old Ohio Canal or Cuyahoga River and drowned, or that he may have been the victim of a hit-skip driver who hid the body.

Plate Glass Crash Perils Pedestrians

Nearly a dozen pedestrians narrowly escaped injury today when a high wind blew out a plate glass show window on the Sixth avenue side of the Plaza building.

Norris to Leave Hospital Friday

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Although still in a hospital here recuperating from a severe cold, Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, expects to be discharged Friday and to resume his campaign in behalf of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he announced today.

British Rulers Home After Hunting Trip

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—King George and Queen Mary returned to Buckingham Palace today, concluding their vacation at the royal estate at Sandringham, in Norfolk, where the King has been shooting.

1 Killed, 1 Wounded In Duel on Street

GREENWOOD, Miss., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—George W. Littlefield, a jeweler, was killed and H. G. Kitchell, prominent Greenwood businessman, was wounded slightly in a gun duel on the streets here today.

Ends Life in Grief Over Wife's Death

So the Welfare Fund Got the Money—

GRAHAM M'NAMEE ED WYNN MAYOR KLINE R. TEMPLETON SMITH

The "Fire Chief" on the air last night from the Nixon's stage as a Pittsburgh audience cheered, applauded. The dollars they paid to watch him broadcast went to the Welfare Fund, of which Mr. Smith is president. The Mayor was a sponsor. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

2,000 AT WYNN RADIO BENEFIT

Before an audience estimated at 2,000, Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee and other radio luminaries presented their "Fire Chief" broadcast in the Nixon Theater last night.

The public broadcast, made possible by the famous comedian and his program sponsor, was for the benefit of the Welfare Fund, all admissions going to the fund. An orchestra of 35 Pittsburgh musicians, chosen by Zoel Parenteau and directed by Don Voorhees, and a local quartet were also on the program, broadcasting over a coast-to-coast National Broadcasting Company network.

A short address by R. Templeton Smith, president of the Welfare Fund, followed the program. Wynn then addressed the audience informally. He explained how, through the courtesy of the program sponsors, the theater was wired for the broadcast instead of the usual method of using a local studio for the chain outlet.

Wynn not only lost the theater percentage for the night, but also paid for the wiring, explaining:

"I am glad to do this to help the Pittsburgh Welfare Fund. Although I am not a wealthy man, I have all the money I need. I never want it said of me that I'm the richest man in the cemetery."

Douglas to Testify At Wharf Hearing

John Douglas, Jr., will testify on operation methods of the city wharves tomorrow at a Council hearing. Public Works Director Edward G. Lang has been instructed to appear.

Lang, together with George S. Vang of the Iron City Sand Company; D. G. Aronberg, postoffice contractor, and E. J. Foley of the Bureau of City Property are awaiting trial on a charge of conspiracy brought by Douglas.

A low pressure area, of considerable energy is centered over the lower lakes this morning, lowest barometer, 29.54 inches at Detroit. A trough of low pressure extends southward from this center to the gulf. The low pressure is producing a wide rain area over the central valleys, extending from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. The rainfall was heavy along the Mississippi River. Over the Northwest there was light snowfall. There was a rise in temperature since yesterday morning over the Atlantic Coast states, and a considerable drop over the central valleys. Light to heavy frost occurred over Missouri and southward to Northern Texas. Temperatures are at and below freezing over the Rocky Mountain area and the northern plains, under the influence of high pressure centered over the plateau section.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is zero; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.3; Pittsburgh, 11.1; Dam No. 4, 9.0; No. 6, 7.3; No. 10, 8.2, and No. 12, 7.2. The dams are up.

MISSING WIFE'S FLIGHT BRIEF

A few hours after she had disappeared from her home last night after writing a note on the back of a picture of Adolphe Menjou, film actor, that she was "through with everything," Mrs. Mary Fogel, 19, of 5625 Penn avenue, was found wandering a block from her home.

The young wife was found by Mrs. Ruth Heasley, with whom she had been living since Mrs. Fogel and her husband became estranged.

Mrs. Heasley told police that Mrs. Fogel, mother of a 3-months-old child, was despondent because of the marital troubles.

CHAPEI SHELL BLAST KILLS 4

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—A tragic echo of the Japanese invasion of Shanghai was heard today when a giant shell, hidden in a debris-choked alley in the Chapei district, exploded, killing four persons and injuring 27 others.

Some of the injured, who included children, are not expected to recover.

The shell was found by children playing in the alley-way. Their shouts attracted a large number of passers-by while the souvenir of the bloody Chapei conflict was being eagerly inspected, it went off with a loud blast.

6-Pound Boy Born To Linda Watkins

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—A six-pound baby boy occupied the bassinet today in the home of Linda Watkins, stage and screen star, and her husband, Gabriel Hess, motion picture attorney and financier of New York, Chicago and Hollywood. The baby, born yesterday, will be christened Adam.

FREED SLAYER KILLS WOMAN BENEFACTOR

2d Ohio Ex-Convict To Be Accused of Murder in Month

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Twelve hours after he was arrested, John (Red) Downing, pardoned woman slayer, today pleaded guilty to slaying Mrs. Maurec M. Bonzo, wife of the record and parole clerk at Ohio Penitentiary.

Downing, the second released convict to be accused of murder in Ohio in less than a month, was bound over to the grand jury. He was apprehended last night a few hours after the body of Mrs. Bonzo, her head battered with bottles, was discovered in the basement of her home.

"IMPULSE TO KILL"

Police said he confessed killing the woman, who often had given him odd jobs around her place, because he had an irresistable impulse to kill. Police quoted him as saying:

"I don't know why I did it. She's been like a mother to me."

Less than a month ago, Francis (Mack) Bush, who had been paroled from Ohio Penitentiary only several months, allegedly shot Herbert Quinlan, Cleveland jeweler, to death in an attempted holdup. Bush's companion, Norman Townsend, was slain by police in an ensuing gun battle. Bush, captured, is awaiting trial.

Gov. George White, who pardoned Downing October 6, 1931, after the latter served seven years of a life term for killing Mrs. Allean Williams, 38, in Cincinnati, today told his secretary here he would have no statement to make until he reviews the case.

SON FINDS BODY

The body of Mrs. Bonzo, her head crushed, was discovered by her son, Daniel, Jr., when he returned from school with his sister, Edna, 16. A small card found in the basement and bearing the address of Downing's rooming house led to his arrest.

Taken to police headquarters, Downing for hours held to his denial of guilt, although he admitted he had been at the Bonzo residence about the time of the slaying. He explained he often did odd jobs for the family.

Engulfed in a maze of circumstantial evidence, however, Downing finally shouted his admission, Hoskins said, and then signed the written confession.

The story as given out by Hoskins was that Downing arrived while Mrs. Bonzo was preparing to eat lunch, and followed her to the cellar when she went to get a bottle of gingerale. There he struck her with an automobile steering wheel and with bottles.

MOONEY UPHELD IN U. S. REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—An unfair trial was accorded Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings, it was asserted in the so-called "suppressed report" of the Wickersham Committee, which will be issued tomorrow by a local publishing house.

"Flagrant violations of the statutory law of California" were mentioned in the report on the murder convictions growing out of the fatal Preparedness Day bomb explosion in San Francisco during the World War.

The prosecution and the police were blamed in the document for failure to make "scientific attempts" to find the perpetrators of the crime.

When the Wickersham Committee report was made public, this section was not included, the Senate demanded it from President Hoover later, and after obtaining it, referred it to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

ALABAMA CITIES END BLUE LAWS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The Alabama Legislature today had legalized Sunday movies, baseball, golf and tennis in Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile over the veto of Gov. Miller.

He insisted that a bill to repeal Sabbath day blue laws in those cities be amended to provide for a referendum in Birmingham on the theater clause. The Legislature was adamant and the Governor was, too, so he vetoed the whole thing.

The House of Representatives passed the bill yesterday regardless of his veto. Later in the day the Senate took similar action and now the bill is a law, effective immediately.

Artisan Finds Rum, But No Work Here

This report on social and employment conditions in Pittsburgh was offered in Central Police Court today:

"There's no work in Pittsburgh, judge, but there's plenty of booze."

The "investigator" was Louis Wallace, 33, a Johnstown bricklayer who came to Pittsburgh looking for work but found, instead, booze. Five dollars or 10 days!

Visits Rome in Hunt For Radio Talent

PAROLE 3 CO-ED ATTACKERS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Three former college students, central figures in a so-called "flaming youth" crime of the post-war era, have been paroled from the state reformatory at Pontiac.

One of them, Leonard Rich, 27, has already been released after more than six years' imprisonment. The others, Stanley Hurt and Emerson Wilson, will be freed as soon as the parole papers reach the reformatory.

They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to 13 years each for having beaten and attacked Miss Dorothy Westervelt, Shabbona, Ill., while she, Hurt and Wilson were students at State Teachers College, De Kalb, in 1925. Rich was a graduate of the school.

Rum Auto Plunges Into River, 2 Drown

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Two men were drowned as a liquor laden automobile plunged into the Watauga River near here early today.

They were identified as Paul Glover and Paul Foster, of Elizabethton. Passing motorists found them pinned under the car. Kegs and jars of liquor were piled about their bodies.

Sturges, Former Coal Operator, Dies

SOUTHPORT, Conn., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Clarence Baker Sturges, 58, retired Pennsylvania coal operator and former president of the Pine Hill Coal Company and the Weis Engineering Company of New York, died last night at his home.

'JON' SELECTED AS NAME FOR NEW BABY

Colonel's Affinity for Ancestral Sweden Rules Choice

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 26.—Friends of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were surprised today to learn that two events of yesterday were not quite what they had seemed upon first inspection.

One, that the name of the second child, decided only this week, although the baby was born last August, was not plain John, but quaint Jon.

Two, that Betty Gow, the pretty Scotch nurse, who cared for the first child, who was kidnaped and murdered, had returned to the Lindbergh establishment, not as nurse for the second baby, but as general supervisor of the household.

Both decisions were understandable to intimates, however.

LESS COMMONPLACE

The baby's name was decided upon after weeks of hesitation, with various factors weighting the choice. The name finally was chosen for its simplicity, its lack of connection with any memories, tragic or joyous, but because John spelled in the usual way is so commonplace a name it was thought the other spelling would make it more distinctive.

Also, Jon is the Scandinavian version of John, and the Colonel is known to have strong affinity for Sweden, the country of his family origin.

FAITH IN BETTY

Ever since the tragic death of the young first born of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh the parents have reiterated their faith in Betty Gow, the nurse who was so closely questioned after the kidnaping. Not once have they failed to regard her as a member, still, of their official family. Therefore, it was no surprise to friends to learn she was coming back here to them.

But the capacity in which she comes, not yet clearly defined, has been a surprise. An elderly woman now is nurse to little Jon, it is said. It is thought she will remain either as assistant to or cooperating nurse with Miss Gow.

A guard is reputed to have been hired for constant duty at the Hopewell (N. J.), home of the Lindberghs, which they have not occupied since the birth of the second child.

BARRY CLAIMS LINDY ALIBI

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 26.—(Universal.)—Arthur Barry, debonair jail-breaking jewel bandit, today defied police to connect him with the Lindbergh case. He said:

"I can account for every minute of my time for 10 days before the baby was stolen and for several days after it."

Photographs of children found in the farmhouse to which police traced him Sunday, Barry asserted, were those of relatives. Deputy Chief of Police Brex suggested they might be pictures of children Barry intended to kidnap. He added:

"We are just starting on this Barry angle of the Lindbergh case as a possibility. We are ready to follow the faintest clue."

Col. Schwartzkopf, chief of state police, has already indicated he does not believe Barry can shed any light on the Lindbergh case.

Suspect in Spain Faces Lindy Quiz

SEVILLE, Spain, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—At the request of the American vice consul police today detained a man who gave his name as Jean Saul and arranged to send him to Madrid for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

He was apprehended after the American consulate had received an annonymous note from two American sailors who said they had talked with Saul in a saloon.

Indicted as Writer Of Lindy Threat

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Adam Jazewick, of Claremont, today stood indicted by the grand jury in Merrimack County on a charge of mailing a threatening letter to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in connection with the kidnaping of his infant son.

The letter was alleged to have demanded $10,000 for the return of the baby.

Half Caruso Estate Goes to Daughter

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The estate of Enrico Caruso was closed yesterday by Surrogate James Foley after the opera tenor's daughter, Gloria, was awarded half the total. The accounting of the estate was approved, ending several months' of litigation.

No estimate of the value of Caruso's estate was available. The other half was divided among his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, his brother, Giovanni, and two natural sons.

SCHOOL BUDGET $13,734,520

After a sharp debate with members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board over their demands for a one mill cut in the school tax levy, the Board of Public Education last night unanimously approved the 1933 budget totaling $13,734,520.11. The board had pared the estimated expenditures $105,400.

President Marcus Aaron of the school board attacked the Real Estate Board's budget providing for a tax millage of 10¾ mills, saying:

"What we are being asked to do is commit financial suicide."

The Real Estate Board in its budget proposed additional teacher's salary cuts and suggested that the board in an emergency might use part of the $900,000 now in its insurance fund.

The tax millage will be set November 14.

Former Consul Held In Murder of Girl

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 26.—(Universal.)—Ramon Pesqueira, former Mexican consul-general at San Francisco, was held by police today in connection with the murder of a cabaret girl, whose body was found in his automobile. She had been shot. Pesqueira was intoxicated.

Mexican Catholics Asked to Keep Order

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Oct. 26. — (AP.) — A telegram from Archbishop Orozco y Jimenez, instructing all Catholics to keep order and obey the law, was read in churches here today. The archbishop was exiled last January, going to the west coast of the United States.

CHURCH FUNDS LOST IN FAILURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Institutions of the Catholic Church in the eastern part of the United States stand to lose nearly $2,000,000 through the failure of the Daniel O'Connell Company, Inc., it was disclosed when bankruptcy schedules were filed.

The firm was an investment banking house which did an extensive business for trustees of religious funds. The schedules showed debts of $2,035,182 and assets worth $131,563.

The bankruptcy petition, filed March 10, alleged Daniel O'Connell, head of the company, closed his office in February and went to South America and that he had been indicted for fraud.

He headed the Daniel O'Connell Company and the Cathedral Bond and Mortgage Company, with offices here, in Buffalo, N. Y., and in Dublin.

The first news of his failure came in February when the Catholic diocese of Buffalo attached his vacated $80,000 house in Larchmont, N. Y., in a suit charging him with absconding with more than $500,000.

Widow of Blackhawk, 'Empress,' Dies at 112

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Molly Minthorn, widow of Blackhawk, famous Umatilla reservation Indian, and said by her son, Gilbert Minthorn, to have been 112 years old, died at her home in Thorn Hollow yesterday.

Mrs. Minthorn, known as the "Dowager Empress" of the Pendleton roundups, had not missed a single roundup, although blindness this year prevented her from riding in the pageant. Nevertheless she held court in a tepee near the tra.

Morris Made Head Of Connecting Road

J. M. Morris, former traffic manager of the National Tube Company, has been named president and general manager of the McKeesport Connecting and Lake Terminal Railroad.

Morris began his railroad career as a messenger in the general offices of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, now part of the Pennsylvania system. He became traffic manager of the National Tube nine years ago. The McKeesport Connecting and Lake Terminal railroads are transportation subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation.

IDENTIFY GIRL SLAIN IN DESERT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Fingerprint records of the Los Angeles Sheriff's office today revealed, deputies said, that an unclothed body found Saturday in the Mojave desert northwest of San Bernardino was that of Mrs. Idemia Carney.

Deputy sheriffs said Mrs. Carney was booked at the Los Angeles County Jail July 30, 1930, on suspicion of robbery. She was released for lack of evidence after a short detention.

She gave her age then as 21. The description of the woman found in the desert said she was "about 25."

The body remained at Victorville, where scores have viewed it in the fear that it might be a missing friend or relative. The woman had been killed by blows on the head after a struggle, and apparently thrown, nude, from an automobile.

BROKER GUILTY OF KILLING SON

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—John Roberts, 72, former San Diego real estate operator, was convicted last night of the first degree murder of his son, Earle Lee Roberts, 45, a financier.

The same jury of seven men and five women, which returned the verdict, tomorrow will hear Roberts' attorneys attempt to prove that he was insane when he fired four bullets into his son's body last July 26.

Roberts entered pleas of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity. He pleaded self defense during his trial.

Pittsburgh Nurse Again Heads Group

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Consideration of a program to mitigate unemployment among graduate nurses today occupied the attention of delegates attending the 30th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Nurses' Association.

Tom Mix's Salary Attached by Doctor

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The bank account and salary of Tom Mix, of the films, had been attached by the sheriff today to satisfy a Superior Court judgment of $9,700 held by Dr. Gurn Stout. The judgment was rendered on a claim for services in connection with a recent appendicitis operation.

EXPERTS STUDY RAY BENEFITS

The part smoke and dust play in obstructing beneficial sun rays is under study by experts of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, co-operating with the City Health Department. These experts can tell you when you can acquire a coat of tan and when it is so much wasted time to expose yourself to the sun's rays.

For instance, the rays producing tan were present at most during only 50 per cent of the sunshine hours in Pittsburgh in the summer, and not at all in months during the year July 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932. Some beneficial ultraviolet rays were present 80 per cent of the hours between sunrise and sunset during the year, but not all of this ultraviolet was of a nature to produce tan.

These statistics were placed before the American Public Health Association in Washington, D. C., yesterday, by H. B. Meller, in charge of the Mellon Institute's program of investigation, and Mary E. Warga, his assistant.

Actress Who Sued Attorney Loses

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—A decision in favor of her attorney, R. W. Stewart, whom Vivienne Sengler, actress and writer, sued for $30,000 damages claiming he did not represent her properly in her slander action against the wife of a motion picture director, was handed down here.

Miss Sengler, who once sued Maurice Costello, the actor, charging breach of promise, lost her slander action against Mrs. John Francis Dillon, wife of the director, when the case was non-suited.

"What on earth are you up to now?"

"FINDING things out, smarty! I thought I'd examine the tobacco in a cigarette.

"Look here . . . this is Chesterfield tobacco. Notice its lighter color . . . you don't see any dark heavy types, do you? I guess that's why Chesterfields are milder.

"I'm told that uniformly lighter color is due to cross-blending. It sort of welds all the tobaccos into one.

"And here's something else. Notice that these long shreds are all cut the same width. It stands to reason they burn smoother and cooler.

"I don't pretend to be an expert but it looks to me as if they make Chesterfields right.

VOTERS WARNED TO SEND CARDS

Cards left by assessors in their canvass of the county must be returned to the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes by November 7, in order to be assessed for poll tax on next year's books, according to George E. Meyers, chairman of the board.

In making their house-to-house canvass in the county, assessors left cards to be filled out at residences where nobody was at home. After the first Monday in November residents of the county must appear at the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes in person to be assessed.

FREE DANCES O.K. IN PARKS

It's all right to hold dances in North and South parks as long as they are free, in the opinion of the County Commissioners. They cancelled the permit for a dance tonight issued to Mrs. Georgetta Wehner because it had been reported tickets were being sold at 35 cents each. It was part of the picnic of Independent Republican organization of Hampton Township.

Free Halloween masked dances are to be held from 8:30 to 11:30 Monday night in Spreading Oak Recreation Hall, South Park, and at Parish Hill, North Park.

Duquesne Football Men to Be Guests

Kiwanians to Fete New District Head

Western Pennsylvania Kiwanians will be hosts to the newly-elected district governor, Joseph A. Logan, McKeesport, at a dinner tonight in the Fort Pitt Hotel under auspices of the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh. Other officers of the district also will attend. A program of entertainment will follow the dinner, which supplants the local club's weekly luncheon tomorrow.

Sentence Robber Who Hid in Coffin

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 26.—Estell Smith, who hid in a coffin until after closing time so he could rob a store at MacCorkle, today began a two-year term in Moundsville Penitentiary.

WATER WORKS TO BE TOPIC

Oakmont business leaders will discuss the advantages of the borough establishing its own water works at a dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Oakmont United Presbyterian Church under auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

Albert B. Davidson, president of Tarentum borough council and president of the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association; Attorney George P. Kountz, president, Mt. Lebanon Board of Trade, and Harry C. Lea, Aspinwall borough manager, will speak.

Tarentum already operates its own electric and water plant and Davidson will discuss "Keeping Tarentum's Money out of Chicago." Municipal ownership of water works in Pennsylvania will be reviewed by Attorney Kountz, while Aspinwall's experience with public ownership of electric and water plants will be related by Lea.

'Y' CAMPAIGN MEET TONIGHT

A special "S. O. S." meeting for workers in the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association campaign for $60,000, will be held at the Y, Bellefield avenue, tonight.

At a luncheon meeting attended by more than 100 workers in the Hotel Henry yesterday, Hyman Rogal, chairman of the men's division, reported that $24,000 has been received to date.

Friday afternoon another luncheon meeting will be held at the Hotel Henry. Dr. Philip R. Goldstein, director of the drive, will be in charge.

PACIFIC COAST STRONG FOR ROOSEVELT

sponse showing a 62 per cent Roosevelt sentiment. Applied to the county's 1928 vote, this would mean a Democratic majority of 173,632.

San Francisco County, including the Fourth and Fifth districts and recording a 74 per cent Roosevelt poll return, has an indicated majority of 92,452.

Alameda County, across the bay, embracing most of the Sixth and all of the Seventh districts, has polled 62 per cent Roosevelt, forecasting a 43,058 majority. To this is added 7,940 majority for Contra Costa County, the other unit of the Sixth District, which is 68 per cent Roosevelt.

First, 61 per cent, 18,604 majority; Second, 79 per cent, 28,352 majority; Third, 75 per cent, 47,550 majority; Eighth, 51 per cent, 2,000 majority; Ninth, 75 per cent, 35,264 majority; Tenth, 69 per cent, 30,410 majority; Nineteenth, 59 per cent, 17,856 majority; Twentieth, 54 per cent, 6,264 majority; total estimated majority for state, 503,382.

WASHINGTON STANDING

King County, including the city of Seattle, which constitutes parts of the First, Second and Sixth districts, has returned a 66 per cent Roosevelt vote, indicating a 51,428 Roosevelt majority. Kitsap County, remainder of the First District, has polled 77 per cent Roosevelt, indicating a majority of 3,708.

The Second District exclusive of King shows a 68 per cent Roosevelt standing for an indicated majority of 26,042. Pierce County, the other portion of the Sixth, shows 60 per cent Roosevelt, forecasting a 10,540 majority.

114,624 LEAD SEEN

The Third District, rating 61 per cent, indicates a 5,358 majority. The Fourth, east of the Cascades, polling 58 per cent for Roosevelt, appears to have a 10,690 majority and the Fifth, also east of the Cascades, the Spokane region, shows 54 per cent for a 6,858 Roosevelt majority.

These estimates total 114,624 potential Democratic margin in the state.

In Oregon, the First District, the Pacific Coast section of the state, rates 63 per cent Roosevelt for an 11,076 majority. The second district, the eastern two-thirds of Oregon, polls 60 per cent for a 34,320 Roosevelt lead.

The Third District, embracing Multnomah County and the city of Portland, rates 60 per cent Roosevelt for a majority of 24,180.

Presidential Trend By States

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The abulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

COMMUNITY BUS PLANS PUSHED

Citizens' co-operative bus plans will be discussed before three business and civic groups this week with the Allied Boards of Trade expected to take definite action tonight at its monthly meeting in the Congress of Women's Clubs.

Two meetings are scheduled Friday night. Baldwin Township district residents will be invited to an open meeting of the local civic association in the township building. Attorney W. G. Negley, vice president of the Allied Boards, will outline plans for the Association of Communities.

Directors of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade will hear details of the efforts to provide transportation at 12½ cents as against the present 25-cent fare. Earl A. Reichard, general manager of the Community Transportation Company, organized to provide buses for the community groups, and C. V. Shoup, executive director of the groups, will speak.

Borrows Gun, Dog To Hunt; Shoots Pup

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—John Starbuck had given up hunting today. He borrowed from his friend, Roy Ayres, a shotgun and a prized beagle hound. The dog scared up a rabbit. Starbuck blazed away. The rabbit was killed. So was Ayres' hound.

Shields Addresses Assembly at Tech

Mark Shields, political editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, addressed the student assembly of Carnegie Institute of Technology in Carnegie Music Hall yesterday on the aspects of the political campaign.

WOMAN FIGHTS THUGS IN HOME

MONESSEN, Pa., Oct. 26.—Mrs. James Hubble, 28, of 113 Knox avenue, today battled two robbers in her home to save the weekly pay of her husband, drawn yesterday. Alone in her home at 1 a. m., Mrs. Hubble heard a noise on the first floor and descended to investigate. She was struck on the head and knocked to the floor. The men demanded her husband's pay. She fought for some time, but finally told the robbers the money was in a buffet drawer. They took the money and fled.

Mrs. Hubble telephoned police and furnished a description of her assailants. Hubble was at work.

Sues Over Bullet Aimed at Bandit

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Noble K. Keys, who asserts a bullet meant for a fleeing bank robber, struck him in the knee, today filed suit against the East Side Bank of Commerce for $30,000 damages.

In his petition Keys said the shot was fired by Raymond Ramsey, assistant cashier of the bank, who was in pursuit of the holdup man.

Film Actor Arrested On Alimony Charge

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—James Hall, screen player, appeared in Municipal Court yesterday on a fugitive warrant from New York for nonpayment of alimony. The case was continued to November 4, pending a ruling by the Governor on application of New York authorities for extradition.

CENTRAL AREA BATTLE FACES ROOSEEVLT

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—It's a fight for Gov. Roosevelt from now on in the central industrial states.

Returns of the past week tabulated today in the nation-wide presidential postcard poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States, showed President Hoover leading in the new ballots from Deleware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. Gov. Roosevelt led in Maryland.

Except in Ohio and Pennsylvania the Hoover majorities of the week were not large enough to be alarming, but they were majorities, nevertheless.

In Ohio Hoover received a majority of 1,129 out of 5,621 new ballots.

In Pennsylvania he made it 956 out of 3,914.

In Indiana it was 61 out of 1,677.

In Michigan it was 82 out of 1,270, and in Delaware 4 out of 66.

The net result of the Hoover gains in this group of states was to give him a majority of 266 out of the 44,950 new ballots recorded for the country as a whole since last Thursday. This is the first time during the entire progress of the poll that Hoover has obtained even a small margin on a single complete roundup of the country.

With 553,107 total Hoover-Roosevelt ballots now tabulated in the entire poll period, Roosevelt still holds a formidable majority of 63,565, so that even in the face of the current gains by Hoover, his standing does not appear to be in jeopardy in the poll.

It is in this central industrial area that the major effort has been put forth in the last fortnight by President Hoover and his campaign managers. The President himself has made two excursions into this region on successive weekends for his Cleveland and Detroit speeches and it would be but a natural reaction for him to show some improvement where he has taken his campaign in person direct to the voters.

Manufacturer Held For Hunter's Death

SEATTLE, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Theodore D. Weed, Seattle manufacturer, pleaded not guilty yesterday to a second degree murder charge growing out of the death of Frank Simpson, a restaurant operator, who plunged over a cliff on a hunting trip about two weeks ago.

Before his death from injuries received in the 60-foot fall, Simpson declared Weed criticized him for missing two shots at a bear and then pushed him over the cliff.

Huey Long False To Pone and 'Likker'

PITTSBURG, Kan., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Corn pone and pot likker have lost at least some of their appeal for Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana.

1,500 to Play Cards At Shriners' Party

Tables for 1,500 players will be placed at Syria Temple's Ladies card party, one of the largest the Shrine ever has held, at Syria Mosque tomorrow afternoon. Auction and contract bridge and 500 will be played with 375 first and 375 second prizes. Only feminine members of Shriners' families are eligible. Mrs. Karl Rex Hammers is chairwoman of the honorary reception committee and Mrs. George F. Otto of the card committee.

Soviet Balks 'Gag' On Radio Messages

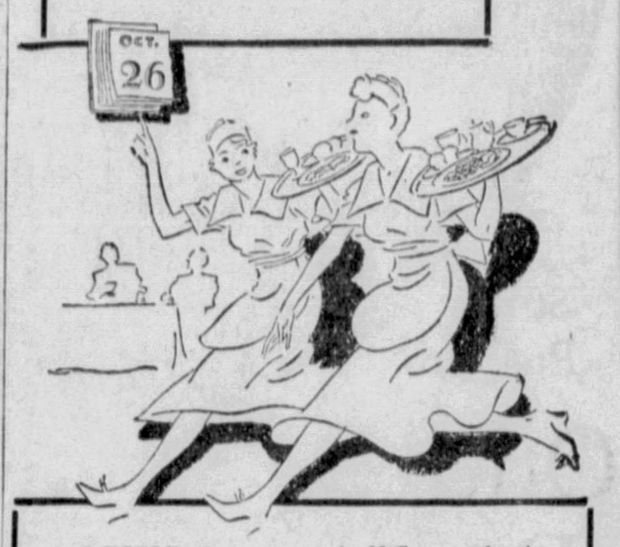
MADRID, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Soviet delegates today blocked a proposal which would have called upon the various governments to take steps to secure the secrecy of all telegraphic communications.

The Russian representatives at the international telegraphic communication conference said it would be impossible to guarantee secrecy in radio communications without granting too arbitrary powers to governments.

day by day we're serving more and more people



PEOPLE who never ate in McCanns cafeteria before are coming up to eat. Maybe they heard of us from their enthusiastic friends who rave about our good food and its downright reasonable price. Maybe they read one of our ads and came up to see for themselves. Anyway, in they come . . . more and MORE every day. And once they've enjoyed McCanns delicious, economically-priced foods, they come back . . . again and again.

Jilted, Plans First Cuban Balm Suit

HAVANA, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Manuel Martinez, a Havana merchant, announced he was going to set a legal precedent by starting a "heart balm" suit, a proceeding unheard of in these parts.

Martinez said he obtained a divorce from his wife in order to marry a girl he had been courting for five years, and then she turned him down.

MOVIE LOT FIRE PERILS STARS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Fire in the "ranch" acreage of Universal movie studio, near here, swept through 50 acres of brushland late yesterday, forcing a troupe of actors and actresses, including Myrna Kennedy and Pat O'Brien, to flee in clouds of choking smoke. No one was injured.

The blaze came within a short distance of Tom Mix's horses and the studio zoo.

Two hundred studio employes and 12 fire companies of San Fernando Valley and Hollywood fought the blaze for two hours before it was controlled.

Ex-Mental Patient Kills Wife in Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—As Melvin Brooks and his young wife sauntered up Madison avenue this morning looking in shop windows, Brooks suddenly stopped, drew a razor from his pocket and cut his wife's throat.

He walked calmly on until a policeman overtook and arrested him. His wife died an hour later in a hospital. Brooks had recently been released from a hospital for the insane.

Did DeSoto start a Vogue!

NINE months ago we said, "Watch DeSoto . . . watch it catch the eye and win the heart of smart America."

And did it? You know the answer. DeSoto has jumped from 14th place in the industry to eighth place. America has voted for DeSoto to the tune of millions and millions of dollars.

Don't misunderstand us. You can see other smart cars on the fashionable avenues. But not in the same price class . . . not by hundreds of dollars.

DeSoto does more than make you smart. It keeps you thrifty too. And it will give you driving thrills that you never dreamed were possible.

USED CARS WANTED! Your old car will probably make the down payment. Prices start at $675 F. O. B. Factory. Floating Power, Free Wheeling, Hydraulic Brakes are a few features. Duplate Safety Plate Glass, Automatic Clutch optional at nominal cost. DeSoto Motor Corp., Division of Chrysler Motors.

JAILED SCHOOL HEAD REVEALS 'DOUBLE LIFE'

Elliott B. Thomas, Redondo school superintendent, here reveals the story of his sensational double life, revealing for the first time the motives which prompted his strange kidnaping hoax.

By ELLIOTT B. THOMAS

(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—I am here in jail for my wife's sake and because I could not go on living a lie.

My life has been just that—a lie—for nearly three years, since I forged my first small pay check warrant and cashed it. There was no way to rectify that first mistake. There was no way to replace the money.

'SHERWOOD' CREATED

Gradually, I became enmeshed and my brain spun with the deception. I knew I could not go on as Thomas. So last April, I became a dual personality, when I deposited $1,200 in a building and loan association and created the fictitious person I called Tom Sherwood.

Summer vacation came and with it the realization that I was more Sherwood than Thomas—to myself, not to my family nor to my many friends. They knew nothing. I was playing a lone hand.

I began to lay plans to kill Thomas and live as Sherwood. That presented a problem. I loved my wife and could not "disappear" and leave her to face the humiliation that would have been inevitable.

On a vacation trip I went as "Sherwood." In a hotel in Portland I met the other woman, Miss Sylvia Wilson, of Seattle. She was a nice girl and I liked her, but did not love her as I love Olive, my wife.

Unknowingly, Sylvia became a pawn in my little game. I said:

"I will marry her as Sherwood and this will complete the effacing of Thomas."

My brain was in a turmoil when I reached Kelso on another trip and rented a little apartment near the Wilson place.

Last Thursday morning I made up my mind to come home.

I could have fled. But I am here to take it on the chin. I am pleading guilty. When my obligation is paid I will start my life anew as Elliott B. Thomas. My wife says she will still be Mrs. Thomas then, and we'll go a new road together.

HELD ON FIVE COUNTS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The grand jury today had returned indictments on five counts of forgery against Elliott B. Thomas, 36, Redondo Beach school superintendent. Bail was set at $10,000.

The indictment is based on forgeries involving $768.50, although Thomas voluntarily confessed that he obtained between $8,000 and $10,000 of school money through use of names of school board members on pay warrants.

Sedition Sentences Upheld in Manila

MANILA, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Sedition sentences of 30 Communists, who staged a demonstration here last year in defiance of police, were affirmed today by the Philippine Supreme Court.

Twenty of the group, including Crisanto Evangelista, leader of the Communist party in Manila, were banished from each of the various Philippine provinces for eight years.

Budget House Open To Evening Visitors

The "Better Homes Budget House," equipped and furnished within a budget of $1,500 by household economic students at Carnegie Institute of Technology, will be open for public inspection in Chatham Village each evening for the remainder of the week, Miss Harriet F. Glendon, head of the department of Tech, announced.

De Valera Drafts Defi to British

DUBLIN, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—President Eamon De Valera today prepared the final draft of the Free State memorandum to the British government outlining the Irish case in the controversy over retaining land annuities and other financial matters.

STATE TO GIVE MORE AID HERE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Despite a decrease of 5,273 in the number of unemployed in Allegheny County, there will be an increase of $5,400 in the allotment of state relief money to the county for November.

The $1,500,000 in state relief funds for November, provided by the 1932 Legislature in the Talbot Act, will be apportioned among counties on the ratio of the number of unemployed, determined in the report for September, made by the Department of Labor and Industry last night.

The report shows 191,621 persons in Allegheny County, or 35.7 per cent of its normal number of gainful workers, were idle in September. The previous report showed 196,894 persons out of work in August, indicating an employment gain of 5,273.

At the rate of almost $1.25 per jobless person, Allegheny County in November will receive $238,891.98 from the state relief fund.

The county's share for October was only $233,490.08, despite the higher number of unemployed at that time.

The $238,891.98 due from the Talbot Act appropriation next month is in addition to any sums granted the county for November by the State Employment Relief Board from the federal relief money advanced to Pennsylvania by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Fulton Services Tomorrow Night

Funeral services will be held tomorrow night in his home for Nelson A. (Cappy) Fulton, 60, a member of the Wilkinsburg police department for 29 years and a night sergeant for the past 18 years.

He died yesterday in his home, 204 South avenue, Wilkinsburg. "Cappy," as he was known to all his friends in the borough, worked until yesterday morning. He had undergone a stomach operation eight months ago. Fulton leaves his widow and two children, Miss Sarah and William Fulton, at home.

BOWMAN SEES GROWTH OF LEISURE

A belief that the present may be an era when men will give less time to earning a living or to the gathering of material things, and more to trying to realize the full richness of the common life by living it more intensely, was expressed by Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, in his bi-annual report to the university trustees. He said:

"Such an era, in spite of its fluctuations, has been coming for a hundred years. Machines, steam, electricity, new processes, and new applications of science, in these years, have been relieving the world of drudgery. Through that fact, we have gained time to think about what we are and what we ought to be; and now, in the present crisis it may be that we are beginning to discover the widths and breadths of our personalities. It may be that we are getting so clear a glimpse of the life which individually and collectively we could live that we should not be willing, if the opportunity comes, to return to the old routine."

After tracing the growth of the university, which, he said, was designed "in high hope in order that we in Western Pennsylvania might carry on with distinction our share in the world's greatest experiment in Democracy," the Chancellor made suggestions regarding the policy of the institution. He proposed:

"To study and to reduce to its simplest form the problem of the use of leisure and, in this light, to devise a constructive plan; to study through a period of years the best ways of achieving a spirit of national unity with a view to their gradual incorporation in the life and curriculum of the university; to revalue teaching ability; to question, in a thorough review of the curriculum of the undergraduate schools, the value of each course offered."

Kline to Attend Fete at Market

Mayor Charles H. Kline will participate in the closing program Saturday night of the fortieth anniversary being observed this week by the South Side Market House Association. The occasion also marks the first year of stallholders' operation of the market house, which was leased from the city.

The Castle Shannon City Boys' Band will furnish the music Saturday night. Harry R. Zoller is chairman and William Bickert secretary-treasurer of the board of directors.

$3,595,000 Bridge Here to Be Opened

The West End - North Side Bridge, which cost $3,595,000 and required two and one-half years to build, will be opened Saturday. Formal dedication will be in December.

Man, Wife Split Over Ownership Of Freak Show

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Four two-legged dogs, two six-legged sheep, one five-legged sheep, one three-legged chicken, one animal reputedly half sheep and half goat, one two-legged cat and a chicken with a "human face" have gone into receivership.

Meantime, Supreme Court Justice Leander B. Faber will try to decide whether the menagerie, formerly comprising a freak show at Coney Island, belongs to Mr. or Mrs. Charles Docen. The case revolves about the legality of a bill of sale given the wife by her husband.

The court appointed Mrs. Docen receiver and released the animals in her custody pending further legal investigation.

DENIES MURDER OF WIFE

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—After listening in silence while officers pieced a story of the finding of his slain wife in a nearby woodland, Jonas Tilden Weaber, white-haired builder, today told a magistrate:

"I am not guilty."

Weaber was escorted through milling crowds to the office of Alderman Robert Kalbach to face a formal charge of murder.

The witnesses were State Trooper Charles Fisher, in charge of the inquiry; Couty Detective Louis Buno, Claude Bensinger, the truck driver who found the body, and Charles Kline, of Reading, for whom Mrs. Weaber worked as a housekeeper.

State police announced shortly after Weaber was arrested as he slept in his car, that he had admitted the slaying.

Rabbi to Address Y. M. C. A. Dinner

Rabbi Edward L. Israel, of Baltimore, authority on economic and social problems, will speak at a forum dinner meeting tomorrow night in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Rabbi Israel is chairman of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and chairman of the Jewish Social Justice Commission. He will discuss the tariff, budgets and other problems of the day.

SCIENTIFIC TESTS SHOW GERM-KILLING POWER OF INHALANTS

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

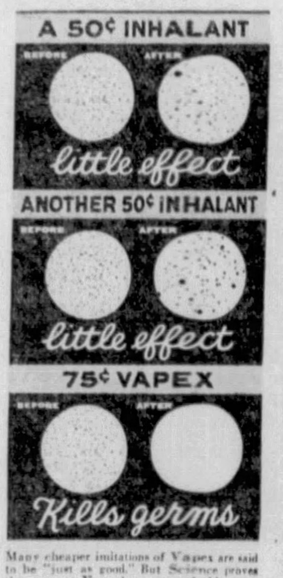
Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants often offered as substitutes for Vapex were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.



Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

THESE photographs of tests on germs always present in the nose during a head-cold, tell you more plainly than words that cheap imitations of Vapex are not "just as good"!

They prove that Vapex kills the bacteria . . . while most other inhalants are almost useless as germicides.

You'll find that Vapex is also the pleasantest way to relieve the distress of head-colds. Breathing the soothing vapor is as refreshing as breathing mountain air. And all you need do is sprinkle it on your handkerchief in the daytime and at each end of your pillow in the nighttime to have twenty-four-hour relief. Always insist on V-A-P-E-X at your druggist's.

TECH PUPILS' ART WORKS SHOWN

By PENELOPE REDD

Today Carnegie Tech extends hospitality to a group exhibition of paintings and drawings by 14 current and recent students in the College of Fine Arts. The liberal policy of the College of Fine Arts is to be commended for encouraging their own fledglings in trial flights on the verge of the professional world of art.

Miss Redd

These paintings were made independently of school instruction and speak eloquently of the teachers' stimulation, although they are free of the teachers' guiding hands.

David Beggs composes exceedingly well, a portrait of a saucy girl of Welsh type. Alan M. Davis glorifies steel workers. James Demarchi romanticizes modern form in an Italianate episode. Charles Dietz best exemplifies contemporary youth in the process of growth in art by the elevation of commonplace objects to an imaginative plane.

Raymond Dowden describes provokingly what has so often been dully stated—home craft in a communting Long Island harbor. Louis Manesiotis has a searching study of the relation of forms in the rich, lower register of color. Louis Mistele approaches the same problem in still life with a purely intellectual conception.

Clyde Mock shows both figure and landscape. Thomas Ryder renders portrait drawing sensitively. Arthur Schaffert essays a difficult theme in white with still life objects. Lorin Thompson, Jr., epitomizes the local atmosphere with a bridge and its cluster of neighborly houses. Lorraine Walsh has a water color of a violinist, "Madelyn." Thomas Wardell adds great variety to the other more introspective paintings by two comments on Pueblo Indians. Martha Ziegler portrays "Adele" in aubergine and jade. The paintings were selected from a larger group by Russel Hyde and Samuel Rosenberg, of the College of Fine Arts. The exhibition will be circuited through the larger towns of the district, following its close at Tech three weeks hence.

PRISON GUARD WINS DIVORCE

James H. Elliott, a guard at the Western Penitentiary, who married Jean D. Elliott May 23, had a divorce today, granted by Judge W. Heber Dithrich.

The couple went to housekeeping at 2033 Termon avenue, where Elliott now lives, and testimony showed the wife left June 23.

Elliott told the court his wife gave back her rings, saying she would not wear them. On another occasion, he charged, she hurled a vase and an ash tray at him.

Margaret McC. Shaw, 3728 Dawson street, has filed a libel in Common Pleas Court asking a divorce from William Shaw on grounds of desertion. They were married July 12, 1912.

Other divorce actions filed included: Edward A. Duffy vs. Marie L. Duffy; Sarah Barsky vs. Samuel H. Barsky; Robert W. Buel vs. Lillian P. Buel.

Ellenbogen Scores Estep as 'Absentee'

Henry Ellenbogen, running for Congress in the Thirty-third District on the Democratic and Independent tickets, last night renewed his pledge for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead act. Ellenbogen spoke at a Fourteenth Ward meeting.

Harry A. Estep, his opponent, was labeled the "absentee congressman" by the Democratic candidate. Ellenbogen said Estep was not present to vote on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill and the Glass-Steagall bill to support the gold standard of the United States.

Mercer Street Raid Nets Rum Prisoner

County detectives raided a confectionery at 15 Mercer street today and reported confiscating five gallons of moonshine and arresting Louis K. John.

He told detectives he is a barber and was only called in to watch the premises. He will be arraigned before Alderman T. M. Geary, charged with violating the Snyder act.

Victim of Fall Dies From Injury

Alfred Holden, 59, of 1608 Locust street McKeesport, died in the McKeesport Hospital today of pneumonia resulting from injuries suffered when he fell down stairs in his home Sunday, according to the coroner's report.

Glider Builders See Doom of Old Swings

Manufacturers of porch and lawn gliders, satisfied they say, that they have swung the old-fashioned wooden porch swing into oblivion, today were trying to swing themselves into a permanent trade organization.

Bigger gliders, particularly styled with six-cushion comfort, will be next year's trend. Trade evils have been freely discussed as a result of 15 manufacturers meeting yesterday in the William Penn Hotel.

Allen Shott, serving as secretary, said a greater market awaited progressive merchandising.

New Cuban Envoy Takes Up Duties

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—Pledging he would do his "best" to bring about better trade relations between the United States and Cuba, Senor Oscar de Cintas, Cuba's first businessman-ambassador to Washington, arrived today to take up the duties of a diplomat.

Flogging Inquiry Delayed for Week

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The preliminary hearing for five men, charged with assault to murder in the reported flogging of Mrs. Sallary Gerringer and her daughter, Ola Bell Gilstrap, originally set for today, was postponed for one week.

COYNE FAVORS MORE JUDGES

State Senator James J. Coyne is preparing to introduce a bill in the next session of the State Legislature to provide two additional judges in Allegheny County, he said today. Coyne remarked:

"I think it would be more economical to provide for two additional judges than to bring jurists from other counties to hear cases."

Informed that court officials declare bringing judges from other counties is more economical he said:

"I will look into that phase of it."

Politician Accused Of Killing Farmer

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Jesse R. Core, planter and former political leader in Jefferson County, Arkansas, was jailed today on a charge of killing a tenant farmer in a dispute over division of the crop.

The Coroner's jury heard five witnesses and returned a verdict that he shot W. J. Glover, 64, without justification.

Shouse Makes Roosevelt Appeal

An address by Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, speaking at the final session of a two-day convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Pittsburgh Area, heads tonight's radio fare on Pittsburgh stations.

Secretary Stimson is scheduled to speak during the broadcast of the session from Syria Mosque from 8:30 to 9 o'clock by WCAE and WWSW. Although the subject of his address has not been announced, it is expected to deal with peace problems and governmental measures toward the retainment of amicable relations with other nations.

Mr. Stimson

Addresses by two speakers in support of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt are scheduled to be broadcast over extensive NBC networks, including WCAE, tonight. Jouett Shouse, former chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, speaks for 30 minutes at 9 o'clock. At 10:30 Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, speaking from Albuquerque, N. M., is presented by the Roosevelt Progressive League.

The life stories of Charles Lamb, the English essayist and critic, and his sister, Mary, are dramatized during the "Sheer Romance" presentation over an NBC-WJZ network from the studios of KDKA tonight at 6:30. The principal roles are portrayed by Claude Morris and Ruth Aston, with Frederick G. Rodgers as narrator. A musical background is provided by the KDKA Concert Orchestra under the direction of Zoel Parenteau with Robert Bodycombe, boy soprano, as soloist.

Program Pointers

A mixed quartet composed of Kathryn Palmer, soprano; Helen Oelheim, contralto; Willard Amison, tenor, and Vernon Jayson, baritone, is featured as guest group with Josef Pasternack and his Melody Moments Orchestra in a varied program scheduled on KDKA at 8:30 tonight. Selections include excerpts from Friml's "The Three Musketeers," Herbert's "Sweet Sixteen," Nevin's "Venetian Love Song" and "Juba Dance," from Dett's "In the Bottoms" suite . . . The Rev. William E. ODonnell, of Duquesne University, discusses "Student Life at Duquesne University" when he appears as guest speaker during KQV's "Pittsburgh Today" presentation tonight at 9.

Miss Oelheim

Aden K. Lowther, tenor, is presented as soloist with a 20-piece concert orchestra under the direction of Josef Edmond during KQV's Concert Hour tonight at 8.

Ruth Etting's version of "Everybody Knows It's Love" and a medley from "Show Boat," arranged by Nat Shilkret, are listed on WJAS during the musical quarter-hour at 10 o'clock.

Carlson, Shields WCAE Highlights

Dr. H. C. Carlson, basketball coach and director of student health at the University of Pittsburgh, discusses athletics in relation to health when he appears as guest speaker during the Trained Seals' program on WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock. Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is master of ceremonies.

Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses the latest national and state political developments during his weekly talk from the studios of WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock.

A diversified program for the children is presented under the direction of Jane A. White on WCAE today from 5 to 5:30.

Speaking from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest news flashes to WCAE listeners daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Listening In

Superstitious Star, Knight Doffs Specs, Marvin's Hard Luck.

Elizabeth Barthell, the young Columbia songster, agitated production men the other night by dashing out of the studio a few minutes before her broadcast, but returned, breathless, just in time . . . And her explanation? She'd forgotten her good-luck piece and simply had to have it although "I'm not really superstitious" . . . Ray Knight, after six years in radio, is having pictures taken without the horn rimmed spectacles worn by his Ambrose J. Weems and fans, all excited, are writing in to ask if he's the same Ray Knight of Station KUKU.

Miss Barthell

Johnny Marvin has no luck at all with the police . . . First his car was stolen and found five days later, two blocks from a New York police station, stripped of its tires . . . The night it was found, Johnny was driving a borrowed "wreck" to visit his sick wife . . . and on the way back to New York it stalled. He sat in the road for four hours, motorcycle police ignoring his hails for help three times and stopping the fourth after he'd taken off his coat and flagged them.

The Boswell Sisters' mamma has put her foot down on the girls' nightly long distance telephone calls from New York to New Orleans.

Radio experts in New York are taking even money bets that four cigaret manufacturers will be sponsoring programs by January 5.

For the last six months the sons of the famous comedians, Gallagher and Shean, have been quietly studying microphone technique and are likely to pop into radio at any minute.

Votes from coaches on the 10 all-America ratings which are broadcast on those football shows every Friday night are sent to Christy Walsh in code so no one can find out who they are before Walsh knows.

HUMES SCORES HOOVER FOR STOCK VIEWS

Certain public utility groups and financial agencies, which Attorney E. Lowry Humes charged last night at a Fourteenth Ward Roosevelt meeting have amassed their wealth by the sale of watered stock, are furnishing the only serious opposition to the Democratic presidential candidate, Humes continued.

Humes reviewed the utility situation in Pennsylvania, claiming that the Democratic party in 1913 had tried to insert provisions in the public service company act for the supervision and sale of stock. The Republican organization then, as now, he said, blocked the effort, and was the friend of the utilities.

He directly linked the Pennsylvania organization's views with those of President Hoover on utilities and securities, quoting a letter of the President written in 1912, published in an English magazine. Humes said:

"In that letter he defended the practices of insiders and promoters who make large sums from stock sales based upon excessive capitalization, using as an illustration the sale of stock out of which the insiders profited to the extent of 800,000 pounds in English money.

"The President wrote: 'From an economic point of view this 800,000 pounds of capital in the hands of the insiders is often invested for more reproductive purposes than if it had remained in the hands of the idiots who parted with it.'

"Is is to be wondered that the utility group and promoters who for years have been waxing fat by fleecing the American investors should now rally to the support of this English authority, who so forcefully justifies the nefarious practices which have contributed so largely to the financial ruin of hundreds of thousands of American investors."

FROHMAN SEES BIRTHPLACE

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Daniel Frohman, internationally known theatrical producer, realized today that fame is peculiar. In his own home town, Sandusky, Frohman yesterday found himself virtually a stranger. And the town, now a city, was almost as strange to him.

The producer visited his birthplace here, a little tumbledown frame house. He said:

"I tried, but was unable to find some of the kids I played with as a boy. But most, if not all of them have passed on."

Retracing his boyhood footsteps, Frohman visited the old show grounds where he "first got the show bug carrying water for the elephants," and went to old Norman Hall, where his father, as a member of a German theatrical company, helped "put on shows."

He found himself a welcome guest at the home of a second cousin, Sidney Fhohman, president of a paper company here, but later departed for Cleveland to address a club meeting tomorrow.

Pythians to Leave For Capital Parade

To participate in the Washington Bicentennial parade of fraternities in Washington tomorrow night, 500 local uniformed members of the Knights of Pythias will leave tonight from the Pennsylvania Station.

Staff officers will include Col. Louis V. Barach, Lieut. Col. Henry T. Jahn, Maj. A. B. Barth, Capts. S. L. Weiner and James S. Reed, and Gen. Maurice Noscoff. The order will occupy first place in the line of march, it being the only fraternal organization with a congressional charter which was signed by Abraham Lincoln.

Millvale, West View Socialists Meeting

Two Socialist meetings are scheduled for tonight, one in Millvale and the other in West View.

The Millvale meeting will be held in Franz Abt Hall, Sedgwick street, with Jane Tait, Robert Heckert and William J. Van Essen as speakers. In addition to Van Essen and Heckert, Sarah Limbach will speak in Ridgewood School, Ridgewood avenue, West View.

Allegheny Valley Democrats to Rally

Allegheny Valley Democrats will hold a mass meeting for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket Friday night in the Grandview High School building, Tarentum. Speakers scheduled include David L. Lawrence, county chairman; Attorneys B. B. McGinnis and William N. McNair, Pittsburgh, and two legislative candidates, Attorney Francis X. McCullough, Cheswick, and Herbert E. Williams, Etna.

Slovaks to Hold Halloween Dance

The Mon-Yough Valley Slovaks will hold a Halloween dance tomorrow night in the Carnegie Library Red Cross room at Duquesne.

Ingram's Halloween celebration will be held in Prospect avenue Monday under the auspices of the Ingram firemen. A mummers' parade will be led by the firemen's band and prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

OBITUARY

Morris Funeral.

Funeral services for W. F. Morris, 82, veteran railroad telegrapher, who died Monday night in his home, 16 Mt. Lebanon boulevard, Mt. Lebanon, will be held tonight. Born in this city, he entered the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was on duty at various station in the Pittsburgh district later being promoted to wire chief at Oil City which position he held when pensioned 17 years ago.

Mr. Morris

He leaves two sons, J. M. and W. F. Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Gumbert, and A. K. Anderson, of Chicago.

Dr. Herbert G. Wertheimer.

Dr. Herbert G. Wertheimer, 53, a practicing physician in Pittsburgh 30 years, and a member of the Allegheny General and St. Francis Hospital staffs, died yesterday at his home, 1451 Bennington avenue, Squirrel Hill. He was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, and was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School. He was a member of the Allegheny County Medical Society, the Medical Forum, the American Medical Association, the New York Academy of Medicine, and Rodef Shalom Congregation. Dr. Wertheimer leaves his widow, a son, Herbert G. Wertheimer, Jr., and two brothers, Louis Wertheimer, of New York, and Edgar E. Wertheimer, of Pittsburgh.

McPherson Brown.

McPherson Brown, a former Ohio state senator, died Monday in Johnson City, Tenn., it was learned here yesterday. He was born in Pittsburgh October 21, 1860, and moved to Ohio when a youth. Mr. Brown was a thirty-second degree Mason. He leaves his widow; a son, Frederick G. Brown, of Steubenville, O.; a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Burleigh, Jr., of Pittsburgh; three grandchildren, and a brother, Charles W. Brown, of Cincinnati.

STORM FIGHTER SNOW VICTIM

SILVERTON, Col. Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Clay Johnson, whose tireless string of pack mules probably saved Silverton from starvation when the town was snowbound last winter, was near death in a hospital here today—victim of the mountain storms he had so often overcome.

The veteran packer received a crushed chest, internal injuries and severe shock when a car he was driving went off Molas pass in a mountain blizzard. Charles Melton, who was riding with him, was less seriously injured.

The two men were found almost buried in snowdrifts, by snowplow crews who spotted their wrecked car 300 feet down a mountain side.

When countless slides covered the Denver and Rio Grande western track into Silverton last winter, Johnson was first into the town with mail and food after days of driving a mule string over the buried railroad.

MYSTERY TRUNK SENT INSULL

TORONTO, Ontario, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Martin J. Insull, awaiting extradition proceedings here on charges in Chicago in connection with the failure of Insull utilities, suggested his receipt of a trunk from the States yesterday should be "put down as a mystery." He said:

"I'd put it down as a trunk mystery. Build what yarn you like about it, but leave me alone. It was sent to me from my home in the States and contained any number of things. Good day."

The trunk was shipped to Mr. Insull, who is staying at Orillia, from his Highland Park (Ill.) home.

Wounded Watchman Gives Holdup Alarm

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Shot and seriously wounded by three men when he intervened in an attempted holdup, Thomas Manning, a watchman, crawled to a nearby corner and turned in a fire alarm that brought five engine companies and a fire boat. The bandits fled before arrival of the firemen, who notified police, took the watchman to a hospital, and then helped round up three suspects.

Talks By Jahncke And Mrs. Scranton

Mrs. Worthington Scranton, Republican national committeewoman from Pennsylvania, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the Navy, will speak at a Hoover luncheon in the William Penn Hotel November 1.

Reservations for the luncheon are in charge of the Hoover Club, according to Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, who will preside.

STATE G. O. P. REGISTRATION JUMPS

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Complete registration totals, compiled by the Bureau of Elections, show there are 49,049 more Republicans eligible to vote than there were four years ago and that there are 33,414 fewer Democrats. Total registration, however, showed a decrease of 59,205 over that in the Hoover-Smith contest four years ago.

The total registration for the coming election showed 3,912,671 men and women qualified to vote as compared with 3,971,876 four years ago. Of the 1932 total, 2,145,317 are men and 1,767,354 women.

Republican registrations this year totaled 2,911,068 as compared with 2,861,919 in 1928.

While a majority of the rural counties showed increases in registration totals on the basis of tax payments, there was a marked decrease in the cities where personal registration is necessary. The city totals will be slightly increased by voters who are able to prove illness or absence from the city on the last registration days.

In addition to the major parties, the registration totals showed 138,216 without party affiliations. Registrations of other parties, including Socialists, were 29,410.

The total number of polling places this year is 8,198 as compared with 8,331 four years ago. Consolidation of districts where voting machines will be used resulted in the decrease.

River Channel Work Contract Awarded

The General Contracting Corporation, of Pittsburgh, has been awarded a $32,172 contract for excavating a navigation channel at Baker Island Bar in Pool No. 9, Ohio River, near Wellsville, O., according to an announcement by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers.

TRAFFIC GROUP ASSAILS COAL RATE DECISION

To give Western Pennsylvania a chance for reduced railroad rates on coal to Northern Ohio territory similar to those of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad, the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau has made formal complaint to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

One of the biggest battles since the lake coal rate fight is expected November 15 at Columbus, O., when the Western Pennsylvania complaint will be heard along with that of trunk line railroads who are seeking to have the Wheeling and Lake Erie reduction thrown out.

The complaint of the Coal Traffic Bureau supports the present reduced rates in Ohio and asks that similar adjustments be extended to Pennsylvania. The complaint of the large railroads was set up in such a way that had the Interstate Commerce Commission found the Ohio rates justified they could not have acted on Pennsylvania rates.

The Coal Traffic Bureau will be represented at Columbus by Attorney August G. Gutheim. It is expected coal consumers of Northern Michigan and Indiana will be present.

Volunteers to Sell Flowers Saturday

The corporation room of the Commonwealth Trust Company in Fourth avenue, has been turned over to the Volunteers of America for use as the downtown headquarters of the Volunteers during their flower sale Saturday. The sale is to raise money to feed undernourished children at the Maud Booth Day Nursery and for supplies for the needy.

Glassmere Postal Tests to Be Held

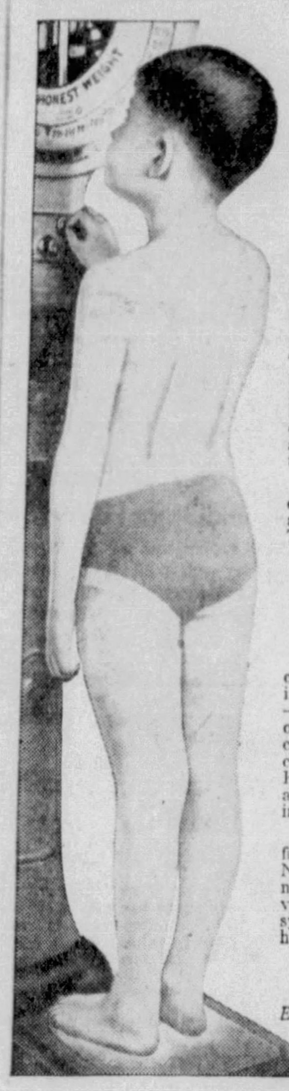
A civil service examination will be held at Arnold, Pa., for the position of postmaster at Glassmere, which pays $1,500. Applications will be received until November 11.



Do this for Your Child in

TWO WEEKS

How to rid any boy or girl of sluggishness or constipation and build a big appetite.

The trouble with children who will not eat is usually stasis. The symptoms are a tongue that's always coated, bad breath, poor color, dull eyes that are often a bilious yellow. No appetite, no ambition—even for play. Hard to get to sleep, hard to wake in the morning.

There's an absolute remedy for this condition. It gives listless youngsters the appetite and energies of a young animal! They eat! They gain! They keep well!

The California Treatment conquers Sluggishness

It's not the stomach, but the bowel condition that keeps children from eating. But the trouble is in the lower bowel—the colon. California fig syrup is the only "medicine" needed to stimulate the colon muscles. The very next day, your child is eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the fig syrup a few days and you will see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight and spirits.

Any drugstore has the real California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Nature never made a nicer acting or nicer tasting laxative. (It is purely vegetable.) Remember California fig syrup when sickness, a cold or any upset has clogged a child's bowels.

WARNING

Even when it's something to give children, some stores will try to substitute. So be sure the bottle says CALIFORNIA Fig Syrup.

Today I can tell you what the surprise is for the entertainment at the Cinderella Ball, to be the event of November 25, and to take place in the University Club.

A group of deb s of last year will give a dance! These alumna dancers will be Rita Borntraeger, Bunny Todd, Katharine Frazer, Lucretia Billings, Martha Yost and Virginia Doyle.

The debs of this season who are in town this winter will give two specialty dances. Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III and Virginia Frew Wright are rehearsing the girls.

With November just a little more than a week off, November brides are concerning themselves with their bridal processions, and with who will be in them.

Bridal Party

Katherine Elizabeth Stewart, who'll marry Porter Sawyer Kier, Jr., on November 18, has selected her bridal party. Katherine, who is the daughter of the George Cope Stewarts, of Butler, will be married to Mr. Kier, son of Mrs. Porter Sawyer Kier, of Darlington road, in the Stewart home at 6:30 o'clock. A reception and dinner for the families and bridal party will follow.

First of all, Virginia Stewart will be her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. John Henry, Mary Louise Miller and Mrs. E. Alexander Hill, Jr., all of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. George Walter Johnson, of New Castle, will be bridesmaids.

Mr. Kier has asked John Howland, of Worcester, Mass., to be his best man, and Samuel S. Scott, William Wolfe and E. Alexander Hill, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and Kenneth Paige, of Chicago, will be ushers.

And I might add that the Jan H. H. Meyers, of New Kensington, will entertain in their home Saturday night in honor of Katherine and her husband-to-be.

Now that we're growing so musical this fall, I feel that musical groups are more interesting than ever.

Choir Benefit

All this is a preamble to the note that the Mendelssohn Choir, of Pittsburgh, is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary tonight. And a benefit card party, a typical sign of the times, will celebrate the anniversary. The party will be held in the Carnegie Music Hall rehearsal room.

It will be more than just a card party. There'll be entertainment by choir members and a gypsy will tell your fortune.

Choir To Sing

In charge of the benefit tonight is Earl M. Leety, assisted by Mrs. Robert H. Heath, Miss Margaret Hays, Mrs. Carleton Collin, Miss Sarah J. Logan, Miss Esther Musick, Donald M. Sallade, Ralph L. Beiswenger, Edward B. Williams and Bayard W. Saler.

After Ed Wynn's broadcast last night at the Nixon, the Chatterbox, the William Penn's new supper room, designed by Joseph Urban, attracted many of the smart set.

Supper Room

Many go to see Urban's latest work. I asked Penelope Redd Jones, our art critic, how she liked the decoration, and she was ever so enthusiastic.

Analyzed play by play, Urban's Chatterbox is about as illogical aesthetically as the rollicking sallies of Ed Wynn; only an expansive personality such as Urban's could harmonize a harlequinade of color with the readiness of Wynn's wit, is her impression.

Like a child blissfully experimenting with gargantuan tubes of paint, she explained to me, Urban plays with tropical vermillion, hyacinth blue, clear lemon, and deep night blue. Naive though the colors be, the space which they express are manipulated by the expert intelligence of the architect.

Play of Colors

This abstract design of syncopated color is personalized by panels that need no signature to identify them as Urban's. Forms derived from the naturalistic motives of flowers—roses and blue bells—form the leit motife of the flowering meadows terminating the long axis of the room. From these meadows spring towering sunfloflwers and banana trees.

Mirrors on either side of the exuberant painted panels serve as the architectural element of the room which acts as the agent to set the room into motion. To this simulation of motion through the reflection of the painted decoration, Urban has added rotating lights that paint the room in motion. When the animation of girls moving gracefully in winsome gowns is added Urban's joyous picture is completed.

Contends More Women Discontented Than Men

More women than men are discontented with marriage Dr. Rachelle Yarros, director of the Illinois Social Hygiene Council, told the Pittsburgh Council of Jewish Women at its opening meeting yesterday. Dr. Yarros advised concentration on marriage as on scientific discoveries or on the economic situation. One reason for marital failure is that women enter marriage for social position or for security and marriage is not recognized as essentially a sex relationship.

Voluntary parenthood, she said, is an essential for happy marriage. The development of woman as an individual as well as wife and mother will compel a new appreciation of the demands of monogamous marriage and lead to a more intelligent companionship and higher type of marital union.

Nearly 700 women attended the meeting, which was held in the Y. M. & W. H. A.

Brushton Girl Has Church Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Blisk, of Perchment street, Brushton, announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Norma Blisk, to Walter J. Deinert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Deinert, of the East End, which was solemnized by the Rev. H. R. Lindke in the Holy Cross Lutheran Church on Saturday.

The bride wore Burgundy chiffon velvet with a small matching turban and veil and carried yellow tea roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Elmer K. Deinert, as matron of honor, wore a gown of blue chiffon velvet and a small turban and her flowers were yellow tea roses. Elmer K. Deinert was best man, and Morris Mosley and Lewis Davies were ushers. Miss Ellen Blisk, sister of the bride, sang, accompanied by Mrs. Morris Moxley.

After an eastern motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Deinert will reside in Brookline.

Mrs. Phillips Mentioned As Federation President

Mrs. John M. Phillips was spoken of as the probable next president of the State Federation by Mrs. Richard B. Perry when she and Mrs. C. C. Taylor gave some especially interesting echoes of the federation convention at yesterday's meeting of the literature department of the Dormont New Century Club. The department began with a luncheon that carried out the Halloween idea both in appointments and menu.

For program, Mrs. R. F. Ewald reviewed Merle Corby's "All Ye People," and Mrs. Charles M. Bregg, club editor of the Sun-Telegraph, gave an "autobiography" of a club meeting, showing the course a piece of news follows in a newspaper office. Mrs. J. Andrew Gettig, a new member of the department, was introduced.

Two Will Speak At Congress Quarterly

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Two addresses, both distinctly worth while, will be program features of the quarterly meeting of the Congress of Clubs on Monday at the clubhouse, Dr. Charles E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools, will speak concerning the proposed 10-year educational plan and the Rev. Frank Edwin Smith, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, will talk on "Some Delusions Concerning Crime." Robert Pritchard will sing, accompanied by Adalaine Merrill Biddle.

Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, always a favorite with Congress audiences, is giving a group of readings at the acquaintance tea which the membership committee is having this afternoon. And on this occasion Mrs. Richard Moon, Jr., vocalist, is making her debut before a Congress audience.

Kerr to Explain City Finances To Voters

Dr. James P. Kerr, City Controller, who is to be the luncheon speaker at the monthly conference of the County League of Women Voters tomorrow, will have "Our City Finances" as his subject.

The Swissvale League of Women Voters announces its opening meeting for Friday at 2 o'clock in the Wilkins School. Party Issues will be discussed by representatives of the Republican, Democratic and Socialist parties.

The County League is sponsoring a political symposium to be held in the Schenley High School on Friday evening, November 4, when the University of Pittsburgh, Princeton, University of Virginia and a western university will be represented.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS DEFY DEPRESSION

Wrigley Users Welcome Dollars.

By MISS MINT

It seems the Depression has had full sway in our lives for some time—we hear of it wherever we go. Most of us are powerless to do very much to lighten the burden of others—but just when this city was at "low ebb"—along came those new, fresh Wrigley Dollars. Dollars that scatter sunshine into bleak lives; that help the really needy; dollars that may mean a great deal, or not so much. However it may strike—a dollar is a dollar today.

I approached JOHN R. STEWART, 4825 Second Ave., in Hazelwood, the other day. "Have you any Wrigley's gum?" I asked. "I think I have," he replied. "Why?" Again I explained about the Wrigley Dollar to which he was entitled for having Wrigley's gum when I approached him. "Oh, boy!" exclaimed Mr. Stewart, "and I thought there was a depression." I asked Mr. Stewart just what appealed to him about Wrigley's, and here's his answer: "Wrigley's is the best gum because it is always fresh." Freshness is one of the most important of chewing gum requisites—and Wrigley's is fresh. Try it, you'll be convinced.

I presented Wrigley Dollars to many, among them:

MRS. SUE MILAN, 5335 Second Ave.; WALTER WAGNER, 309 Polland St.; E. W. GILSON, 307 Winston St.; BERNARD MOWERY, 101 Hazelwood Ave.; MRS. E. D. GRAY, 600 Romnie Ave., McKeesport; THOMAS J. MARTIN, 5139 Langhorn St.; MRS. E. F. ARCHIBALD, 5008 Chaplin St.; JOHNNY GERGACS, 54 Flowers Ave.

Be sure you have a package of Wrigley's always—don't miss a Wrigley Dollar. Be on your toes!

BROADCLOTH COAT POPULAR FOR FORMAL OR INFORMAL WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 26. — The broadcloth coat is a distinct 1933 success in Paris. It is appearing in many forms, from the elaborate evening wrap, heavy with ermine or fox, to the practical little trot-about coat made on the simplest possible lines. It appears in black and brown and navy blue, as well as in the vivid greens and reds that are importantly near the top of the list on this winter's fashion color card.

* * *

CHANEL LIKES broadcloth especially when it is used in an informal way. She uses it for coats that are cut on the fitted line, so that the smooth soft texture of the fabric may show off at its best in long unbroken lines.

* * *

* * *

AS THE sketch shows the coat seams are all vertical and the waistline deftly marked by goring — both features giving an effect of added height. Although the coat is double-breasted, there are only two buttons — and these are of matching fabric, so as to be as inconspicuous as possible. Tailored collar, lapels and cuffs, as well as pocket-tops, are faced with baby leopard.

* * *

THE DRESS worn with this coat, although of the same bright dark green, is of a different wool fabric — a light-weight crepey material. The seams are well marked by double stitching and the pockets are obviously protruding. The buttons which mark the shoulder fastening are of the dress fabric.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

Any Smart Girl With Spunk Can Avoid Insults

All the married men are crazy about Lola—trying to make her!

She admits it, herself.

Yet, the "villyuns" insist on pursuing her—so what's she to do about her fatal charm?

Will we tell her? Will we!!

"Dear Sally:

"There is something I have been wondering about for the longest time, and I hope you can give me a clue to it because it has me worried.

"As far back as I can remember it seems that only one type of man is attracted by me, and that's the married man. At present I am completely at a loss. There is a married man at the office who is around me all day, whispering love words to me. He takes a big interest in everything I do. He has asked me out many times, but I've refused to go.

"When that happens he gets peeved and won't speak to me for a few days. At times I am left alone with him in the office, which absolutely cannot be helped and, of course, he takes the procedure a man usually takes when he is alone with a secretary he thinks he is in love with. However, here is the point:

"I want to get myself out of this mess before it gets the best of me—or him. He is the 'whole works' around the office, and having a good pull with him means a lot to me. Conditions are bad, and on account of him I'm still here. I know that.

WANTS TO HOLD JOB

"I demand respect. I tell him how unfair it is to his lonely wife and baby; how cheaply he is treating me, and how much I want it stopped. Well, it works for the rest of the day, and next day he's at it again.

"I can't leave my job, and I know that if I took steps that would get him in trouble it would mean my job, for if he couldn't 'grab a little loving' now and then, he wouldn't care if I were here. He tells me that if he can't have me, he wouldn't want me to be here.

"Please bear in mind that I never lead him to this, for I've never encouraged him, and he knows it. I've always paid attention to my work. I've never listened to his nonsense talk, either. He claims that for that reason he loves me more.

"How should I act toward him? Should I slight him? Hurt him? It seems as if, when I do, he's just around me more.

"I have trouble with other married men, too, and other girls' boy friends—and very few 'free' men pay any attention to me. What is the trouble? Is it me, or is it they? Please help me. "LOLA."

And so you're just so irresistibly irresistible that they simply can't leave you alone—yes?

G'wan, sissy! That line might have gotten over way back in the 70s, when all the girls were innocent victims and all the boys were vicious villyuns, but it's just another snicker now.

MUST BE FIRM

For you know, as well as I, that if a girl doesn't want to be insulted she needn't be. And those who are, usually work for it.

You claim that you didn't give any encouragement to your present barnacle; but you didn't discourage him, either. Maybe you didn't "listen" or go out with him—but neither did you wall him off.

And I suspect that he picked on you because something about you seemed to say he could. I suspect that you dress flashy, or act flip, or go in for a soft, confiding manner, or let your eyes roam where they shouldn't.

Or perhaps you just kept thinking about romantic possibilities. Some thoughts are as easily seen as gestures, as easily heard as yells, youngster. And any girl who has affairs on her mind speedily has them in reality.

And now what'll you do? Stop being personal. Don't "slight" him, or "hurt" him, or "beg" him to let you alone. Don't temporize with him. Treat him with a business-like reserve and dignity. Don't quarrel with him, but let him know, calmly and firmly, that he is out of order. Any smart girl can put on armor, if she has tact, sense and spunk.

And if that results in the loss of your job? Well, which means more to you—your job or your decency?

But these children who had to be content to follow in the exact footsteps made before them were happy in their wish to excell and add credit to the family calling.

In the new world there is no class distinction, but there is a great lack of class pride.

Young persons are inclined to be contemptuous of whatever class they may be born to. The mania and ambition of their lives is to climb as far from it as possible.

This causes much unhappiness and heartache to both children and parents.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Care of Chronic Bronchitis Essential to Avoid Danger

Chronic bronchitis, like the common cold, is one of the human ailments too frequently neglected. It usually attacks persons of middle age, but may affect children. It may follow an infection of the nose and throat.

Dr. Copeland

In adults the disorder is of a chronic nature, perhaps hanging on throughout the winter months. Frequently it follows a winter cold and cough. Breathing becomes difficult, the sufferer complaining of shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion. A hacking and distressing cough is always present.

Too often chronic bronchitis is looked upon as a minor disturbance. This is a mistake, for when neglected or ignored the persistent coughing may strain the heart muscle. Indeed, most persons with chronic bronchitis have some heart disturbance. The heart may become enlarged and weakened, and unable to carry on its work in proper manner.

Persons suffering from chronic bronchitis are susceptible to other infections. This is particularly true of children. Broncho-pneumonia frequently occurs in little folks suffering from chronic bronchitis. This is a serious complication, especially in children who are delicate and show signs of malnutrition, rickets or some constitutional disturbance. Immediate and intelligent care is necessary because a system already weakened by bronchitis has little, if any, ability to combat a new infection.

Sufferers from chronic bronchitis should practice the rule of moderation in all things. Sudden and strenuous exertion must be avoided and a quiet, well-regulated life is advisable.

Climate is important in the treatment of this ailment. A mild, warm climate is of great benefit.

All infected and decayed teeth should be removed, also the tonsils, if enlarged and diseased. Correction of faulty diet and constipation is important. Regular hours of sleep are essential. When the heart is involved, rest and proper medication are imperative.

Never neglect chronic bronchitis, for it can undermine the general health.

Fresh air and sunlight, needed by everybody, are needed especially by the victim of chronic bronchitis. He is unlikely to make a full recovery without large doses of air and sun, but there is something almost magical in the good effects of the outdoor life.

In the sick room, even, the patient should be warmly covered and given plenty of fresh air and sun through open windows.

Household Hints

Thermos flasks should not be put away with the corks left in or they will become musty.

Add a little starch to the water when washing mirrors, windows, and all kinds of glassware. This removes dirt and gives them a good polish.

Grated carrot is an excellent substitute for eggs when making a suet pudding. One small finely-grated carrot is sufficient in a pudding for two persons.

To avoid those squeaky, sticky casters, before inserting them, dip the shanks in vaseline and then slip them into the legs of the furniture. You will be surprised how easily and quietly you can move the heavy pieces about.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Note of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just been tendered a miscellaneous shower by my very closest girl friend whom I have known all my life.

How should I express my thanks? I see the girl two or three times a week. Is a letter correct? It was held at her mother's home and should I thank her too? H.

Even if you see this girl so often, she would appreciate your graciousness and your sense of appreciation if you write her a note telling her how deeply you appreciate her goodness in planning such a fine party for you.

By all means write a note of thanks to her mother, for her hospitality and friendliness.

Shower Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly give me the correct wording for an invitation to attend a miscellaneous shower to be given a bride-to-be by her sister-in-law and a girl friend, at the home of the sister-in-law? G.

The note of invitation would read something like this:

Dear Mary:

Jane North and I are planning a miscellaneous shower for Dorothy, at Jane's home, on Friday afternoon, at three o'clock, and we are both most eager to have you come. Will you? We are inviting Dorothy's close friends, and I am sure that we will have a happy time. Do you say "yes"?

Dearest love from us both,
Devotedly,

Worth Investigating

Don't just wonder where the smoke is coming from when you smell it. Take a trip through the house to be certain it is not from any place in it. It may be just a neighbor building a new fire—then it may not.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Don't press out the contents of pimples by digging at them with the finger nails. Get an extractor at the drug store and avoid scars.

If the new frock proves to be a tight squeeze, waistline too snug, get in form by torso-turning exercises. Stand erect, hands on hips. Turn the upper part of the body first to the right, then to the left. There will be felt a muscle pull from armpits to hips, and that's what does the business. Casual movement avails nothing. Make the old fibers work, and they'll tighten.

What's time anyway? Nothing but the ticking of the clock. Greying locks and lines around the eyes aren't noticed much when spirits are gay. There's many a dour-faced girl of twenty who is as old as the hills, many a girl of sixty who is tripping about, passing on the bright smile, getting a lot out of life. Being a grandma these days is no disadvantage. By the time a woman is middle aged she should have learned tolerance, sweetness, forgiveness, qualities of beauty that some of the snappy little young fry know nothing about.

Don't pin your hopes to one method of skin cleansing, try all methods. Use soap and water freely unless you have one of those freaky complexions that boil up and get smarty when it comes in contact with soap suds. Before using soap, mop up thoroughly with a cleansing cream. Make several applications, wiping each one away with a bit of old, soft turkish toweling. Remove soap with warm water, dry the skin surface gently, tap in a heavy cream that will give freshness and spirit to tissues that are going lax.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Executing a Grand Coup

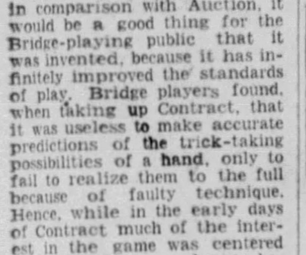
If Contract had no other merits in comparison with Auction, it would be a good thing for the Bridge-playing public that it was invented, because it has infinitely improved the standards of play. Bridge players found, when taking up Contract, that it was useless to make accurate predictions of the trick-taking possibilities of a hand, only to fail to realize them to the full because of faulty technique. Hence, while in the early days of Contract much of the interest in the game was centered in the bidding, as players became proficient in measuring to a nicety the trick-taking power of their hands, they also learned that they must perfect their play.

One of the most interesting and spectacular plays in Contract is the Grand Coup, which requires the ruffing of established cards in one hand in order to shorten the long trump holding so that an adversely held honor, not otherwise capturable, may be led through at the proper moment and captured.

An illustration of the use of the Grand Coup to make a Slam contract is shown in the hand below, which occurred in a recent Duplicate game in Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. Clarence Pfeifer was the only South player to make the contract through her knowledge of the play of the Grand Coup, although all had reached the same contract in the bidding.

South—Dealer.
North and South Vulnerable.



South opened with a bid of three hearts, which North raised to five, and South then bid six. East doubled this contract.

West opened a diamond, which was won with East's Ace. East returned a spade, which Mrs. Pfeifer won, and laid down her remaining spade. She then led her last diamond, which was won in the Dummy. Next the Ten of hearts was led, and the finesse held. This was followed with the 8, which also held a trick. Then Dummy's high diamond was led and trumped. The Dummy was reentered by leading the King of clubs, which was overtaken with the Ace. Now the Queen of spades was led, and South again trumped. The double Grand Coup had thus been carried out. All that was now necessary for making the contract was to find East with two more clubs. The Knave of clubs was led from the closed hand, overtaken with the Queen in Dummy, and the Ten of clubs led to the eleventh trick. When East followed suit, South was sure of her contract, as the lead remained in Dummy, and East had to ruff the twelfth trick, which South could overruff and capture the now defenseless King.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South deals and bids one spade, West doubles and North passes. What is the correct response by East on the following hand:

♠ QJ76 ♡ 9 ◇ 10875 ♣ J1096

Answer: Two clubs. A bid of one notrump would not be correct, because the hand does not contain 1 honor-trick.

TALKIE FEATURES :-: Hollywood Reporter Tells Players' Activities :-: SCANNING STAGE

I. K. S. Players Go in for Symbols

By GEORGE SEIBEL

One of the most ambitious undertakings of a non-professional players' group was offered last night at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, when a manuscript drama by Don Marquis was presented in finished style. "Out of the Sea" is one of the most difficult things that the stage has to deal with—a play full of symbolism and poetry. It is the sort of thing that wrecks even professional art theaters when they attempt to capture its glamor and spell.

Mr. Seibel

Don Marquis has been inspired by Ibsen, Maeterlinck and Barrie in this drama. It is a mixture of "The Lady From the Sea," "Pelleas and Melisande" and "Rose-Marie." It has scenes of poetry, scenes of passion and scenes of drama. In the heart of the action is a mysterious lady who has come from the sea, who has been married to an ogreish elderly person of caveman ways, and who falls in love with a poet visiting the Cornish coast. How they find their love in a cave of the rocks, and how she finally leaps back into the sea where she came from, is worked out in four acts of very intensive dialogue to illustrate the text:

"Happiness is a rare accident. It comes sometimes in brief flashes to those who have learned to do without happiness."

The principal players were Hyman Bennett, Harry Ziff and Hannah Golding—and they did very well considering the difficulty in capturing the mysterious poetry of such a mood. Louis Isaacs has done nobly with the direction, and Kenneth Mulholland has designed two very striking and solid stage settings. Altogether it was a most ambitious project realized with considerable success. The performance will be repeated tonight.

How Dialogue Is Learned

Tricks employed by Hollywood stars in learning dialogue vary from old-fashioned cramming to memorizing all speeches but one's own.

Kay Francis observes an ancient stage superstition. She tears the last page out of her script and throws it away lest she be tempted to read it. On the stage it is considered bad luck to learn the last line of a play before the opening night.

Miriam Hopkins uses a method called "soaking in." She secures a copy of the screen play as far in advance of production as possible and reads it over again and again to become acquainted with the character she is to play.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Forward March," the new Brown and Henderson revue, which had its premiere in Philly last week and is there for another six days, will kick up its heels in the Nixon for a week, beginning Monday, prior to going into the Selwyn Theater, New York, for its Broadway debut. Lew Brown and Ray Henderson, for quite a few years have been successful at writing songs for other fellows' shows. So they up and decided to see what they could do for themselves. "Forward March" is the result. Ted Healy and Smith and Dale will be featured in a cast of youthful vim and talent. Seats will be on sale in the b. o. tomorrow.

* * *

"Blessed Event," comedy that will be presented by the Edwin Vail players in the Pitt next week, represents the company's most elaborate production so far. Instead of a single set, the use of three will be required, and the company will have to be enlarged since there are more than 30 parts in the play. The regular juvenile of the company, Henry Richards, will get more in the limelight than has been his fortune to date, as he has been assigned the leading role, that of a columnist of the Walter Winchell type.

* * *

With new productions opening rapidly in New York, Eddie Vail has seen several artists he had counted upon as guest stars in the Pitt, including Taylor Holmes and Elisabeth Risdon, slip figuratively through his fingers. But he now announces he has one signed up—Blanche Ring. Miss Ring is booked to head the cast in a revival of "Cradle Snatchers," the week of November 21, in which Thanksgiving Day falls.

* * *

Maurice Chevalier, who has spent the summer in that dear France, has cabled that he will sail to arrive in N. Y. November 2 . . . Anita Loos has written an original film story, "Nora," which will emerge as an M-G-M production with Jean Harlow in the title role . . . Clemence Dane, British playwright, who has arrived in the U. S. for a lecture tour, later will join the scenario staff of RKO, which has filmed her play, "Bill of Divorcement" . . . Next Monday, in Boston, there will be a first public performance of a new comedy by Arthur Goodrich, "The Perfect Marriage," which has the approval of the American Theater Society, and which will have a cast including Fay Bainter, Edith Barrett, George Gaul and Ernest Glendinning . . . Jesse L. Lasky, veteran film exec., who split with Paramount last spring, goes back to Hollywood under contract to produce eight pix a year for Fox.

Madness

In Revue

Damon Runyon Story To Be Filmed

"Madame La Guimp," a Cosmopolitan Magazine story by Damon Runyon, sports and feature writer, is the first story purchase announced by Columbia Pictures since A. Everett Riskin, newly appointed studio representative for the company, arrived in New York last week for a brief stay to comb the literary and theatrical markets for suitable screen material.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Sacrifice

FRANK WAS a typical hoofer, even to the press clippings which he always carried around in his pocket and could whisk out at a moment's notice. He was generous and vain and sentimental. If the man was deeply in love with himself, he was even more sincerely in love with Lily, his wife and partner. Lily and the act were the only things in life that mattered to him.

Unfortunately, the audiences didn't share Frank's enthusiasm for the act. It had never played Broadway and probably never would. It was pleasant enough unless you happened to be tired of that sort of thing.

The curtain rose on the interior of a toy shop. Lily was made up to represent a wax doll, and Frank was all rigged out like a toy soldier. There was nothing unusual about him, but you would doubtlessly be attracted by the girl. Her appearance was indeed extremely doll-like. Her eyes were big and blue and starry.

"Well, Bright Eyes," he would gurgle, "we've got something good. Just wait till they see us on Broadway!!"

You can see that his conversation wasn't very original, either. Another of his favorite spiels concerned a chicken farm, saving enough money to live on, and retiring from the stage. But it was all meaningless. They saved no money. And, even if they had, neither he nor Lily would have left the stage as long as their legs held out and while they could obtain a booking. They and their act would have gone on indefinitely had not something occurred during the sixth year of their married life to prevent it.

Lily was leaving the theater one night when she stumbled and almost fell. Frank, steadying her by holding her arm, learned from the blank expression in her eyes that she had not seen the object that had tripped her. He called her attention to it, but she protested that she was all right.

In the morning, however, Frank insisted upon taking her to an oculist. After the examination was finished, the two men went into an inside office and began to talk in low tones.

"Yes," the oculist said gravely, "she is in danger of going blind. She has been using drops in her eyes, she tells me, in an effort to retain their brightness, as she feels that that is necessary to the success of your act. I can't urge you too strongly to see to it that she discontinue this practice. Those drops contain a strong solution which, after a while, proves very harmful. She must stop using them at once if she wishes to retain her eyesight.

"In fact," he went on, "it would be much better for her to take things easy for a while. Give her a long rest and let her eyes have a chance to regain their strength. And remember what I told you about those drops. If she continues to use them, she will certainly become blind."

Frank listened soberly. Then he thanked the other man and led his wife gently back to their hotel room.

"Honey," he said softly, "the doc told me what you've been doing to your eyes. Gee, it was swell of you to do that to help out the act, but you've got to cut it out.

"I'll tell you what we're going to do. I'm going to take you back to New York where there are a lot of people you know. Then I'm going to get a booking alone. After you get better, we'll be able to work together again. But right now you're going to have a good, long rest."

Lily protested. She insisted that she was all right; that the act needed her, and that she didn't want to be left alone. But Frank was firm. He and Lily went back to New York. With his wife settled in a hotel, and with friends to come to see her every day, he was satisfied. After weeks of waiting, he finally obtained a single booking.

The parting was a tearful one, but Frank's last words were very stern.

"Now, remember," he told her, "No more of those drops in your eyes. You're going to do just what the doc said and get better. Promise?"

Lily promised . . .

During the weeks that followed, Frank received letters from his wife almost daily. Everything was fine, she asserted. Her eyes were growing stronger and stronger every day, and she would soon be able to join him again. And she hoped that he was slaying them as a single.

Frank's replies were not quite so joyful. Far from slaying them, he wasn't even slightly injuring them. With Lily in the act, he had been good enough to get by. Alone, he was frankly terrible. All this he tried to keep from his wife, but it would have taken a smarter man than Frank was to keep anything from the woman to whom he had been married for five years.

Frank was a flop. He realized it, and he knew that Lily knew it, too. And that served to increase his unhappiness.

Then, while Frank was playing in the Middle West, abruptly and for apparently no reason, Lily's letters stopped. During the first week, Frank was worried. During the second, he was frantic. And when a third week passed and still no word, he grew panicky.

Frank's imagination ran riot. He thought of all sorts of things. He visualized fires and earthquakes and automobile accidents. Finally, in desperation, he wired to New York to cancel his booking. Because he had flopped so ignobly, it wasn't a very difficult matter.

When Frank reached New York, after a ride that was a nightmare of agony and suspense, he [illegible] the nearest [illegible] the name of Lily's h[illegible]. During the short ride of a few blocks, he was almost hysterical with nervousness and excitement. At the hotel at last, he tore up to Lily's room.

Lily was sitting by the window, almost exactly as he had left her. But one glance told Frank the whole story. Lily was stone blind.

The man threw himself on his knees beside his wife's chair.

"Darling!" he sobbed. "Bright Eyes! I told you not to put those drops in your eyes again. I told you what would happen. You did this for me, but I ain't worth such a sacrifice. Gee, sweetheart, I never knew anyone could love another person so much they would even sacrifice their eyesight!"

The man was in a terrible state. He wept and babbled incoherently about love and sacrifice and devotion. Lily wept, too. But for another reason. It was a reason that Frank learned in later days from someone else, because Lily was never able to tell him. And when he learned it, he never cried again.

Seems that, about a month after his departure, Lily had grown tired of hanging around the hotel room. A man in the next room had invited her in for a drink. The rotten gin they drank hadn't affected him.

But because of the weakened condition of Lily's eyes, the drinking bout had resulted in total blindness for her . . .

BANKERS SCORE HIDDEN DATA

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 26—Secrecy in the operation of holding companies was bitterly attacked by the Public Service Securities Committee of the Investment Bankers' Association at the organization's annual convention, which comes to a close today.

The report declares that the opportunity for questionable practices, if not absolute fraud, has been emphasized during the difficult economic conditions of the past three years.

As a result of recent experiences the report entered a plea that corporate forms be made as simple as possible and the frequent and detailed statements of everything affecting the earnings and financial condition of all companies involved should be given the public so that security holders may not be deceived by complicated intercompany transactions or intercompany contracts. The committee added:

"Reputable firms should refuse to deal in the securities of companies that do not give such information and should not recommend them to their customers."

Mickey Mouse Gives Work to 50

Working alone, it would take a man about two years to turn out a Mickey Mouse reel which varies between 600 and 700 feet in length, being shorter than the usual one-reel feature of 1,000 feet. In the Disney studio it takes a force of 50 men and women two weeks to complete a feature. They alternate between the Mickey Mouse and the Silly Symphony cartoons, producing one of each every month.

Laughton Recovers From 'Insanity'

Charles Laughton, English character actor, has recovered from screen insanity. He will play the role of a normal man in Paramount's "If I Had a Million." In all his screen appearances to date, Laughton has been cast as a madman. These include "Payment Deferred," "Devil and the Deep," "The Sign of the Cross" and "Island of Lost Souls."

Field representatives of the State Department Workmen's Insurance Fund today opened a two-day conference on department problems in the William Penn Hotel.

Pittsburgh, Franklin and Ridgeway headquarters were represented by 25 workers. Sessions were given over to the schooling of representatives in all divisions of the fund.

L. S. Kishbaugh, chief of the claim department, presided. Four other headquarters' representatives led discussions. W. J. Stiteler, Jr., fund manager; Ira P. Armstrong, chief underwriter; Ralph H. Behney, counsel, and Edgar H. Neibert, chief of inspection section. The meeting was one of sectional gatherings throughout the state.

BABY IN COFFIN STIRS MYSTERY

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Police sought to establish the identity of a year-old child, whose body was found today in an expensive coffin on a street between two cemeteries. The child had been dead a year or more.

Norbert Reuter, who lives in the neighborhood of the Holy Cross and Wanderer's Rest cemeteries, which are opposite each other, found the coffin, of gray plush, on West Appleton avenue. Sheriff's deputies removed it to the county morgue.

A name plate of nickel bore these words:

"Our darling."

Although rain fell most of Tuesday night and early today, the coffin was not wet.

Search of the cemeteries will be made to discover whether any graves had been disturbed.

Hurls Baby Carriage, Brick Into Meeting

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—An assailant who injured two by dropping a baby carriage and a brick into an open air political meeting sponsored by supporters of Representative Fiorello H. Laguardia was hunted by police today.

Isaac Hazen, 42, suffered a possible skull fracture when the carriage hit him. A brick fractured the shoulder of Mary Saylor, 29.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However anyone can buy from the druggists a tiny bottle containing directions.

5 TO FACE TRIAL IN HOAX CASE

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Charged with grave robbery, conspiracy to defraud an insurance company, arson and destruction of a human body, five persons are being held for court today after a hearing before an Altoona magistrate.

The defendants are Ross A. Barclay, Altoona insurance agent; Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Fetter, James Irvine, of Hollidaysburg, and Martin Dively, of Scotch Valley.

The state charges the defendants with attempting to defraud an insurance company of $10,000, carried on the life of Fetter.

Corp. Joseph J. Conwell, of the state police, testified at the hearing that after a fire destroyed a shanty several weeks ago, a body was found in the ruins and identified as that of Fetter. A search was started for Fetter and resulted in the man's arrest in Youngstown, O.

Weather 'Prophet' Of Chicago Pit Dies

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—John F. Barrett, 73, whose uncanny knack of foretelling weather at long range brought him a bit of fame and an occasional bit of fortune, died at his River Forest home today.

He earned the title of unofficial weather prophet for the Chicago Board of Trade. Basing his judgment on the direction of the prevailing wind on the Ember days, the days set aside by the Catholic Church for prayer and fasting each solstice, Barrett predicted with amazing accuracy the weather conditions weeks ahead.

Ex-Mountie Gets Pay 47 Years Late

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(INS.)—"Better late than never," philosophized Attorney Harry K. Sargent today as he received a $300 check for his services in 1885 as a member of the Northwest Mounted Police of Canada.

Acid Stomach Torture 6 Yrs. Ends It Fast!

"I had sour, acid stomach for six years. Many times I wished I was dead," says John M. Morgan, Lansing, Ill. "Then I heard of ACIDINE. It surely relieved me. I tell everyone about it."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods that cause trouble. ACIDINE stops burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, ends gas, headache, sleeplessness from acidity and helps digest starchy foods and meals.

Don't run chances of dangerous painful troubles from acidity. Get ACIDINE today from your druggist and note quick relief from sourness, pain and belching. You can eat, drink and smoke as you like. Maker guarantees results that satisfy you or money back.

STILL UNWED! LEAP YEAR NEARING END,

MISS GWEN McHENRY, 19

Blonde Gwen, McKeesport, and Brunette Eleanor, Youngwood, Pitt co-eds who had their thrills out of Leap Year, nearing its end. Miss McHenry proposed, got a white dress with a refusal—but Miss Frank got three acceptances, refused them. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

MISS ELEANOR FRANK

Leap Year 'Flop' To Girls at Pitt

Girls at the University of Pittsburgh think it a flop, say it doesn't mean a thing and believe any year is just as good for proposing.

Pretty 19-year-old Gwen McHenry, of 707 Romine avenue, McKeesport, is probably the most disappointed co-ed of all. She pouted:

"I tried nabbing my man, but the mean thing revived an old custom in return for my affection.

"He did what the Beau Brummels of yesterday did when they refused a proposal. He bought me a white dress."

"It's an old way of saying 'no.'"

Then there is popular Elaine Blauvelt, of the Fairfax Hotel, who turned down a movie offer in order to finish her college education. She said:

"Leap year does not seem to help much. You can do just as much in the other three years."

"I haven't tried it yet. I guess I'll have to hurry."

Quoth Meme McCoy, of 5500 Bartlett street, who edits College Set for the Pitt News:

"It's the same as any year. You cannot keep the fellows quiet in leap year. They speak right up."

And Dorthy Lackner, of 5724 Bartlett street, president of Theta Phi Alpha, joints the chorus with:

"Not many of the girls pay attention to it. It's a good idea if it works, but it doesn't."

One brunette has an entirely different idea. Elanor Frank, of 124 North Fourth street, Youngwood, gives it a mighty boost. She explained:

"I proposed three times just as an experiment and it worked. But, of course when the boys accepted, I refused."

Kline Apathy, Women's Trend Significant

By MARK SHIELDS

Two things are significant as the presidential campaign moves toward its culmination on election day.

Mr. Shields

The second is a slow but distinct drift of women voters toward the President's banner, the last being noted throughout the state.

It is true the Mayor presided at a Hoover meeting in Syria Mosque last Saturday night. But the Mayor did nothing to enthuse the crowd. Republican regulars admitted the meeting was cold, and Kline did nothing to warm it up. More important than that, and of greater discouragement to the Hoover campaign managers here, the Mayor's ward chairmen continue to exhibit a marked apathy toward the head of the ticket.

They are finding in their districts, which they usually can sway, a disposition to vote for Gov. Roosevelt, though generally the same voters will be for the remainder of the Republican ticket. Moreover, they are making no effort whatever to change this attitude of their followers.

The reasons are two-fold. First, the ward chairmen have little interest in whether Mr. Hoover or Gov. Roosevelt is President of the United States. They cannot see how it is going to advance their economic position or cultural aspirations, to have one rather than the other in Washington, despite the rounded periods of the party orators.

Second, there is a municipal campaign coming next year, in which a mayor, five city councilmen, a sheriff and three judges of Common Pleas Court are to be chosen. Those are rich prizes, something concrete in the way of reflected power which ward chairmen can understand and take home to themselves. It is through these agencies that they hold their organizations together.

They want their people in a pleasant frame of mind, not sullen at having been importuned this year to vote for a candidate they do not approve.

* * *

Both Parties Recognize Trend of Women Voters

They want their people in that humor so they will be more amenable to suggestion in 1933, more willing to follow the ward chairman into which ever factional camp seems to offer the greatest hope in the event a partisan war should rise at the primary.

The report on the trend of the women voters comes from several sections of the state. It is recognized by Democratic as well as Republican campaign directors, the former saying if they lose Pennsylvania to the Republicans it will be through the influence of the feminine voters.

Swing of the women voters is coming principally in independent districts and rural communities which, while they have suffered under the depression, have not encountered the real want which exists in some industrial centers. From now until the end of the

COUNTY ADVISED HOW TO SAVE $320,000

Assessment Costs Can Be Reduced, McMahon Says

The City Department of Assessors could furnish Allegheny County with assessment schedules on real estate in the city at a cost of not more than $30,000, a service for which the county is now paying $350,000, according to Thomas C. McMahon, Chief City Assessor, in a talk to the Pittsburgh Chapter, Certified Public Accountants.

This would merely follow a practice already in use by the Board of Public Education, McMahon declared. Both the city and the county maintain assessing bodies to estimate the values of city real estate.

SECRECY DENIED

The city assessors cannot be eliminated, McMahon explained, because only they have been given the legal right to assess certain taxes against public utilities. He said:

"I am for home rule. The local government should make the assessment and furnish a copy to other taxing bodies."

The charge of secret assessments made in the Chamber of Commerce magazine, McMahon declared, is "utterly absurd." Any taxpayer has ready reference to the assessments on any property in the city by coming to the City Hall and asking for the information, McMahon declared.

ADDED BURDEN

The publication of assessments in booklet form, McMahon declared, would simply be an added burden for the taxpayer.

One of the chief causes for increased costs of government is found, according to McMahon, in the attitude of civic bodies who are continually calling for costly public improvements and then crying out for lower taxes.

The Board of Education was criticized by McMahon for employing too many high-priced executives and secretaries. He said:

"The increase in school costs has far outstripped the increase in the cost of the city government."

BALTIMORE FIGURES

He quoted figures from Baltimore to show that the schools there employed 79 clerks to principals as compared with 161 in the Pittsburgh schools, and the cost of music instruction in Baltimore is one half that in Pittsburgh.

McMahon used comparative figures from other cities to defend the costs of various branches of city government. He said, however, that there are many expenses of all three local spending bodies that can be reduced.

"THE GREATEST CLOWN OF THE ANIMAL WORLD IS A HONEY BEAR. CALL THE LION THE KING OF BEASTS AND I'LL PICK AN ARGUMENT WITH YOU—BUT NAME THE HONEY BEAR AS THE COURT JESTER AND YOU'LL FIND ME IN PERFECT ACCORD"

Honey Bears Raised as Pets Are Prize Clowns of The Animal World

CHAPTER XII.

The greatest clown of the animal world is a honey bear that has been raised as a pet. Tame monkeys know plenty about the art of clowning, especially the little rhesus fellows from India, but honey bears are their superiors in the field of plain and fancy comedy. Call the lion the king of beasts and I'll probably pick an argument with you; but name the honey bear as court jester and you'll find me in perfect accord.

The honey bear is the smallest member of the bear family—a coal-black ball of fur which as a new cub resembles in size and shape a chow puppy. Full-grown, he is about one-third the size of our American black bear.

There are several animals that are erroneously known as honey bears, among them the kinkajou of South America, the Himalayan panda, the slow loris of Asia, and the Australian kola bear. None of these are true bears, the last-named being the only one that is even remotely related to the bear family. The true honey bear is to be found only in the Malay Peninsula, Sumatra, Borneo and adjacent islands. And as I've said, he is the greatest comedian in the animal world.

SUFFERED FROM HUNGER

The prize clown of all the honey bears I've handled—and I've brought many of them to this country—was a lovable little rogue who came to be known as Toto. A visitor to my compound insisted that the animal was so like the famous circus clown of that name that no other sobriquet would do. The name stuck.

I picked up Toto on one of my visits to Perak in the Malay Peninsula. He came out of a leaf-lined hole under the roots of a great jungle tree, where he had evidently been left by his mother. I was attracted to his hiding place by a sound of plaintive whimpering. Walking over to where he lay, I found myself confronted by the most wistful-looking bear cub I'd ever seen. As I lifted him up I couldn't help noticing how thin he was. And how weak.

He had been so long in need of food that he was hardly worth saving, but there was something so touchingly affectionate in his manner that I decided to take him along and try to bring him back to health.

My guess was that his mother had gone to scout for food, two or three days before, and had never returned. Many a honey bear that sets out in search of the dainties this species lives on—principally wild honey, birds' eggs and jungle fruits—winds up inside a tiger, leopard or python.

REGAINS HEALTH

It was an even-money bet that this emaciated youngster would not survive the long fast which he had already endured. But if I left him where he was he would soon either starve or be devoured by some beast on the prowl.

The little waif cuddled contentedly against me as I picked him up. He was glad to be out of the dugout where he had lain so helplessly. I put him into my knapsack and carried him back to my headquarters in Ipoa, where I was assembling a big collection of specimens for shipment to my compound at Katong, a few miles outside Singapore. There I laid him tenderly on a shelf and opened a can of sweetened condensed milk which I thinned with warm water to the consistency of ordinary milk. This I placed in a saucer beside him, but he was too weak to stand and lap it up with his long tongue in the ordinary way. So I put the milk into a nippled bottle, and let him lie on his side while he took his first meal in several days. I have never seen milk disappear more rapidly. It was plain that he was famished. I was afraid he would choke to death in his efforts to make up for lost time, and I took the bottle away from him every few minutes so that his stomach could accustom itself to the novelty of food.

A week later the cub was normal, and when I arrived at Katong he was in as good condition as any of the animals I had brought from Perak. His listlessness had left him and he had added several ounces of weight. If there was any doubt in my mind as to whether he was now well, it was removed by the perpetual inquisitiveness he displayed over every little event and happening in the world around him.

ALWAYS IN MISCHIEF

Most of the humor connected with the antics of a honey bear cub has its roots in an insatiable curiosity. He pokes his nose everywhere, investigates everything. In this respect he is different from other animal clowns. The humor of the monkey, for instance, is due to the fact that he is the greatest of mimics. His fun-making is largely confined to his habit of imitating humans. The honey bear's antics are not imitative, but his own, and there is no limit to the amount of mischief that his quenchless curiosity gets him into. Whatever is going on around him is something for him to investigate. He is as tireless as a senatorial committee.

Toto was so tame and so completely attached to me that I saw no need to keep him confined all the time. An animal

WOMAN INJURED IN SECOND AVE. COLLISION

Fall in Path of Truck Fatal, Two Others Hurt in Mishaps

A man was dead and a woman in a critical condition in Mercy Hospital today from injuries suffered when an automobile in which they were riding swerved in the car rails in Second avenue, near Lock No. 1 and crashed head-on into an outbound McKeesport street car last night.

VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

The man was identified from letters in his pocket as David Hampton, 27, of Elliottsburg, Perry County. The woman was identified by neighbors as Mrs. Edna Prost, 43, of 5441 Second avenue, according to police report. She suffered a probable fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

The street car was operated by M. Murphy, of 5205 Glenwood avenue, who was uninjured.

Joseph Mizeweck, 57, of 160 Brosville street, was killed when he stumbled and fell in front of a truck in Manor street late yesterday, according to the coroner's report. John Carey, of 1902 Charles street, alleged driver of the car, was arrested and turned over to the coroner's office.

DRIVER ARRESTED

Mrs. Lena Longwell, 65, of 6727 McPherson boulevard, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a fractured skull and body lacerations suffered when she was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by John C. Valentine, 30, of 1107 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, near her home last night. Valentine was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Elmer S. Zimmerman, 39, of 33 St. Johns street, McKees Rocks, was cut and bruised late yesterday when his automobile collided with another machine driven by John M. Lucas, of 1114 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, on the McKees Rocks Bridge. Zimmerman was taken to Ohio Valley Hospital.

Mary Allen, 30, of 233 Evergreen avenue, Millvale, is in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, with head injuries suffered when a machine in which she was riding collided with another car near Bessemer Bridge yesterday.

ATTORNEY WINS AUTO RULING

Judge Samuel H. Gardner yesterday ruled an automobile driver's license cannot be suspended by the Secretary of Revenue because of a fatal accident, in which the driver was blameless.

The decision was in an appeal brought by Attorney Harry J. Schmitt, whose license was suspended 30 days after his car killed a man at Blawnox last April 4. Schmitt was exonerated by a Coroner's jury, but the Secretary of Revenue, after a hearing, ordered his license suspended.

Judge Gardner held the Legislature evidently intended the secretary should make some inquiry into the circumstances to determine whether there was culpability.

Don't you all remember looking on a map and seeing three little countries called French Guiana, Dutch Guiana and British Guiana? Well, we found and stopped at all three of 'em yesterday. We also flew by (but not too close) to Devil's Island, the famous French prison off French Guiana where Dreyfus was. I couldn't see any inmates playing football, so I will take mine with me good friend Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing. ## Republicans Get Big-Hearted On Death-Bed

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Why does the administration suddenly turn big-hearted in its last 30 days on government earth?

The Republicans have been in Washington a long, long time. So long that they think Home, Sweet Home, means the White House and the garage.

They're like the commandant of the Navy Yard who lived on public property so long he willed it to his relatives.

This Republican stretch has lasted 12 years with no time off for good behavior. And you can hardly blame the boys for not wanting to haul their freight at this time.

But their furious struggles to stay in office are reminiscent of the faithful bank cashier who refused to take a vacation. He didn't want anybody looking over his books.

And their postponed solicitude for the workman, the farmer and the white collar boy arrives almost as late as Wallace Berry's repentance in the big house. Remember when Wallace said:

"Gee, I'm sorry I gave Sadie that ant poison?"

New Zoning Wipes Out Old Volpe Machine

Last vestige of the Volpe political machine in Wilmerding was wiped out when Judge Frank P. Patterson signed an order late yesterday dividing the borough into four wards and naming two new councilmen. The old voting districts that the slain Volpe brothers dominated were changed and polling places designated.

Division was made as follows: First Ward, portion north and northeast of Turtle Creek; Second Ward, portion south and southwest of Turtle Creek; Third Ward, portion southeast of Second Ward, from Westinghouse avenue; Fourth Ward, portion northeast of First Ward.

Instead of seven councilmen, the borough is to have two from each ward. As three of the present councilmen live in the new Third Ward, there will be nine until one of the latter's terms expire. Where only one old councilman lived in the ward, Judge Patterson appointed an additional man. The Council will comprise: First Ward, Kyran J. Boyle and Andrew W. Otterson, appointee; Second Ward, Joseph R. Dick and Frank J. Gunison, appointee; Third Ward A. B. Fox, W. J. Gilmartin and J. W. Carthew; Fourth Ward Julius Peduzzi and Charles Ray.

Election polling places and judges of elections are: First, hose house, Maple avenue, William Potter; Second, room in Episcopal Church, Westinghouse avenue, R. E. Schenk; Third, school in Marguerefa avenue, J. W Clements; Fourth, Gottwals School, Bridge street, John Tucker.

METHODISTS HERE REITERATE FAITH IN PROHIBITION

Actress Denies Plot To Elope With Chaplin

STIMSON TALKS WORLD PEACE TONIGHT

Reiteration of the Methodist Episcopal Church's stand in favor of prohibition was contained in a report to be presented to the Pittsburgh regional conference late today, together with an outline of educational activities concerning prohibition to be undertaken by the church during the next two years.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will address the conference at 8 o'clock tonight in Syria Mosque, when the organization takes up matters relating to world peace.

EDUCATION PLANNED

Dr. J. W. Engle, Moundsville, W. Va., chairman of the prohibition and law enforcement committee of the church, said his committee's report would be concerned largely with the prohibition educational activities. About 12 departmental conferences were held during the day to work on reports to be submitted late this afternoon.

Addressing approximately 450 religious leaders from the five states comprising this "area" and hundreds of interested laymen last night in Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. Irving Fisher, political economist of Yale University, made this plea:

"I hope that the showdown which is to be had at the election will show that the public intends to keep prohibition and enforce it."

POINTS TO CRISIS

He pointed out that those who support prohibition are finding it "in a position more critical today than at any time previous." Asserting that people have forgotten the evils of the saloon and declaring the anti-prohibition propaganda has been helped by the depression, Dr. Fisher said:

"We are told that prohibition costs us a great deal for enforcement, though it pays for itself in fines. They tell us that it will create employment, though it can do so only by diverting it from other industries—the soft drink industry, ice cream and milk, radio, automobile and other industries.

"If the income of the nation is $50,000,000,000 and we spend $2,000,000,000 in the liquor industry, we must take it from elsewhere and must narcotize ourselves into the bargain."

Dr. Fisher said he recognized prohibition is not as successful as "we had hoped" and that it "requires the support of public opinion."

EX-KAISER'S SON OPPOSES CROWN

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Prince August Wilhelm, son of the former Kaiser and a member of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party, tonight declared himself opposed to attempts to alter Germany's present form of government. He told a Hitler meeting:

"The present situation does not admit a change in the existing form of the state."

The Prince made the remark in the course of an attack upon the Stahlhelm War Veterans Association, which he accused of dropping its non-partisan attitude and "reviving memories of old times."

He admitted that his imperial father "occasionally had harkened to bad advisors" and expressed regret that "men of his social status are restarting class war."

Film Blonde Scoffs At 'Secret' Mexican Marriage

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 26.—(INS.)—"Just too silly for words! A Mexican marriage? Why of course not!"

In these words, Paulette Goddard, graceful platinum blonde of the screen, denied with considerable vehemence that she and Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, were planning a secret marriage at Agua Caliente.

She was noncommittal on the question as to whether she and Chaplin planned to be wedded elsewhere in the future, however.

Close friends of Chaplin further scoffed at the Mexican marriage report by pointing out that he must appear in court today to answer a new writ brought by his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, in connection with her fight to secure permission for their sons to take up movie work.

CONFESSES OLD MAIL FRAUD

Nine years ago one Richard Phillips, 43, claimed, at the post-office general delivery window, a letter containing a $400 check. He realized the check was intended for another Richard Phillips, but he cashed it.

Today he admitted all this in Central Police Court and was turned over to postal authorities. He said he had been drinking at the time.

He was arrested when Patrolman Jack Dillon noticed him hanging around the Improvement of the Poor headquarters.

Air conditioning of modern homes will lead sales efforts of the electrical industry next year, it was revealed today at sales conference of the Pennsylvania Electric Association in the William Penn Hotel.

Sales representatives from throughout the state attended. Leaders planned the first concerted merchandising effort to advance the air condition equipment for domestic use. P. H. Powers, vice president of the West Penn Power Company, and president of the association, addressed the meeting. F. H. Stone, secretary, presided.

Doctor Denied Gas, Line Near Home

Although the Columbia Natural Gas Company has a line within 30 feet of his property, it refuses to give him gas from that line, Dr. Charles C. Crouse, of Salem Township, Westmoreland County, testified before the Public Service Commission today. The company answered it is a gathering line from a dozen wells, and it is not the company's practice to tap such lines. The company said it would furnish gas for the physician from another line, but there would be an installation charge. Dr. Crouse offered to pay any expense connected with tapping the gathering line.

campaign the Republicans expect to concentrate on the women voters, endeavoring to portray Mr. Hoover, as they did in 1928, as the man who fed the Belgians.

To this the Democrats intend to reply that he might also have fed the Americans, arguing that a Democratic administration furnished him the money for Belgian relief, while a Republican administration, with Mr. Hoover at its head, was reluctant and lethargic in finding relief money from the U. S. treasury during the depression here.

These cross-arguments mean snappy fighting in the days until November 8, with much of the prior dignity of the campaign forgotten as the party loyalists light into each other.

Though the Democrats lose Pennsylvania, they have done one thing in this election which may help their party in other states. Force of circumstances has put into their hands a weapon which required the presence within the state of Pennsylvania Republican orators who might have been used effectively in other states for the G. O. P. Further, Pennsylvania money which might have gone elsewhere has in greater degree than usual stayed at home to aid in the fight, though there has been no great outpouring.

Davis Restricted by Real Fight at Home

Senator David A. Reed has been available elsewhere, but Senator James J. Davis has not, and the latter is more highly regarded as a vote persuader in many states by the Republican leaders. Senator Davis has the accusations against him in New York and the necessity to make a real fight at home restricting him this year.

It is known the Republican National Committee was counting heavily on Davis for work in industrial districts of the East, and was anxious that he be renominated last spring on that ground—if no other. Then the Republican Attorney General at Washington undid the work of the primary. National Treasurer Joseph R. Nutt has said more than once that Davis is a wonder at winning the worker. He was being relied upon to make the unemployed and those on reduced earnings believe that things are not as bad as they seem.

It is a role Senator Reed cannot play as Davis can, though the senior Senator may pack more logic into a sentence than Davis will into a column. It is not a job that Ogden Mills can do as Davis can, yet he has been used incessantly.

Here's an interesting incident as showing the situation in Pittsburgh. Local Republican headquarters has Hoover buttons and another emblem which is merely the figure of an elephant. Many Republicans are declining to wear the Hoover buttons, but gladly pin on the elephant. Campaign leaders will not admit it publicly, but other Republican politicians say it means the remainder of the ticket will be voted for by citizens who will scratch the leader.

Hostesses Told to Keep Meals Safe for Guests

4 DELAY DOUBLE ELOPEMENT

Two South Hills High School girls were home today planning to resume their studies after a brief disappearance.

The girls left their homes Monday night, planning an elopement, according to Constable E. J. Dowden, of Burgettstown, who found them visiting at the home of a friend.

He said the girls planned to go to West Virginia with their suitors and wed after the excitement over their disappearance died down. Because the parties involved are juveniles the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph omits their names.

Placing of Plates To Avoid Food Spilling Urged

If you would be a perfect hostess, never overcrowd your table. Always place silverware and service plate at least an inch from the table edge, to avoid danger of tipping food into the lap. Do not have the centerpiece too high. Guests may want to look at each other across table. Avoid the over-use of one color. A harmonizing color relieves monotony and brings out color scheme.

Dessert silver should not appear on table until dessert is served. Never use place cards with less than eight guests. Always use at least four candles, with no overtable illumination. Never stack cups and saucers. Always place cups on saucers at tea or buffet supper.

Set water glass at edge of knife; place card directly in front of service plate and napkin to the left of plate. Salads served with meat courses are placed to the right. Bread and butter knife is placed vertically or horizontally on bread plate, never at an angle.

These and other rules for the correct appointment of the American table are illustrated in a series of 11 tables, arranged for display by Pittsburgh clubwomen at Joseph Horne's this week.

Participants in this unusual display are Business and Professional Women's Club, Women's City Club, College Club, Congress of Women's Club, Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, Council of Jewish Women, Daughters of 1812, Farm and Garden Association, Junior Women's Clubs, League of Women Voters and Tuesday Musical Club.

Table arrangements include correct appointments for the informal dinner, buffet supper, a bachelor's Sunday night supper, formal tea, informal bridge luncheon, a bi-centennial dinner, a silver anniversary dinner, a children's party, a football dinner, a Thanksgiving dinner and a formal luncheon.

Two prize-winning tables will be announced Saturday. One will be chosen by these judges: Miss Grace Ely, art consultant of the Research Bureau, University of Pittsburgh; Mrs. R. B. Gardner, editor and social director. The other will be selected by popular vote. Two chests of silver will be given to the winning clubs.

PASTOR FIGHTS LIFE TERM IN POISONING

Convicted of murder by a jury late yesterday, the unfrocked 52-year-old hymn writer looked down at his 19-year-old bride of five months and smiled. Eyes brimming with tears, she tried to smile back. She went with him as he was taken back to the jail cell he has occupied since early August.

Berrie made no public comment. His attorneys said they would ask a new trial and probably would appeal if the request is denied.

District Judge W. J. Crump announced he would pronounce formal sentence next Monday. After sentence, the pastor will be taken to state's prison at McAlister, pending the outcome of a possible appeal.

Jess Doyle, former constable, who was foreman of the jury, said the jurors agreed upon Berrie's guilt on the first ballot and argued whether to make the penalty death in the electric chair or life imprisonment during the remainder of their deliberations, which lacked but 15 minutes of consuming 24 hours.

The conviction was based upon circumstantial evidence. Berrie poisoned his 50-year-old wife, Mrs. Fannie Berrie, last March, in order to pursue his romance with Ida Bess Bright, whom he married May 17.

DEBATE AIRPORT RESTAURANT

The County Commissioners are considering equipping a restaurant at the county airport. A motion of Commissioner Charles C. McGovern to appropriate $5,000 for equipment was tabled at yesterday's meeting for another week's consideration. McGovern objected to permitting a concessionaire to put in his own equipment.

Commissioner William D. Mansfield remarked:

"We have been in office 10 months now and this restaurant question should be settled."

A lease of the Aircraft and Airways of America, Inc., to operate passenger planes from this port was withdrawn by the company. It had been signed by Barr and Mansfield, but had been held up since August because McGovern objected to clauses he said were discriminatory.

Rum Parole Violator Gets Term in Jail

Arraigned on a charge of violating his parole by selling liquor one day after it was granted, Guisseppe Melia, 29, was sentenced to two months in jail and fined $150 by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today.

Melia was placed on probation and fined $150 September 28 for sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance at 1602 Our way. An agent said he bought liquor from the man the following day.

is always better off when allowed to roam the grounds at will. Then he can get all the sunshine and exercise he needs. But of course freedom can be given only to very tame specimens. Toto had five or six companions in freedom, among them a baby orang-utan and a cassowary, a big ostrichlike bird. These "tristies," of course, were put back in their cages at night.

Toto proved a never-failing source of entertainment, amusement and interest from the very day he arrived at Katong, where I lived in a big sprawling bungalow built on concrete pillars rising three feet from the ground.

COVERED WITH DUST

Every morning, as soon as he was out of his cage, he would make a tour of inspection of the house, inside and outside. Having satisfied himself as to everything within, he would go down underneath, first looking over the pillars carefully, tapping them with his paws, as if to see that they still had the proper solidity. Then he would run around each pillar, perhaps suspicious that some foe might be lurking there. Eventually he would become fascinated by the cracks of light coming through the floor above him. The bungalow had the characteristic native floors, laid so that there is a space between boards about three-eighths of an inch wide. This provides ventilation and facilitates sweeping.

One morning I noticed him down there at sweeping time. In the room above, Ah Kee, the tukenia (boy of all jobs), was wielding a broom, as attested by the dust that came flying down, filling Toto's eyes and nose and furry coat. Impatiently he pawed it out of his eyes and sneezed it from his nose. But he stood his ground, looking up with a questioning frown as he studied the situation.

I went on back to the compound and returned a half-hour later. There was Toto in the center of the living room, shaking himself and distributing a cloud of dust which he had collected down below. Angrily Ah Kee picked up the little mischief-maker and administered a spanking, which only resulted in sending new clouds of dust flying in all directions. The more he wallopect the dusty offender the more work he made for himself. Finally the outraged tukenia took the little rogue by the scruff of the neck and sent him flying onto the lawn.

TOUCHDOWNS IN 36 STRAIGHT GAMES

A REMARKABLE FOOTBALL achievement stands to the credit of Purdue. When Fullback Roy Horstmann, crashed over Northwestern's goal line last Saturday it marked the thirty-sixth consecutive game in which Nobel Kizer's gridders had scored one or more touchdowns. That sets a new modern scoring record, the previous mark having been 35 straight, established by Notre Dame.

Nobel Kizer

Purdue has not been shut out in four years, the last blank having been suffered on October 13, 1928, when the Boilermakers were beaten 15 to 0 by Minnesota at Minneapolis. Since that date, in her 36 games, Purdue has met 20 different opponents. Wisconsin has been faced five times; Chicago, Iowa and Indiana four times each; Northwestern three times; Michigan and Illinois twice each, and Carnegie Tech, Minnesota, Wabash, Western Reserve, Case, Coe, Kansas State, Kansas Aggies, Mississippi, Baylor, Centenary, Butler and De Pauw once each, but in no instance did Purdue fail to cross the enemy goal line once or oftener. Prior to the Minnesota shutouts in 1928, Purdue scored in 11 consecutive contests, so that the Boilermakers have been held scoreless only once in their last 48 games.

AMONG PRESENT-DAY defensive records in football it would be hard to find one better than that standing to the credit of the University of Michigan. Taking in the latter part of the 1931 season, the Wolverines have been scored on in only one of their last 10 games and even then allowed just six points, or one touchdown.

After losing to Ohio State last year, Michigan defeated Illinois, Princeton, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin by shutout scores and played a scoreless tie with Michigan State. This year Michigan State was blanked in the opening game to make it seven straight shutouts. Then the streak was broken in the 15-to-6 victory over Northwestern, and in the last two games Ohio State and Illinois were held scoreless.

THIS SUBJECT OF defensive excellence was brought up at a gathering of prominent Eastern coaches recently, with the result that a high tribute was paid to a product of Western Pennsylvania.

Asked whom they rated as the outstanding competent man of their ranks in the matter of defensive strategy, the Eastern mentors to a man named an absent brother—Tuss McLaughrey, Brown head coach, former fullback and coach at Westminster College. Only one touchdown has been made against McLaughrey's gridders in four games this year. Yale scored in defeat, but only through the medium of a safety.

YOU'D IMAGINE THAT if Pop Warner were ever to make any headway against the Southern California jinx, he'd make it on his home field. But it hasn't worked out that way. Stanford never has beaten the Trojans at Palo Alto since the two institutions resumed American football in 1918, six years before Warner went to the coast to coach. The only victories were in 1925 and 1926 and both were scored in Los Angeles. So last Saturday's result was merely the continuance of an old story, with Warner getting the worst of it, as usual. In all his long coaching career, which started way back in 1894 at Georgia, Pop has had no rival who stopped him so completely as Howard Jones.

Howard Jones

WARNER HAD THE edge in the early competition. When he first met Jones in 1908, Pop's Carlisle Indians defeated Howard's Syracuse team, 12 to 0, with Jim Thorpe making all the points. As Stanford coach, Warner won decisions over Jones and Southern California in 1925 and 1926 and got a tie in 1927.

But since then it has been all Jones. Not only has Howard won five times in succession, but in four of the five games Stanford failed to score. In eight meetings, Stanford never has shut out the Trojans. All told, Southern California has made 124 points to Stanford's 51. Since the tie game in 1927, Stanford has scored only two touchdowns to 13 for the Trojans.

ROGERS HORNSBY again has shown himself to be a most unusual individual by crashing right back to a major league job as a player with the Cardinals when indications were that all doors in baseball's big show would be closed against him. That Hornsby can get his legs back into shape for regular playing duty may be doubted by many fans, but speculation may be in order as to how much longer Gabby Street will last as manager, but that's the St. Louis club's business. It ought to know what it is doing.

Whatever the outcome, the Cardinal owners must be given credit for a nice gesture in extending a helping hand to a man who aided them in his better days, now when jobs are scarce and the remainder of the baseball world appeared to have turned thumbs down on him.

ONE MORE VETERAN coach has been shunted out of the major leagues, to follow Jack Onslow, Ivan Olson, Dave Bancroft, John Corriden and Clyde Wares. The latest to draw an unconditional release is Jimmy Austin, who has spent 22 years with the Browns as player, manager and coach. Austin served two short terms as manager of the Browns, replacing George Stovall late in 1913 and succeeding Lee Fohl in midsummer of 1923. During his long stay with the St. Louis club, Jimmy worked under nine managers—Bobby Wallace, Stovall, Branch Rickey, Fielder Jones, Jimmy Burke, Fohl, George Sisler, Dan Howley and Bill Killefer.

THOUGH GAINING ANOTHER convert to coast training for next spring in the Chicago American League club, California has lost a former spring visitor in the decision of the Detroit club to train in 1933 in San Antonio, Tex., where the Tigers prepared in 1928.

For the last two years Detroit has trained in California. This is the third training shift announced by big league clubs for next spring. In addition to the changes made by the White Sox and Tigers, Max Carey will move the Dodger camp in Florida from Clearwater to Miami.

THE WHITE SOX management has served notice on California fans that all those wishing to see the club in spring training action can do so only while the sun is shining. Night games will be taboo, the club officials taking the view that a team preparing to play in daylight cannot condition itself properly under artificial light.

Pony McAtee

The Pale Hose bosses also express the belief that night games by big leaguers would not be good baseball exhibitions for the fans. They noted that major league barnstormers playing in Los Angeles recently were unable to judge or time the ball in night games, either at bat or in the field, even Jimmy Foxx being unable to get anything resembling a hit.

THE OLD GUARD is passing out from the ranks of the jockeys. Earl Sande tried a comeback this year, but had to give it up. Age and weight stopped him. Now Linus (Pony) McAtee is to follow him into retirement on account of failing health. Never robust, McAtee finds himself unable to stand the wear and tear on his nerves. LaVerne Fator, Mack Garner, Sonny Workman, Bill Kelsay, John Maiben and other veterans still are active, but there's no telling how long they will last. Workman is not as old as the others named, is a better jockey today than he was two or three years ago and may go on indefinitely, but the bright particular stars of the future are a couple of youngsters, Hank Mills and Silvio Coucci. They employ different styles, but both systems have been effective and successful.

RAJAH MAY AID CLUB REGAIN PRESTIGE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Numerous reasons will be advanced regarding the action of Owner Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cardinals, in acquiring the services of Rogers Hornsby, the same Hornsby who was dropped quite unceremoniously by the same Breadon after the Rajah had led the 1926 Cardinals to the National League pennant and the subsequent world series title.

Rogers Hornsby

Perhaps my conjecture is as sour as the next fellow's, yet I am quite convinced that the stuff designated as "the root of all evil" had a lot to do with the latest move of Breadon and his brethren.

Breadon is a business man first and a baseball man second. His Cardinal venture probably developed some red ink in the season just passed. In 1926 the Redbirds, with Hornsby in charge of the Flock, netted a neat fortune for their owners. If you recall the series of that year was a hard-fought, seven-game affair and consequently the opposing club-owners were enriched by their lion's share of the receipts of the last three games.

CARDS NEED MONEY

Now, when the Cardinals won the highest honors of the year in 1926, there is a chance that both Breadon and Hornsby carried their independence to a somewhat strained degree. In any event, the Rajah "got the gate." Presumably his somewhat admirable habit of speaking his view to the owners incurred the anger of his employers. You probably know that the major leagues, especially the National League, have many owners who know very little about the technique of baseball, but they insist on telling the managers how to proceed. But that is another story.

Times being what they are the various magnates are making strategic moves with the idea of building clubs to attract the fancy of the fans. The coffers at St. Louis doubtless need replenishing and perhaps Hornsby will help to draw the fans as he did in his many years.

GET IN SHAPE, ROG

There is no apparent reason why Hornsby cannot play fast baseball. Rogers, with all his alleged faults, has been a total abstainer from liquor and tobacco, hence he should be able to work himself into fine physical trim if he takes the notion. Honus Wagner was playing great ball at 40 and Walter Maranville is a star at 41.

Hornsby, nevertheless, was not a first-rate second-basemen in his heydey. He stands out as one of the greatest in the game's history as a batsman, and he was a whirlwind runner before he suffered leg trouble, but he has ever been, at best, an in-and-outer on ground balls.

SKIBOS DRILL ON DEFENSE

Carnegie Tech will check all points of its defense today and tomorrow as the Plaid prepares for the game in Philadelphia Friday night with the Temple University Owls.

Coach Bob Waddell sent his gridiron troops through a long drill yesterday, which was begun in the Tartan Bowl and completed under the lights at Forbes Field. The contest with the Owls will mark Carnegie's entrance into the night football field.

After tomorrow's drill, the squad will climb aboard its Pullmans and head for Philly. The team will return after the contest Friday and take in the Pitt-Notre Dame contest in the Pitt Stadium Saturday.

Tech's chances against Temple are not considered overly bright. The Owls gave Carnegie plenty of battle in the two previous meetings, and this year, appear to have an edge.

OCHS, PEDRO K. O. VICTORS

The amateurs went at it hammer and tongs at Motor Square Garden last night to the vast enjoyment of some 3,500 ring fans who turned out for the benefit boxing show for the Jewish Home for Babies. With all the punching, however, only two knockouts resulted, both coming in the heavyweight class.

Johnny Ochs, Willow Club star, won by a technical knockout over Bill Schuster, of the Linwood A. C., in the third round and it took Johnny Pedro, of the Monongahela Valley A. C. the same length of time to stop Billy Ryan, of the Cyclone A. C.

Eddie Katkish, of the Willow A. C., whipped Shorty Washko, a Billick A. C. entry, in a 126-pound bout, and Al Quaill, Y. M. H. A. star, outpointed Vince Browning, of the Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, in the 147-pound class.

Heavyweight class—Johnny Ochs, Willow Club, won by a technical knockout over Bill Schuster, Linwood A. C., in third round; John Pedro, Monongahela Valley A. C., won by a technical knockout over Billy Ryan, Cyclone A. C., in third round.

WOMEN TO ORGANIZE

A women's sports group will be organized at a meeting to be held next Sunday afternoon. Basketball and field hockey will be sponsored by the organization.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The gabbiest fighter that ever appeared in a Pittsburgh ring is to box again at the next show in Motor Square Garden, which will be held one week from next Monday night . . . The gabby gent is Pee Wee Jarrell, flashy welterweight, of Fort Wayne, Ind., with a million dollar smile, lots of personality, a Jimmy Slattery style of fighting, with his hands at his side, and a punch . . . The fans got such a big kick out of seeing him against Davy Grove in his local debut last Monday night that the Garden is bringing him back by popular demand.

No fighter ever got more fun out of his work in the ring than Jarrell, and probably none ever talked more to his opponent . . . For instance, after he had knocked Grove into a twilight sleep condition in the second round, he dallied around a bit and then smiled and asked solicitously, "All right now, Kid?" before putting on steam again . . . Later in the bout, after Grove had floored him twice with vicious left hooks to the body, the local man missed another such blow along the ropes, and Pee Wee smiled and came back with: "Too late on that one, Davy!"

There were other quips that had the ringside fans in an uproar . . . At first they thought Jarrell was a bit balmy in the attic, doncherknow, but, as the bout moved on, they realized he was a smart ringman who was selling an entirely new and popular line of goods.

There won't be any fight at the Garden next Monday night because efforts to get the right sort of a match failed, and the club feels it is better not to run at all than to put on something that doesn't figure to clear the big overhead. . . . Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, will box Eugene Huat, of France, in the main bout of the next show.

Buck McTiernan is looking with a cool and confident quietude upon his third meeting with Jimmy Belmont at the Arena, on the North Side, Friday night. . . . He laid off work yesterday because he thought he was getting a bit too fine in the gymnasium and took time off to talk shop. . . . "I notice," he said, "that the great ballyhoo that marked my first two bouts with Belmont, each of which he won by a knockout, is missing from our next meeting. . . . I think that is in my favor, for the excitement keyed up Belmont in those other two bouts and he fought away over his head. . . . He has not been so inspired since. . . . I feel I can beat him, and I don't care whether there's a crowd there or not. . . . I just want to wipe out the memory of those two defeats, and start a new campaign. . . . The way I feel now, I think I'll get there yet." . . . Buck didn't say where "there" is, but followers of boxing will remember that championship heights once were predicted for him.

The irony of that scoreless tie with Ohio State in the record of the Pitt football team this fall lies in the fact that the contest was an "added starter" on the schedule. Originally it was intended to leave the date between the Army and Notre Dame games open or to play a letdown game. . . . The Buckeyes were jammed in, however, and then Penn State was dropped for Thanksgiving Day to make room for another added attraction two days later with Stanford to end the season . . . Coach Jock Sutherland has been fearing the worst all season because of the fact that his squad has no chance to get a breathing spell in between hard games . . . The Ohio State showing was the first blow—will there be any others? . . . At that, the Panthers still are 1 up on Pop Warner's Stanford team, which bowed to Southern California last Saturday.—HARRY KECK.

DEFENSE KEEPS LIONS BUSY

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—An hour of defensive work against Cornell plays as interpreted by the scrub line and the backfield coaches was the principal part of Columbia's long drill yesterday.

Tomb was used as relief quarterback instead of lineman, who is in poor condition and is not expected to play Saturday.

Maranville Sought As Pilot of Reds

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—It seems that baseball is about to kick Boston's beloved Rabbit Maranville upstairs again.

Reports have it that the Cincinnati Reds want the Braves' colorful second baseman as their manager next season. President Emil Fuchs has been approached on that proposition. Fuchs said:

"Yes, the Reds have inquired about their chances of getting the Rabbit to manage their club next season.

"President Weil talked only recently with Manager Bill McKechnie on that subject. We'd like to keep the Rabbit with us, because he is a valuable influence and still a great defensive player. But those managerial chances are the dreams of all veteran players, and the Braves would not stand in his way if he has a chance to better himself."

100-to-1 Shot Wins Newmarket Feature

NEWMARKET, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. C. B. Robinson's Pullover, ridden by Richardson, and at odds of 100 to 1, today won the Cambridgeshire Stakes, one of the big handicap fixtures of the autumn on the English turf. The stakes are run at one mile and an eighth.

Lord Glanelys' Ada Dear was second and Sir Victor Sassoon's Pharaoh was third. Thirty-three horses ran.

Ada Dear, a 25-to-1 venture, was second by half a length over Pharaoh, who also was 100-to-1 to win.

IRISH TO BRING 38 PLAYERS FOR FRAY

By JESS CARVER

So Hunk Anderson thinks his Notre Dames will need all of their 140 plays to beat Pitt here Saturday! Hunk will have his little joke. With that many plays, Notre Dame could beat three Pitts, or three Techs or three of any other school every afternoon in the week. One hundred and forty plays me eye.

The Notre Dame mentor is correct in figuring that Pitt will be primed for a comeback here Saturday. Pitt has had two bad Saturday afternoons in a row—one against Army and the other against Ohio State. Look back in the book and see how often Pitt elevens have had three bum ones in succession. Not very often.

SUTHERLAND PUZZLED

Coach Jock Sutherland finds himself squarely in the middle in several ways as he goes about prepping his Panthers for their battle with the Irish. He must hop up the team's morale; strengthen his quarterbacking; attempt to fix things up at center; worry over whether to start his second eleven if the Irish start the shock troops and choose between Capt. Paul Reider and Mike Sebastian at right halfback.

Then, with all this on his mind, he goes to bed nights, and instead of seeing pink elephants on the dresser, pink elephants on the wall, he sees Steve Banas on the table, Joe Skeketski on the chair, Kitty Gorman on the mantel and Moose Krause everywhere. What a nightmare for the good Doctor!

It looks as though Rocco Cutri may get the call at quarterback for Pitt, at the start at least. Bob Hogan's work has left plenty to be desired. Cutri is as good a blocker, about as capable a punter and has shown better generalship . . . at least, the Panther coaching staff figures that way about the Erie Italian. He's one of those ball players who may rise to the occasion and become a man of destiny, although picking a game with Notre Dame to pull the destiny act will never come under the head of amusement.

38 ON SQUAD

The Notre Dame squad, 38 strong, is due here at 8:30 Friday morning and will establish headquarters at the P. A. A. The Ramblers are to drill in the Stadium in the afternoon. Saturday morning a special train will bring the South Bend rooters and the Notre Dame band. It will be the band's first appearance here since 1922.

The Tipoff

St. Vincent's hopes of taking Thiel Saturday afternoon hardly were brightened to any degree now that Mike Furin, star halfback and passer, is out with an injury. Furin was a very important cog in the Bearcats' aerial attack and his loss is being felt. Flauto is working out at Furin's right halfback post.

It isn't enough that his Syracuse varsity can't seem to click this fall, but now Vic Pawson, yonsevu Orange coach, is having difficulty in getting his footballers attired. A promising line candidate reported yesterday in Nate Kantor, a 285-pounder, but Hanson had to turn him down, temporarily at least, until a uniform could be rigged up to fit him. Boy, page Omar the Tentmaker!

Out at Butte, Mont., Coach Charley McAuliffe had to attire his Montana Miners in bathing suits when a fire ravished the dressing room, destroying every speck of football equipment. Such a life!

Purdue is claiming all sorts of scoring records, and rightly so, too. The Boilermakers have tallied in 36 consecutive contests without being blanked. Then, Paul Pardonner, star drop-kicker, has booted 16 out of 17 between the uprights for the extra point. He's accounted for five in a row this year.

Coach Hank Day, at Wash-Jeff, hardly knows how to handle the situation now that he has his entire varsity cast in good physical trim, all at one time. Hank has so many ball players on hand, in comparison to what he had for the Detroit and Tech games, that he gets all twisted on his lads' names.

Joe Hardy, Wash-Jeff frosh quarterback, turned in a 70-yard kickoff against Kiski last week, the ball sailing between the uprights from his own 10-yard line. If you are good at figgers, you can dope out all the angles and discover just exactly how far the ball traveled.

For big-league teams, Yale and Ohio State certainly are making a neck-and-neck race out of it for low score honors. The Bis have accounted for eight points in three games, and the Buckeyes for seven. Ohio rang up a touchdown and extra point against Indiana, while Yale scored a touchdown against Bates and a safety against Brown. Neither won a game.

It will be Old Home Week for at least seven members of the Purdue football team when the Boilermakers play New York University Saturday. Robert (Rip) Peters, guard; Howard Keegan, Vincent Cherico and Jack Lamb, backs; all come from White Plains, a New York City suburb, and George English, guard; Ernest Davidson, end, and Leroy Meuser, guard, claim nearby New Jersey and New York towns as their homes.

Golfers to Honor Jim Devlin Today

Various forms of competition will be staged, with a dinner to follow this evening. After the dinner, other forms of entertainment will complete the program.

Tracy Cox Wins Over Prince Saunders

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Tracy Cox, Indianapolis lightweight, won a close 10-round contest over Prince Saunders, Chicago, here last night. There were no knockdowns.

ANDERSON PREDICTS NOTRE DAME WIN OVER PITT

NATIONAL TITLE ANGLE IRKS IRISH COACH

ANDERSON'S SELECTIONS

Ohio State over Wisconsin.
Northwestern over Minnesota.
Purdue over N. Y. U.
Chicago over Illinois.
Iowa over George Washington.
Indiana over Mississippi State.
Michigan over Princeton.
Marquette over West Virginia.
Carnegie Tech over Temple.
Notre Dame over Fittsburgh.

By HEARTLY W. (HUNK) ANDERSON,
Notre Dame Football Coach

Notre Dame plays two big games this week. I see by the papers that our varsity will play the deciding game for the national championship against Pittsburgh, Saturday. As far as we are concerned at Notre Dame, we would just as soon forget the national championship, take each game in stride, and only hope we don't stumble. I don't think we will stumble against Pitt, although they will give us one of the hardest games we anticipate all season.

Hunk Anderson

Our "B" team plays a night game Friday against Texas Tech at Lubbock. From the way Texas Tech has been going, they could give our varsity a good afternoon's work and I think they will beat our "B" team with plenty of room to spare.

While most of the Big Ten teams are taking a day off against easy competition or other outside teams, there are at least two games of importance and interest in the Western Conference.

OHIO STATE FAVORED

Carl Cramer and his Ohio State team consider themselves still right in the running for the Big Ten championship, but they know they are going to have a real battle with Wisconsin Saturday. I pick Ohio State to win by a close score from Doc Spears' surprise team. Spears did a great job in whipping his team into shape so fast in holding Purdue to a one-point victory. The whole story of his success with Wisconsin lies in the fact that he put his surplus backs to work as linesmen. For the first time in several years the Badgers have a real line.

Northwestern clearly has shown the effects of losing such men as Riley and Marvil, the two big 1931 tackles, but the backfield of Rentner, Olson, Potter and Sullivan is doing valiant work and they should squeeze out a victory over Minnesota's battering rams.

Despite the great work of McNamara, of N. Y. U., Purdue should have little trouble taking the Violets Saturday. The Purdue line, headed by its great ends, Moss and Lowery, combined with a backfield made up of Pardonner, Hecker, Purvis and Horstman, will give the Boilermakers a real title threat in the Big Ten.

ILLINOIS UNDERDOG

Zuppke's dark horse Illinois team hasn't come out of the dark yet and I pick Chicago to win its traditional game over Illinois. Stagg was telling the truth at the beginning of the season when he said this year's team would be better than those of the past several years on the Midway.

Iowa should nose out George Washington. Coach Hayes has come to Indiana's rescue and taught the Hoosiers what to do when they get a ball, and their new offense with Opasik, Fuquak, Sluski and Jones should roll up a big score over Mississippi State.

Michigan will take Princeton down the line by a comfortable margin at Ann Arbor if Harry Newman keeps up his good work as the "spark plug" of a fine all-around team.

SOCCER REPLAY FRAY CARDED

The big soccer game of next Sunday is the National Challenge Cup replay between the Zoneys, of Castle Shannon, and the Morgan club at South Park.

Last Sunday's battle certainly threw the soccer critics off the track, as Morgan, which had been having a tough season in the Keystone League, was not accorded much of a chance.

However, the old cup fighting spirit that has carried the Millers Run eleven to many victories showed to advantage, and with a well balanced lineup Morgan is now being given the edge in the replay. If the Morgan management can secure a dashing center forward for the forthcoming game, the Zoneys are going to have a tough afternoon.

Four games are carded in the Central League. Lawrenceville, with its undefeated record, will make the trip to Ambridge to meet the Bridge Workers. Ambridge played great soccer at Swissvale last Saturday against the Westinghouse.

The other undefeated club in the league, Clan Douglas, meets Union Switch and Signal, the defending champion. This game will get the big crowd of the day. The Switchers pulled a big surprise last Saturday when they defeated Mt. Lebanon.

Pirate President Banquet Speaker

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 26.—William E. Benswanger, president of Pittsburgh Pirates and Attorney Ben Giffen, of Pittsburgh, will address the banquet of the American Legion Junior League players here November 3, Athletic Officer D. T. Peckens has announced.

Several other baseball luminaries are expected to attend.

Football Stripped of Mystery Terms Simplicity Itself—Harpster

By Howard Harpster

The game of football seems very complicated with its various methods of advancing the ball. There are line bucks, spinners, reverses, off-tackles, end runs, forward and lateral passes, and any number of other offensive plays, all designed to advance the ball toward the opponent's goal. Yet if you eliminate all of the fancy nomenclature of each play, you will find the game is comparatively simple.

To this writer, there are only two phases of the game which determine whether or not a team is going to get anywhere. They are simple and fundamental, one being blocking on the offense and the other tackling on the defense.

If a team is a good blocking team, if the line opens up holes and the interferers knock down the defensive tacklers, thereby protecting the ball-carrier, ground will be gained by running the ball. When a team is advancing the ball consistently by running up through the line, the defensive team's backs must come in closer and up faster in order to stop the attack. With the defensive backs in close to stop the running plays, it is is an easy matter to send passes through the air to eligible players in unprotected territory and thereby have a successful attack. In order to stop the passes, the defensive backs move out again, which, of course, weakens the defense against running plays. With a good blocking team, it is like playing checkers with the defensive eleven, when they are in close you pass and when they have spread out you run.

Mr. Harpster

Now, take a team that can't or doesn't block, and it is evident that its running attack will not be very potent. There aren't many ball carriers who can run and make ground when none of the defensive players are put out of the play. Since there is little to worry about from the running of a non-blocking team, the defensive players can spread out and concentrate on breaking up passes, and, of course, this destroys the effectiveness of the passing game. From this we can see that if a team can't block it can't run, and if it can't run it can't pass, and if it is unable to run or pass, it has little chance of scoring.

BLOCKING BIGGEST BET

The whole secret then of offensive football is in having a good blocking team. A team never is successful because it has off-tackles and fancy spinner plays, but, rather, the off-tackles and spinner plays are successful because the team has good blocking. With a fine blocking team it is possible to work out other details of offensive play such as forward passes, laterals and all other methods of advancing the ball. But first the team must BLOCK.

Isn't Notre Dame conceeded to be the greatest team in the country, year in and year out. Certainly the outstanding thing about Notre Dame teams and the phase of their play that attracts most of the comment is the almost perfect blocking of the line and the interferers. They block and their backs run. Because their backs can run and are dangerous through the line, they also can pass. When they can run and pass, they can score. AND CAN THEY SCORE!

On the other hand, if Notre Dame couldn't block, it wouldn't be a whole lot better than Upton.

Tom Heeney Draws With John Schwake

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Tom Heeney, New Zealand heavyweight veteran, and John Schwake, St. Louis, battled to a draw in a 10-round boxing match here last night that left both men bruised and battered about their faces.

MOHLER LOST TO TROJANS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The University of Southern California football team has been shorn of its greatest offensive threat for the remainder of the season. Orville Mohler, quarterback, yesterday was ordered by Willis O. Hunter, director of athletics, to quit the game as a precaution against possible serious or fatal injury to a weakened vertebra.

Mohler's neck injury was sustained in the game at Palo Alto last Saturday against Stanford. It was an aggravation of the condition which kept him out of competition for two weeks following the contest with California a year ago.

Mayberry Funeral Services Tonight

Funeral services will be held in the Moreland parlors at 7:30 o'clock this evening for the mother of Howard Mayberry, East End business man and sports patron, an uncle of the former boxer of the same name. Mrs. Mayberry was in her eighty-seventh year. She died yesterday.

CORBETT VICTOR

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Young Corbett, of Fresno, contender for the welterweight championship, last night won a 10-round decision over Cerebno Garcia, of Manila. A crowd of 4,000 saw the fight in the Fresno Civic Auditorium.

CHRISTY PARK PRIMED FOR BATTLE WITH OLYMPICS

ELEVENS MEET IN SANDLOT TITLE FRAY

By TOM BIRKS

The McKeesport Olympics and Christy Park elevens clash tonight under the lights at Olympia Park with the McKeesport city sandlot football title at stake as firing continues in the independent gridiron warfare in the district. Tomorrow night, in a feature Lightweight Conference tilt, the Rox Rangers make their initial appearance up the Allegheny valley, battling the Tarentum Firemen at Tarentum.

For many years, a great natural rivalry has existed between Christy Park and the Olympics. This season more than ever before, this rivalry has been rampant. Jimmy Gray, who handles the Parkers, feels that his club has arrived in big time football, and has been clamoring for a berth in the West Penn Conference.

GAME REAL TEST

Just how his proteges will stack up against Bill Sullivan's club remains to be seen. Sullivan is not taking any chances in the game. The Olympics went through a strenuous workout last evening in preparation for the struggle. The battle is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

In other contests scheduled for tonight, the Broadway Mounts engage the Scott Morgans at Greenlee Field and the Etna Sycamores take on the North Braddock Firemen at Etna.

In Tarentum, the Rangers will find strong opposition to their claim as lightweight champions. Tarentum entered the conference classed a dark horse, but the first game of the season, when the Firemen threw a bombshell into the Rangers ranks by holding the Rox aggregation to a scoreless tie, and then topped off that performance by beating the Scott Morgans, stamped the upriver club as a real contender for lightweight honors.

Sunday, two games will be played in the West Penn Conference. Manager Art Rooney will take his unbeaten Rooney eleven to Bellaire, where the Ohio Valley fans will get their first peep at the North Side Club.

Hart Morris, former Pitt line star, knows the caliber of Jimmy Rooney, Bucky Wagner, Jimmy Clark, Honey Guarino and Jess Quatse and he has been working the Eagles hard for the fray.

HOLMES MAY PLAY

Art Rooney at one time played center field for the Wheeling club in the Middle Atlantic League, and it is possible many Wheeling fans will cross the bridge to renew acquaintance with the North Side sportsman.

| Paulson—6. | | Sto Rox—0. |
|---|---|---|
| Conley | L. E. | Trombetta |
| Templeton | L. T. | DeCicco |
| Connelly | L. G. | Fabiano |
| Corso | C. | Daley |
| DeMatteo | R. G. | Delvechicco |
| Williams | R. T. | Gisquinta |
| Cyphers | R. E. | Hook |
| Presto | Q. | Linehan |
| Meirs | L. H. | McCombrie |
| Steele | R. H. | De Ardo |
| Rooker | F. | Mogan |

Score by quarters:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Paulson | 0 | 0 | 0 | 6—6 |

Alderdice, Carrick Girl Swimmers Win

The Taylor Allerdice Junior High School girls' swimming team won the tenth grade aquatic title yesterday, scoring 15 points. Fifth Avenue was second, with 13, and Langley finished third with 12.

In the ninth grade meet, the Carrick girls won with 14 points. Taylor Allerdice was second with 13 and Westinghouse took third place with nine.

GRINS From the GRID

By O. W. (Red) Severence

No. 14.

Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, athletic director and head football coach at the University of Detroit, tells an interesting yarn to prove football is not over-emphasized. He says:

"Gus Ruhlin, a big guard, was the man I have in mind. On the eve of one of our most important games, a few seasons ago, our regular right guard was injured, and, while I started him in the game, I knew he wouldn't last long.

"Ruhlin was his substitute and I tried to impress on him that a lot of responsibility for our victory rested on his shoulders. I gave him a 'pep' talk that would have melted a heart of stone.

"Sure enough, our regular guard's injured leg gave way in the second quarter of one of the most exciting games I have ever seen. When I found that my star guard was through, I yelled to Ruhlin to get off his sweater and go in. To my surprise, he didn't make any move to comply.

"Then I hurried down to where he was sitting and I found out why he hadn't jumped when his big chance for glory came. He was sound asleep, in spite of all the yelling, and I had to shake him to wake him up."

ARENA BOUTS COMPLETED

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Frankie Bojarski vs. Mickey Duris, 10 rounds; Marty Tonkamon vs. Young Terry, and Billy Mido vs. Joe Boddie, 6 rounds each, and Joe Brown vs. Pete Boy, and Billy Frengel vs. Bearcat Wright, 4 rounds each, benefit for World War Veterans of Lawrence County, Castle Bowl, New Castle, Pa.

Midget Bolgiast vs. Young Tommy (non-title), 10 rounds, Oakland, Cal.

Lou Sozza vs. John Henry Lewis, 10 rounds, and Mickey Evans vs. Gilbert Attel, 6 rounds, San Francisco.

Freddie Steele vs. Tommy Herman, 6 rounds, Seattle.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

The card has been completed for the Buck McTiernan-Jimmy Belmont boxing show at the Arena, on the North Side, tomorrow night, with the signing of Red Bush, of New Cumberland, W. Va., to box Ray Jennings, of Homestead, in the second bout and Johnny Riske, of the South Hills, to oppose Billy Nichy, like Riske a recent graduate of the amateur ranks.

All of the bouts with the exception of that between Bush and Jennings, who are light-heavies, are middleweight affairs.

Between Rounds

Tony Marino, Duquesne flyweight, boxes Johnny Edwards at Youngstown next Tuesday night. He already holds a victory over Edwards, scored in Wheeling last January. Tony meets Antol Kocsis in Toronto in mid-November.

Eddie Sago, of McKeesport, will box John Petro in the heavyweight bout of the amateur boxing show in the McKeesport arena tomorrow night.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, is in shape and wants to meet any of the 132-pounders.

Davy Grove will undergo an operation to relieve a nose condition which handicapped him in his bout with Pee Wee Jarrell at the Garden Monday night.

Barney Ross, of Chicago, received $3,000 for beating Battling Battalino, former featherweight champion, in the Chicago Stadium the other night. It was Barney's thirty-ninth professional fight, of which he has lost only one and won 16 with knockouts.

The Reilly brothers, of McKeesport and Fairmont, W. Va., Jimmy and Frankie, want to fight the Zivic brothers, Eddie and Fritzie. That sounds like an idea for some promoter.

Bobby Ray, local junior-welterweight, who has been campaigning around the country, writes from Fort Worth, Tex., that he has won seven fights in eight starts in the South and plans to return home the latter part of this month to meet the local talent.

Church Loop Champs Honored at Banquet

The members of Crafton Presbyterian Church baseball team, 1932 champion of the Crafton-Ingram Church League, were honor guests at a rousing testimonial banquet and party last night in the First Presbyterian Church.

Senator Frank J. Harris presented the team a silver loving cup in recognition of its capturing of the league title. Talks were delivered by William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Honus Wagner, Dr. J. Freeman Guy, assistant superintendent of the Pittsburgh Board of Education; J. H. Hershberger, league president; Earl O. Liggett, president of Dr. Dempster's memorial class, under whose auspices the affair was given and Capt. Ewing (Pep) Hopper, of the champions.

Fight Results

At Clinton, Ia.—Sammy Mandell defeated Billy Horton, 10 rounds.

The Rise of Joe Cronin

From High School Team to Pirates at 18
—Manager of Washington Senators at 26

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

NO. 3—SEASONED IN MID-ATLANTIC LEAGUE.

Among baseball's countless blessings is that which cures quickly and effectively a bad case of homesickness. When 18-year-old boys leave their parents and brothers and sisters to explore places several thousand miles away the adventure is likely to lose its lure unless there be something of a fascinating nature to ward off the lonesomeness.

Joe Cronin and Eddie Montague doubtless experienced strange sensations in their throats as they bade their families farewell and stepped on the "choo-choo" that started them on their long journey into a new world. These feelings, however, quickly gave way to lively antics as they galloped around on a long succession of baseball orchards wherein the barnstorming Buccaneers disported themselves as they worked their way back to the National League wheel from far-off California.

Joe Cronin

FARMED TO JOHNSTOWN

The thrill of it all was reflected strikingly in the beaming Cronin. In the travel hours he would bounce around the big transcontinental flyer enjoying himself to the utmost. Here was a dream come true! What mattered it if the Pirate officials had decided to send Joe and Eddie into some dust-and-cinder league for a lot of seasoning? Were they not part of a major league club, rubbing shoulders with and getting daily tips from the bright luminaries? The whole scene offered perfect bliss to them.

In due time, the major league races got under way. Cronin and his buddie were ready to break out in a baseball rash if they didn't get some real action, so the Pittsburgh officials succeeded in placing them, along with some other kids, on the Pirate farm at Johnstown, Pa. Johnstown had, and still has, a franchise in the Mid-Atlantic League, one of the most courageous of the circuits of class C designation, yet, despite the crowning civic qualities of the men who keep the circuit intact, it was known in the diamond vernacular as an up-an'-at-'em league; that is, the players were up all night riding buses and at at 'em all day on the diamond.

STAR IN MINOR CIRCUIT

Nevertheless, the class C and D schools of the sport provide a training which could not be purchased by those who have taken it. When an apt pupil stars on a club in such a league, look out for him when he reaches the top. Three men, named Honus Wagner, Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby, could give expert opinion on this point.

Well, anyhow, it did not take Joe and Eddie long to get their bearings on the far-from-home fields. The two San Francisco kids were the talk of the Mid-Atlantic League before its schedule had progressed many weeks.

Cronin was assigned to the short field and Montague to third base. They were brilliant fielders in their positions and carried on such a fighting barrage that Johnstown soon found a permanent position at the top of the pack. The club won the flag, with the two baby Pirates batting better than .300.

QUICK RISE TO HEIGHTS

From such humble surroundings you scarcely would expect a boy of 18 to rise to a major league managerial berth in seven short years, yet Cronin, before he had observed his twenty-sixth birthday, had signed a contract which put him in charge of the Washington club of the American League.

PAYNE STOPS PELECO

COVINGTON, Ky., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Cecil Payne, Louisville, Ky., lightweight, knocked out Babe Peleco, of Indianapolis, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round fight here last night. Payne knocked Peleco down three times in the second round.

Steffen Predicts Tough Battle For Irish

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Judge Walter Steffen, whose Carnegie Tech football team was soundly thumped by Notre Dame Saturday, figures the Irsh will have a peck of trouble with Pitt this week.

He likes the Pitt backfield, says the line is powerful and thinks the Ohio State tie last week was just the thing to give the Panthers the psychological edge. He said:

"Notre Dame was the only team to defeat Pitt last year. Immediately after the season, coaches and players began planning on how to even things up this year. Team psychology is in Pittsburgh's favor."

POLO CHAMPS SCORE WIN

Committee Named For Columbia Probe

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Investigation of charges of professionalism in athletics, particularly football, at Columbia University has been undertaken by a committee of seven appointed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university.

The inquiry will be in the hands of Dr. Linsly R. Williams and Richard G. Babbage, alumni trustees; Edmund A. Prentis, president of the Columbia University Club; Rexford G. Tugwell, professor of economics; J. Bartlett Brebner, assistant professor of history; Peter C. Rhodes, secretary of the board of student representatives, class of 1933, and F. Gray Garten, associate managing editor of the Columbia Spectator, class of '33.

The committee will investigate particularly charges that members of the football squad were shown favoritism in securing employment and favoritism from the college faculty and that alumni scholarships were granted some football players in order to induce them to come to Columbia.

Golf Purses Cut In Southern Cal.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Southern California's golden winter golf trail will be studded with lesser nuggets this year.

The Agua Caliente, Mexico, open, played in 1929 and 1930 for $25,000 and last year for $15,000, this year will be worth only $7,500, officials of the club have announced.

Other stopovers on the winter trail include Pasadena's $4,000 tournament; Santa Monica's $2,000 Open and the Los Angeles Open, for which the purse has not been announced, but which is expected to be worth $5,000 this year.

FULLBACK LOST BY MICHIGAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Russ Oliver, sophomore fullback, was added to the University of Michigan football casualty list yesterday with the discovery that one of the former Culver Military Academy star's ribs was broken in the Illinois game.

Big Ten Briefs

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The offense of the Ohio State football team was stressed yesterday as the players started serious preparation for the Wisconsin game here Saturday. Only one touchdown has been scored by Ohio in the last three contests and the coaches said this situation must be remedied.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Dawson and MacKinnon, of the Gopher coaching staff, took places expected to be filled by Reutner and Olson of Northwestern in a forward pass defense practice by Minnesota yesterday. Enough throws were completed to convince the Gophers they will be up against a serious competition Saturday.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 26. — (AP.) — Charles (Buckets) Goldenberg, veteran tackle, was ruled ineligible for further competition in Wisconsin athletic because he failed to carry the required number of courses. His loss brought gloom to the Badgers as they prepared for the Ohio State game. George Thurner, end, will probably take Goldenberg's place.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—University of Iowa football players went through scrimmage yesterday in the last home practice before the George Washington game at Washington, D. C., Friday night. The squad of 33 men will leave here today.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The University of Chicago football squad spent a short drill period yesterday working in the Field House because of rain. Pete Zimmer, backfield ace, will not play against Illinois Saturday, although his injured knee probably will be back in shape.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—With 20 first-stringers taking their second day of rest, the Northwestern third team worked against Minnesota formations yesterday as demonstrated by the freshmen.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Coach Bob Zuppke divided his time yesterday with the Illinois team, between his ceaseless search for linemen and in working out a forward pass attack to use against Chicago.

Geis Made Track Coach at Princeton

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Matthew Geis, assitant track coach at Princeton University for the past year, has been appointed head coach, Thurston J. Davies, supervisor of sports, announced yesterday.

Earl Marthineau, line coach of the Tiger football eleven, will assist Geis, who succeeds the veteran Keene Fitzpatrick, trainer of Princeton athletics for the last 22 years. Fitzpatrick's resignation was accepted by the Board of Athletic Control here last week.

BEAVER FALLS FACES TEST IN BUTLER

By JULIUS LEVIN

Beaver Falls High School, showing the most victories among the contenders for the class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L., but trailing Ambridge by 16 points under the point system, will have a chance to pick up 130 points by defeating Butler at Butler Saturday afternoon.

Beaver Falls shows one of the most impressive records among class A schools, having scored five successive league victories as well as defeating an alumni eleven in a pre-season contest.

The Heckathorne-coached team defeated Beaver, 19-0; Braddock, 13-0; Ellwood City, 20-0; Midland, 13-7 and Rochester, 13-7.

The Beaver Valley eleven is taking nothing for granted in its battle with Butler. Butler was undefeated and unscored upon until last Saturday when New Brighton upset it by a 13-0 count. Butler, prior to the New Brighton setback, was figured one of the strongest contenders for the class A championship, having defeated Vandergrift, Ellwood City and Tarentum, all class A schools as well as Mars, a class B team.

Last year Beaver Falls defeated Butler by a 6-0 count, and the Butlerites are determined to even that score this week. The game looms as one of the best on Saturday's card.

School Notes

Carrick High School, coached by Ted Lyons, will not engage in league competition Friday, but instead will meet Brentwood at Carrick Park. The two teams are neighboring rivals and will attract a fine crowd.

Local fans will see one of the best class B teams in the district in action at Peabody a week from Friday when Roy Mann brings his Burgettstown Union eleven to the East Enders' field. Burgettstown Union has suffered only one setback this season, losing to East Huntingdon.

Shady Side Academy begins its fight for the Tri-State Prep School League championship Saturday when University School, of Cleveland, is met on the Shady Side gridiron.

California at Charleroi, Norwin at Scott and Duquesne at Homestead offer the scholastic fans three attractive night duels Friday. Bill Campbell's Homesteaders will find Duquesne the usual tough opponent, more so since Duquesne eliminated Swissvale from the class A championship. Duquesne will be out to turn the tables on Homestead for that 18-13 defeat suffered last season.

Freeport, Bill Mitchell's class B contender, stakes all of its hopes for the title on the outcome of its battle with Apollo Friday. Apollo, defeated by Mt. Pleasant last week, appears to be the toughest test on the Freeport schedule.

Glassport High, setting the pace for class B schools, has won 10 out of its last 11 games, the only setback being at the hands of McKeesport, a Double A school. Glassport finished its 1931 season in a blaze of glory, defeating Trafford, Versona, Pitcairn, Bethel and Monhall in the order named. Centerville was the first victim this season, after which Glassport bowed to McKeesport. Since then Fayette City, Homestead, Trafford and Versona have fallen in succession. Friday Glassport plays Elizabeth, at Glassport.

While Washington and Turtle Creek are meeting in the only Class A Conference game of the week Saturday at Turtle Creek, the other members of the conference will have their hands full in nonleagues games. Greensburg plays at Connellsville, Clairton is at Donora, Uniontown at McKeesport, New Castle at Altoona, Monessen at Monongahela and Tarentum at New Kensington.

CASEY FAVORS IRISH, N. Y. U., DARTMOUTH

CASEY'S SELECTIONS

Fordham over Boston College.
Bucknell over Villanova.
Colgate over Penn State.
Columbia over Cornell.
Harvard, Brown even.
Holy Cross over Catholic U.
Lafayette over W. & J.
New York U. over Purdue.
Penn over Navy.
Notre Dame over Pitt.
Michigan State over Syracuse.
Temple over Carnegie Tech.
Dartmouth over Yale.
Michigan over Princeton.
Army over W. & M.

By EDDIE CASEY

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

Last week's big turn over in the East was the defeat of Fordham by Michigan State. Fordham looked to be one of the outstanding teams of the country, but this upset sends it far down in the ranks. The tie game between Pittsburgh and Ohio State was very unexpected, and evidently the Army game of the preceding week had its effect in weakening the Panthers. Navy and Princeton played a scoreless tie in a hard-fought game, where victory would have been most welcome to either team.

Eddie Casey

The season is now rolling on high and championship games will be the order of the day from this date forward. The outstanding teams of the country are asserting themselves. When the last college game is played this fall I predict the number of undefeated teams will be comparatively few.

Saturday of this week we will see two or three games that may decide the mythical championship of the country, and likewise the East. First and foremost, the meeting of Pittsburgh and Notre Dame will hold the greatest bearing on the probable champions. To date, Notre Dame has run rough shod over its opponents, but it hasn't met a real test as yet. Pittsburgh has emerged from two terrific games still undefeated. Certainly Jock Sutherland knows this is the game of games for his team, and will be ready for it. I pick the Notre Dame boys. They have the offensive power, the spirit, and the ruggedness to cope with any team I know about.

NO LETUP FOR YALE

I expect the game in the Yale Bowl between Dartmouth and Yale to be sensational. Both teams are at the cross roads. Yale has not won a game to date. Dartmouth has lost its two major games. Victory is necessary for both to carry on with any spirit and with any hope of finishing with a satisfactory record. Defeat for either may bring hopelessness from which they will not recover this season. I believe each team will gamble for scores and play with a desperate spirit. Dartmouth with a new offense this year, has progressed slowly, but now is beginning to master its style of play. I look for the Indians to win.

In the big city New York University plays Purdue, one of the leaders in the Big Ten, a rugged, undefeated foe. Smarting from its defeat at the hands of Colgate, New York should come back with all kinds of football and win in a very close game. Fordham travels to Boston to play Boston College. This game is always a ding-dong battle, but Fordham appears to be a little too strong for the Eagles.

Columbia and Cornell clash in one of the major contests of the day. It will be a meeting of two master-minds in the coaching world. The team that wins will have to be at the top of its game. It seems to me that Columbia has the enthusiasm, coupled with the finesse, to add this contest to its victory column.

HARVARD FACES TEST

Two unbeaten teams, Brown and Harvard, meet at Boston. Tuss McLaughry has one of his best outfits. Using a type of offense unlike any in the country and with great speed in his backfield, Brown is a hard team to beat. Harvard barely squeaked through with victory over Dartmouth. This game between the Bruins and the Crimson is anybody's game, and at its conclusion one or the other will be eliminated from the undefeated column.

Princeton takes on the leader of the West in Michigan, and this looks like Michigan all the way. Princeton will give its best, but Michigan should win by a generous margin.

Colgate, Pittsburgh and Army are quite definitely the leaders in the East. By Saturday night I see Colgate as the only undefeated outfit.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

The raccoon hunters in Western Pennsylvania have enjoyed many fine chases and harvested some splendid trophies since the opening of the running season this month. The patrons of the raccoon hunting sport include a group of sportsmen who prefer the pleasure of the chase rather than to kill and there are many of them in this city and throughout Allegheny County.

As the frosts, high winds and autumn storms reduce the foliage and brush the hunting will improve. At present the woods are still heavily coated with foliage and the brush still is green and tough, making the running hard and often punishing to the dogs. However, the sportsmen have enjoyed as many as three and as high as five chases a night, and their most gratifying experience has been finding as many as three and four juvenile raccoons taking refuge from the dogs in the trees. Of course, these youngsters are not molested, as the sporting code of the raccoon hunters provides they be permitted to mature and furnish sport in future seasons.

FINE SPORTING CODE

No sportsmen enjoy themselves more and have a better code of hunting ethics than these raccoon hunters. And while the sport always has been popular, it recruits many new patrons every year. And not only is the sport popular in Pennsylvania, but throughout the nation. The raccoon hunters have state and national organizations and by careful breeding have improved the types of their hounds. And a raccoon hound must have everything—courage, strength, a keen nose and fighting ability—especially fighting ability, for a 15-pound raccoon can make a lot of trouble for even a veteran dog. The writer has seen many combats, raccoon against the hound, under the light of a lantern equipped with a reflector.

SELDOM BAG LIMIT

As all experienced raccoon hunters know, the night prowler of the forests and farm lands can more than take care of itself. Those frays equal in action the animal combats often shown on the screen between the beasts of Africa and India. The present state code provides for a bag of three raccoons per night and 10 per season. However, the patrons of the sport rarely kill the season's limit, preferring to conserve that quarry for future chases.

Coast Club Signs Arizmendi, Casanova

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—Two Mexico City boxers were signed for 10-round bouts in November by the Olympic Auditorium management here yesterday.

Baby Casanova, who knocked out Speedy Dado, Filipino, at Mexico City recently, will be brought here for a rematch with the battler from the Philippines. This bout is listed for November 15.

'KEED' BARRED FOR YEAR

DETROIT, Oct. 26. — (INS.) — Kid Chocolate, Cuban featherweight, who is recognized by the New York Boxing Commission as the world champion, has been suspended by the National Boxing Association for one year.

James (Bingo) Brown, recently elected president of the National Boxing Association, suspended the Cuban "Bon Bon" yesterday for failing to appear here for a bout with Harry Blitman, Philadelphia, scheduled for Olympia Arena tomorrow night. Chocolate was due here yesterday but failed to show up.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(AP.)—The stock market was unable to work up any sustained bullish enthusiasm today over the ordering of the regular United States Steel preferred dividend.

The dividend action, announced after the close of the previous session, inspired some short covering in the first few minutes, boosting prices of a number of leaders 1 to 3 points, but these gains were soon lost, and net declines of about a point or two were numerous by midday, although the list stiffened somewhat in the early afternoon. Trading was in modest volume.

Midweek business statistics were moderately favorable, but were interpreted as indicating some flattening out of the recent upward curve of business activity. Iron Age estimated steel production a shade under the level of last week. Individual freight carloadings reports indicated that the total figure for last week, to be made public on Saturday, might show another small gain, but the reports of principal individual carriers showed smaller gains than a week ago. While the peak of the seasonal upswing in freight movement is usually reached around the first of October, it is normal for the volume to be well sustained throughout the month, and turn rather sharply downward during November.

A better tone in the British pound sterling was regarded as gratifying in some quarters in Wall street, where the drop in this currency has been recarded as unsettling to commodity prices. Copper, after its recent slump from 6¼ to 5½ cents, was extremely quiet, with the market showing a somewhat heavy undertone. Further evidences of general firming of gasoline prices appeared, but the weekly petroleum statistics, showing a gain of 28,500 barrels in daily average crude output, were a little surprising, in view of the renewed drive toward curtailment, although part of the gain was evidently due to opening up of wells for flow tests for proration purposes. Gasoline stocks declined slightly.

COTTON PRICES STEADY, UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Cotton futures opened steady, 7@9 higher on steadier Liverpool cables and heavy rains in the central belt. December, 6.25; January, 6.31; March, 6.35; May, 6.46; July, 6.56.

Houses with Liverpool, Continental and Far Eastern connections were again among the early buyers and the opening advance was accompanied by reports that spot offerings from the interior yesterday were light with the basis very firm.

Offerings from the south were comparatively light at the opening today but the advance to 6.26 for December and 6.47 for May met realizing or liquidation which caused slight setbacks. The market, at the end of the first half hour, was steady at reactions of 3 or 4 points from the best.

The market sagged off later in the morning under a little more Southern selling, together with realizing, while buying seemed to be checked to some extent by the easier ruling of the wheat and stock markets. Trade interests were buyers on the scale down, but December worked off to 6.17 and May to 6.42, or back to nearly yesterday's closing quotations. The market at midday was quiet and steady at net advances of 1 to 5 points.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 26.—Cotton, 2,000 bales including 1,500 American. Spot, good business done; prices four points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.22; good middling, 5.97; strict middling, 5.72; middling, 5.52; strict low middling, 5.37; low middling, 5.22; strict good ordinary, 5.02; good ordinary, 4.72. Futures closed barely steady, October, 5.22; December, 5.18; January, 5.15; March, 5.17; May, 5.20; July, 5.21.

Oil Production Up, 'Gas' Stocks Drop

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Domestic crude oil output during the week ended October 22 averaged 2,159,150 barrels daily, an increase of 28,500 barrels daily over the previous week, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Gasoline stocks in the United States declined 14,000 barrels during the week to 49,765,000 on October 22.

INVESTMENT BANKERS SEE RECOVERY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 26.—The middlemen and merchants of America's surplus capital, the delegates to the twenty-first annual convention at the Greenbrier Hotel here of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, today added their testimony to that of others who believe that the gold standard in the United States is impregnable and that the bottom of the depression has been passed.

Mr. Rukeyser

The sentiment of the 400 delegates was summed up by Albert P. Everts, of Paine, Webber & Co., Boston, as chairman of the trends of business committee, who said that "the extreme optimism born of the prosperity of post-war years has been replaced by stern confidence born of the recent adversity."

DOLLAR STABLE

"Subsequent events tend to draw attention to the fact that the stability of the American dollar is the greatest factor in the world economy today, and to justify the inference that our proven ability to meet all demands for gold was the cornerstone upon which we have started to rebuild the structure of world business."

There was no inflation in the upturn of security and commodity prices during the summer, the bankers hold.

"Lest there be—in view of all the discussion in regard to inflation—any misunderstanding in regard to the soundness of this advance, it can be stated with assurance that the increase in the dollar value of these securities has not been accompanied by an impairment in the gold value of the dollar itself."

Mr. Everts pointed out:

"On July 6, 1932, for every $100 in circulation in the United States they had monetary gold amounting to $67.91. By the end of August the ratio of monetary gold stock circulation not only not declined, but had actually risen to $71.61 per $100 of circulation.

BANK RESERVES UP

"Of equal importance in a consideration of the gold backing up the currency is the percentage of gold to the total loans and investments of the banks. From this very important standpoint the position of our banking system on June 30, 1932, was stronger than on June 30, 1929, when the business boom was at its height. In the midyear of 1929 the monetary gold stock of the United States amounted to 7.39 per cent of the loans and investments of all banks in the United States. At the end of June this year it amounted to 8.61 per cent."

The bankers predict that the return flow of hoarded currency will result in an unprecedentedly rapid building up of excess reserves in the commercial banks. Referring to past depressions, the committee found that "the bottom and turning point were marked by a substantial increase in the excess reserves of banks," such as has been taking place since April.

Pattern 2212

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

We love the deceiving little boleros applied on the smartest frocks of today . . . by deceiving we mean they appear in front only. The frock shown today has one. Add to that some very new sleeves, a lace bodice, and slender skirt seaming, and you've achieved a truly graceful, slender silhouette for the matronly figure.

Pattern 2212 may be ordered only in sizes 36 to 48. Size 36 requires 4½ yards 39-inch fabric and ⅝ yard 17-inch lace. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

The choice of a smart, sensible and economical winter wardrobe becomes very simple with the aid of THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN CATALOG. This beautiful book contains 32 pages of select Anne Adams models for every WINTER need—house, street, afternoon, formal frocks and lingerie for adults; pages of lovely models for juniors and kiddies; special styles for the larger figure, and many delightful suggestions for Christmas sewing. SEND FOR YOUR COPY. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER 25 CENTS. Address all mail orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.

THREE WOMEN

By FAITH BALDWIN

Louisa Oversees Son Kiss Girl and Changes Mind About University

CHAPTER VI.

The two children ran up the wide stairs, into the day nursery on the next floor. This was a pleasant place, it had patterned, flowered wall paper, there were pink ribbon bows tied on the corners of the gay pictures, the furniture was bird's-eye maple, there were five windows, and three of them looked out on Fifth avenue. Sally's old nurse was in the room, reading under a hissing gas jet. She smiled at the two children and after a time disappeared into the next room.

Sally set the waxen cylinder whirring. The rusty, metallic melody blared from the great horn. Sally danced about the room, her skirts standing out like rose petals.

"Daisy, Daisy, give me your answer true'," she sang in her little girl's voice, clear and tonic as spring water.

She spun like a mad thing. Lennox was caught up by her insanity. He took her lightly about the waist and whirled with her. They laughed, breathless. She was a feather in his clasp, she smelled of talcum powder and orris root, her cheek was pink, soft.. He stopped dancing. The graphophone plodded on. They stood quite still, the children, his arms held her. He bent his tall, dark head and kissed her cheek. She did not move away—oh lovely miracle—she turned her little mouth to his and kissed him sweetly.

SCOLDED BY MOTHER

Some one exclaimed. Some one laughed. They were there in the hall doorway, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Sheldon.

Sally slipped from the boy's rigid arms, she ran across the floor to her mother, hid her face on that lady's shoulder, laughing. Some one, the nurse perhaps, came into the room and stopped the machine.

"Oh, Lennox," said Mrs. Morgan, "such a little spoony!"

Sally contradicted, muffled, with the honesty of a generation as yet unborn.

"I made him——"

Louisa Sheldon said nothing.

When they were at home again, she spoke.

"I am ashamed of you — at your age—dancing, on the Sabbath. Kissing——"

He had nothing to reply. Her voice ran on and on, painting for his edification a little picture of hell, a hot, small hell for the Sabbath breakers. His thoughts went back, painfully, to a time when as a very small boy he had taken a penny from her purse. A round, copper penny. He had stood at her knee then and her words had shaped his path, from penny to pound, from pound to gallows, dancing on the air, a thief.

Rebellion flared up in him. She wasn't fair. It had been dear, it had been sweet, this Sabbath breaking. He had overheard Mrs. Morgan say, delightedly, "My bad little girl! Weren't they—darlings standing there? The babies——"

Mrs. Morgan had not thought it wicked.

Suddenly his mother gasped, put her hand to her heart. Her dark eyes reeled in an ashen face. Lennox flew for Nanna. Mother was in one of her attacks. He thought afterwards, as he watched Nanna hold a glass of something to Louisa's lips, that the attacks were always his fault. Always, when he had disobeyed her, when she was angry with him, they came on. Yet once he'd heard the doctor say to Cousin Henrietta, "Dangerous? Nonsense. High strung, that's all. Nerves."

Now his mother beckoned him. He went and stood by her, no longer rebellious.

"I am all right," she assured him, after a moment. "Kiss me, my son, and go to your room. You won't distress me so again, will you?"

Later, lying in bed he thought. If she should die in such an attack—would he have killed her? He rubbed his thin hands together. They seemed sticky, he thought, with blood—her blood. He cried out, sobbing. He had no tears, simply sobbing. He had no tears, simply that dry gasping for breath. Presently, he slept.

Next door Louisa sat propped up with pillows on her bed. Nanna was with her, making her comfortable for the night. Mrs. Sheldon's attacks, neither rare nor frequent, occasioned quick action but very little real alarm. Nanna, who had come to the house shortly after Lennox's birth, could not remember a time when they hadn't happened, been brought on suddenly. She supposed that her mistress had suffered from them since childhood.

NANNA INTERCEDES

Louisa, on the contrary, could remember the first one, quite clearly. She had not been married long. George Sheldon had been—tiresome. She'd had no privacy, mental or physical. Every time he came into their room it had seemed an intrusion, gross and unwelcome. Emotion of a most unpleasant character had constricted her heart. She had wished him away, removed to an immeasurable distance. And her first attack had come on during the wedding trip, an agonizing escape.

Later, she found that anything remarkably distasteful to her might occasion these attacks. It was shortly before Lennox was born that she'd found George out. The seizure which had taken her then was prolonged, worse than the others. She had frightened him thoroughly, but, for once, she had failed of her desired effect. He had been sullen rather than repentant, voluble with the most extraordinary, shameful, self-excuses. He had blamed her, openly, for his misconduct.

The doctor had said this first child must be her last. If the heart attacks had not served to keep George Sheldon on the path of rectitude they had at least assisted in freeing his wife, gradually, from bondage.

Mrs. Sheldon remained aloof.

Nanna spoke out bravely. Louisa had subdued but never quite conquered her.

"He's alone too much—not near enough with the other boys. He mews himself up over books, comes straight home from school, most days. It can't be good for him, it's not in nature."

Louisa said nothing then. She thought over her plans, and compromised. Lennox, entering Columbia at 17, never knew that he owed his realization of a relinquished dream to a graphophone and Sally.

Lennox was not permitted a latchkey. He did not find this restriction particularly awkward until his second year at college, when, having become a member of an excellent fraternity, he discovered the drawbacks of such an example of maternal leading-strings. One night, getting in rather late, he stood at the top step and regarded the street door intently, holding a slightly vinous breath. This was the second time he had been so late. On the first occasion he had rung the bell and Nanna had opened to him, yawning, a flannel wrapper flung over her night things. He had started up the stairs, and his mother had met him at the top of the first flight. He did not get to bed until an hour later.

This time his hand hesitated at the bell. To his astonishment before he had gathered up his courage, the door opened of itself, as if by magic. He walked in and saw Nanna. She whispered huskily, "I listened for you, Master Lennox. No need to ring."

She glanced up the dim stairs. One light burned. The marble Mercury slept in his corner. No tall, impeccable figure was illuminated. Nanna and Lennox breathed simultaneous sighs of relief.

Synopsis

Mrs. Louisa Lennox Sheldon—first of the THREE WOMEN—is absorbed in the personal upbringing of her son, Lennox, whose father died when the boy was but 9. Mrs. Sheldon—aristocratic, stern, domineering—live in Victorian comfort in the New York City of the late 90's. Little Lennox pities the plight of elderly Cousin Henrietta who lives in the Sheldon home and functions as a maid-of-all-work. He wonders why the house has no "cozy corner" and is delighted when his mother takes him to Sally Martin's home where the children play the graphophone and dance. Mrs. Sheldon reluctantly permits Lennox to do so after reminding Mrs. Martin that it is the Sabbath. The children run upstairs to the nursery.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky, Edith Overhear Grantland, Madge

"Hugh!" I exclaimed incredulously, as Maj. Grantland came slowly forward from the doorway.

"Did I startle you?" he asked, and as always there was a tenderness in his voice, pervasive, not easily ignored. "I—I could not help it. I have been waiting for a chance to speak to you again, and when I saw you go out of the room with Dr. Paige I went to the door, hoping to catch you as you came back in. When he came alone I thought I should find you here, and I have been trying ever since to muster up courage to come out."

"Am I so formidable?" I asked with a little laugh, and knew before the last word had left my lips that I had said the wrong thing.

"It is not of you I am afraid, it is of myself," he said hoarsely, coming close to me and standing above me. His hand dropped to my shoulder and rested there an instant, then he took it away as suddenly and dropped into the chair opposite me, which Dr. Paige had just left.

"I have been watching you all the evening," his deep, hoarse voice went on, "waiting, hoping for another dance with you, but—I'm not strong enough. I could not hold you in my arms without crushing you, without telling you—"

I rose to my feet abruptly, drawing my hand away from his hot, clinging one.

REQUEST DENIED

"Please!" I said tremuously, more shaken than I cared to admit. "You know, Hugh, that I must not listen to you when you talk this way. Yours has been such a wonderful friendship. You never have spoiled it. Please—you must not—"

My voice trailed away. He took a step toward me, put his hands upon my shoulders.

"If I promise never to annoy you again in this way, never to speak again of what is in my heart for you—what always has been; what will be there as long as breath is in my body—would you, will you, kiss me just once for goodybye?"

There was such impassioned longing in that voice that for an instant the impulse swayed me to give him the boon for which he asked. All the sacrifice of devotion which this man had spilled out like water for me and mine surged in remembrance through my heart. Mingled with it was the cynical little reflection that I was sure Dicky would not hesitate to kiss Edith Fairfax if he should find himself opposite her in a scene like this, and she were playing the aggressive role.

But I was honest enough to realize that this last argument originated only from a perverse desire to justify my own action if I should grant Hugh's request. With a sudden movement I reached up my hands, took Hugh's down from my shoulders and clasped them tightly.

"I'm, I'm—so sorry," I said earnestly. "I must not, Hugh. But remember that I prize your friendship above that of any other man except my husband."

HUSBAND NEARBY

"Forgive me," he pleaded. "I was a cad to ask you this. I shall not offend you again. It should be enough for me to be permitted to see you and talk to you. I shall school myself so that you shall never be offended again by my impetuosity; but"—his voice was rough again—"I cannot stay here longer tonight. I shall walk up and down outside, if I may, until Lee Chow is ready to go. When he makes his adieux to you, as I think he will very shortly, will you tell him that I am waiting for him out here?"

"Yes, I will tell him that," I said, turning away. But he looked so utterly forlorn standing there that I could not help but turn back to him. "You must not think that I was offended," I said breathlessly. "It is only that I cannot honorably—"

"Don't I know that, you blessed child!" he said tenderly. "There never was any one like you. If you could have been mine! But—there—forgive me. I am not responsible tonight for what I am saying. Good night, dear heart."

He caught my hands in his, almost crushing them with the warmth of his clasp, then dropped them, and turning, rushed down the veranda steps and out into the night.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Many fine acts of juvenile vaudeville and several valuable prizes featured the meeting of the Belmar Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club Saturday.

The theater had been decorated for Halloween and what with a grinning pumpkin here and a foreboding devil's face there and corn stalks draped in prominent places, it produced one of those "don't turn out the light" feelings which tended to awe the members for a moment, but only for a moment. As soon as they realized that the decorations were only in the spirit of the season, their enthusiasm knew no bounds and they proceeded merrily and noisily to their seats.

To them Halloween meant apple-ducking contests and funny costumes with masks and fun in general, mostly at somebody else's expense. Halloween to these little folks doesn't mean, as in centuries past, to stay at home and prepare for invasions by evil spirits, from witches down to hob-goblins, but it does mean a day of fun when all the fancy costumes and old clothes are brought from the cedar chests and storerooms to once again see the light of day and rule as "King."

SHOW STARTS

After the children had asked Manager Shafer numerous questions about this and that and what the plans were for this coming Saturday, the stage show started with Delores Lagnese singing "Hello Gorgeous" and then doing a splendid tap dance. Delores sang in a pleasing voice and exhibited a pair of highly educated feet, which kept the members applauding at each step.

Next Elthea Montgomery sang "Snuggle on Your Shoulder" as the first part of her act and finished with a dance on the second and third choruses. Elthea gave an impression of being a seasoned actress and bowed very graciously to the applause she received at the conclusion of her act.

Zelda Ann Walker sang that cute little song, "You're Telling Me," following with a dance just as cute and just as entertaining as the song. Her efforts were justly rewarded with rounds of applause.

PERFORMS AGAIN

Delores Lagnese had created such a furore in her first appearance that she was brought back and proceeded to stop the show again. This time she sang "Is I in Love—I Is," and then offered an entirely different dance which totally eclipsed her first performance.

To the tune of "Dixieanna," Katherin Edick displayed an amazing amount of dancing form which could only be acquired by long hours of practice and splendid training.

The show was again stopped by little Louise Ponsonby, who sang "Let That Be a Lesson to You," and the members, from the amount of applause given this little lady, learned their lesson well.

The final act on the program was an acrobatic dance given by Vera Williams and Emma Fuller. These two youngsters, members of the club, were the outstanding performers in last year's "Pittsburgh on Parade," at the Stanley Theater.

The dance they gave Saturday was an impression of twins—Vera and Emma doing their routine in perfect rhythm and timing—first side by side and then one in back of the other—turning handsprings and somersaults together in perfect unison.

This was a grand finale to a great show. Vera Williams and Emma Fuller could have acquired this team work in no other way but through long, tedious hours of practice and work.

WASH OUT YOUR K-I-D-N-E-Y-S— SLEEP FINE

No More Getting Up Nights

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. © 1932

EVERYBODY SING!

Herbert Hoover, in an interview with Christopher Morley, says:

"What this country needs is a poem, or song, to lift people out of fear or selfishness — something simple enough for a child to spout. I keep looking for it, but don't see it. Let me know if you find anything."

How about a revival of "You Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry," by Rowland Howard, 1888? It goes something like this:

The lessons that my mother taught to me were quite a charm;
She would often take me on her knee, when tired of childish play,
And as she pressed me to her breast, I've heard my mother say:

(Chorus)

* * *

When I arrived at manhood, I embarked in public life,
And found it was a rugged road, bestrewn with care and strife;
I speculated foolishly, my losses were severe;
But still a tiny little voice kept whispering in my ear:

(Chorus)

Then I studied strict economy, and found to my surprise,
My funds, instead of sinking, very quickly then did rise;
I seized my opportunities, and never once forgot:

(Chorus)

Reckless Extravagance

A Large Surplus Has Been Turned into a Huge Deficit Under Mr. Hoover's Presidency.

At the bottom of the economic troubles of this country today, as Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner rightly warn their countrymen, is the indefensible mismanagement of the Federal Government's financial affairs by the Hoover administration.

Under Mr. Hoover's presidency a tremendous treasury surplus has been transformed within three years into a deficit of three thousand millions of dollars.

Under Mr. Hoover's presidency more than three thousand millions of dollars have been added to the public debt.

Under Mr. Hoover's presidency federal appropriations for the first two years after he entered the White House showed an increase of nearly one thousand million dollars over federal appropriations for the last two years of the Coolidge administration.

The example of reckless extravagance set by the Hoover administration appears to have infected state and local governments, north, east, south and west.

As a result, one dollar out of every five which we earn today under Mr. Hoover's presidency goes to 250,000 tax-gather and tax-spending agencies throughout the United States, and 18,000,000 of our citizens are now dependent upon tax payrolls for their support.

Thoughtful Americans, whatever their political affiliation, are too intelligent not to realize that our government—local, state and national—cannot continue to live under present conditions at the reckless rate which the extravagance of the Hoover administration has encouraged them to live.

And one of the reasons why millions of progressive Republicans are uniting with millions of Democrats in support of Roosevelt and Garner is because the Democratic candidates for President and Vice President are pledged, determined and prepared to reduce by 25 per cent the costs of the federal government, and thereby set the example which public sentiment will compel state and local governments to follow.

Stern Justice

The Kind Meted Out in the O'Brien Case Is Needed in Allegheny County.

The last of scores of persons found guilty of fraud in the election last year has been released from jail on parole. Practically all of the crooks were shown mercy by the judges, the more prominent not being required to serve a single day.

In refreshing contrast is the course pursued by Judge Frank B. Wickersham, of Dauphin County, in the case of George J. O'Brien, former appraiser of the port of Philadelphia, found guilty of trying to bribe Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, to award a contract for voting machines to a certain company.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper, Judges Harry S. McDevitt and Frank Smith, of Philadelphia, and others asked Judge Wickersham to be lenient to O'Brien. Turning a deaf ear to the pleas, he remarked that to attempt to bribe a public official was to attack the foundations of government and merited punishment. So he gave O'Brien the limit for attempted bribery—from six to 12 months in jail and a fine of $500.

Pittsburgh needs judges like that, with the courage to reject politicians' pleas for leniency for political crooks who deserve to be punished.

Hope for the Chestnut

It Is Gratifying to Learn That One of the Grandest of Our Forest Trees Probably Will Return.

One of the most majestic of our native forest trees was the chestnut. Great of girth and stature, rugged and expansive, it was a beautiful object, whether found with other trees in the woods or standing alone, in solitary majesty in an open field. And it was no less useful than beautiful, its wood and nuts both being highly prized.

A decade or two ago the chestnut was apparently exterminated by a blight that found its way into this country from Europe. Any chestnuts that you may have eaten in recent years were not grown in Pennsylvania but imported from Europe.

But there is evidence that the chestnut is coming back. Fred W. Shearer, district forester at McConnellsburg, Fulton County, has found a tree bearing the well remembered burs, and has sent several sprays of them to Gov. Gifford Pinchot. And Gov. Pinchot, acknowledging the gift, says it confirms a belief he has long held that the blight will spend itself and the chestnut will come back.

Pennsylvania will be richer if it does.

A Review Exhibition

Pleasure and Instruction Are to Be Found in Looking Over the Old Paintings.

In this restless forward-looking age the people crave new things. The result is that meritorious old things often do not receive the attention they deserve. Now that flat pocketbooks make it difficult to indulge the fancy for novelties, the time is opportune for renewing our acquaintance with things that gave pleasure in the past. The Carnegie Institute is offering an opportunity in an exhibition of paintings that is to open next Tuesday and continue through December 15.

The exhibition is to be a review of the canvasses shown in the international shows of the last 36 years. One hundred and ninety paintings, the work of 190 painters who found representation in the Institute's salons of former years, are to be exhibited. They are owned by Pittsburghers, who have loaned them for the show.

While it is disappointing that we are to have no International this year, people who are genuinely interested in art will find little less pleasure and instruction in the substitute exhibitions. The plan is a capital one.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000
10—Fair public utility rates.

The Double Barrel Daredevil! -:- By Nelson Harding

The Elephant likes to repeat.
And not changing barrels while shooting the falls
Is now his most difficult feat.

He straddled both barrels, spread widely apart
A perilous stance to maintain,
So take a last look while he's poised on the brink
For you may not see him again.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Self-Made Bachelors

"How can I get him?" "How can I get rid of him?" "How can I get him BACK."

* * *

These are the three refrains which run through most of the letters received by this and similar departments. And the last is the theme-song of at least two-thirds of them.

* * *

Marriage is becoming such an uncertain and temporary affair that, until the first two years have been safely weathered, a bride wonders whether or not it is worth while to unpack her wardrobe trunk.

* * *

And now we have the spectacle of a word full of BACHELORS. Born bachelors, "married bachelors," and self-made bachelors. Ex-husbands, semi-detached husbands—and confirmed single-footers. * * *

You know the type. The kind of a man who would let NO woman stand between him and a game of golf, a plate of garlic soup or a new adventure. The kind who would not tie himself to the most attractive woman on earth, because it would mean untying himself from all the others.

Of course, woman's original idea of "freedom" was the right to economic independence and the ballot. But man's idea of "freedom" always has been freedom from responsibilities and ties. And the right to erotic variety—"the spice of love." * * *

Never before in the history of the world was love such a flimsy and ephemeral affair or marriage such a game of "now-you've-got-me-and-now-you-haven't!" Even Bluebeard loved his wives for a little while! But the modern man wants to trade his in for a new model almost before the wedding-paint is off! * * *

It can't last, of course. It is only a passing phase of the defunct jazz-decade—a hangover from the post-war madness. All these self-made bachelors and determined free-booters will and do tire of the deadly monotony of variety, eventually. The egomania will subside, the dementia will pass. Some day, men will come out of the ether and discover that this pseudo-"freedom" is not worth the PRICE they pay for it. Just let us be patient, mates, until the SPASM is over!

AT SEA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, Oct. 26.—The ship swarms with notables. On first swing of the promenade, the extraordinarily Woolworthian Robert E. Sherwood, New York City's own gift to playwrighting, towered above all others. I hallowed a greeting as he leaned around a curve. And can he lean!

In contrast a little further on came the equally distinguished international lawyer, Col. Joseph Hartfield, a dynamo of wisdom and good cheer. Also, the gentleman who gave Broadway its glow in the dead and gone days—Jimmy Thompson. His quiet cynicism, too, pricked many Broadway windbags.

As silent backer of the famous Palais Royal, where you never saw him, he gave Paul Whiteman a leg up to the jazz throne. A toss of lucent yellow bobbing along proved to be the elfin Clare Luce, Follies dancer, who with her husband, Cliff Smith, young sportsman, returns to New York for a new play.

South Bend's contribution to cosmopolitanism—Cole Porter—is also a passenger. His tunes are still whistled, notably those from "Fifty Million Frenchmen." Porter, since quitting the north end of a southbound plow, graces a Normandy chateau and in this arcadia enlivens revues in Paris, London, New York.

Others I notice in the passing parade are Kathleen Howard, once of the Metropolitan opera and now living in Paree; Keith Clark, of London music halls; Billie Kay, New York milliner, the ruddy Mayor of Bordeaux, M. Marquet, and several others whose faces are familiar but whose names I do not know.

* * *

I learn from Cole Porter he was the knave who threw me into a cyclonic fury at the Frascati in Havre before shoving off. Over the phone I asked for the porter to order ice water and in typical French telephonic mixup got Mr. Porter. I asked for ice water and he asked my name. I told him. In simulated French accents he inquired why I desired ice water. Patiently, I explained to drink. I was asked if I could wait until tomorrow. Assuming he did not understand, I repeated a request for water pronto. Then he asked my age and I saw red. "You are not the gentleman," the voice protested. "Cochon!" I screamed. Then I was called a cow—France's most hated opprobium. In a ponder of syllables, he suggested a duel. Not being any great shakes as a swordsman, I hung up. I still feel silly.

* * *

A fascinating looking voyager—I trot after him like a dog the covered wagon—is a Russian with a glossy black beard and a mathematically precise snow-white spot the size of a silver dollar on each side. With monocle, hair stiffly en brosse and eyebrows in impudent peaks, he looks werry, werry wicked.

Then a prim lady, in disembodied pensiveness, walking the rolling deck knitting and never missing a stitch. Once a lurch sent her into a quick sidewise run, but she carried on.

* * *

On top deck this afternoon I stretched out in the sun's crimson glow, clad only in running pants. I thought I was alone my semi-nudity, but a smoke belching funnel obscured a youthful Romeo and Juliet in a mutual clutch of adulation. They were indulging monosyllabic murmurs of "beloved," "my adorable" and "sweet." With a bow and arrow I might have passed for a second-hand cupid.

* * *

A distressed passenger, a native of "Deac" Ayleworth's Iowa cornbelt, left a patented powder furnishing cleavage for an upper plate in his Paris hotel. Without it, his teeth wobbled so he could not talk or eat. But a ship is alive to every emergency. He tells me the surgeon furnished gum arabic, and that solved his problem. "But," he sighed, "I have a taste like the burnt hoof of a horse."

* * *

In contributing chit-chat for l'Atlantique, the ship's daily, I credited Robert Sherwood with authoring the play, "Helen of Troy." It was, of course, "The Road to Rome." Anyway, I knew it was one of the larger Swiss cities.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I refuse to hate.

Hating is one of the things I have decided not to do. I refuse to do it as coolly, but as finally, as I refuse to eat snails, ride on scenic railroads or sit through stupid movies. Other people may enjoy snails, thrill to scenics or be willing to waste time on tiresome films. All right. That's up to them. But as for me, nothing doing!

So, on the same principle, I refuse to be sickened, bored, pestered, inflamed or hindered in my life's progress by hate.

In vain wiser souls warned me that hating didn't pay; quoted the Biblical injunction to "turn the other cheek." Noble words; but not for me! Anyone who slapped MY cheek got what was coming to him, plenty and pronto!

So I grew up, bristling; went out into life looking for trouble. Found it on every side. Countless chances to feel insulted. Constant provocations to hate. And how I did hate!

Rich years, filled with a diversity of opportunity. A man could do what he wished with those years. Take the opportunity he preferred. Accomplish what he pleased. I saw my friends accomplishing much. Saw them achieving good work; building quiet, pleasant friendships.

I wanted to do good work, too. I wanted to have quiet, pleasant friendships. But I had only so much time, so much energy; and I was using most of that time and energy in hating. For hating, if you're going to make a good job of it, is a full time chore, and the more you do of it the more you have to do. So there isn't much chance to do anything else.

Years going on. More and more years. And then, one day, I began to take stock.

What had I done in all those years?

What had I missed?

I had done so little, save hate. I had missed so much. I had paid such a terrific price for hate.

Those people whom I hated, because they had hurt me—if they could know what my hate cost, how delighted they would be. FOR MY OWN HATE WAS DOING ME MORE HARM THAN THEY COULD EVER HAVE HOPED TO DO!

When at last I realized that, I saw the truth. Hate didn't pay. No matter how great the provocation, hate didn't pay.

I had thought Jesus Christ was wrong when He said to "turn the other cheek" to those who would harm you. But He was speaking deepest wisdom. It was better to turn the other cheek. It was better to let yourself be harmed, again and again, without seeking revenge, than it was to hate.

Hate didn't pay—and you didn't have to hate if you didn't want to! You could refuse to hate, if you wished, just as you could refuse to do anything else. It wasn't easy, particularly if you had been accustomed to let yourself go. But it could be done—AND I DETERMINED TO DO IT.

I REFUSE TO HATE.

I'm no saint. I don't pretend to love those who maliciously hurt me, but I have found that I can be indifferent to them. I can refuse to be demoralized by their malice, just as I can refuse to be demoralized by a tiresome show, or a poor meal or a muddy street. Life is full of unpleasantness. One must learn to stand it. Malice is just one of life's inevitable unpleasantness. One can learn to stand that, too. So—

I try to take malice as coolly as I take mud. I don't like malice. I don't like mud. But neither of them can harm me if I keep them OUTSIDE.

So, just because I'm selfish, just because I want to get the most out of life, I REFUSE TO HATE. That may not be a very saintly reason; but it works swell with me. Try it.

The Wreckers Advise the Victims

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The predatory interests whose unscrupulous greed, by common consent, has wrecked the prosperity of the nation, now see that their whoop-la days of easy plucking of the suckers are over.

In desperation they are stooping—if they have to stoop to get rather low—to the unscrupulous and desperate device of using the blackjack on workingmen, who mean no more to them in citizenship than one of the Chinese coolies imported by the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company into South Africa.

And there is another string to their bow; they are doing their utmost to destroy all confidence in our financial structure. Mr. Hoover led off with his cock-and-bull story of how we were on the verge of leaving the gold standard—a cock-and-bull story concocted for the purposes of intimidation, and thoroughly exposed as false by bankers, financial writers, statesmen and the New York Times.

Now the predatory interests, as Theodore Roosevelt described them, have summoned Elihu Root, who never has failed them once from his honorable and acceptable retirement, solemnly to say that Franklin Roosevelt's election will retard the recovery of confidence.

This is the same Elihu Root who fought the Democratic Federal Reserve bill, tooth and nail, and with great solemnity warned that if the Federal Reserve System were adopted it would flood the country with fiat money.

Of all the amusing things of the campaign, the most amusing is the rich conceit that the people in public life and on Wall Street, whose stupidity and greed everyone knows led us into the greatest panic in history, are the only ones who are wise enough to lead us out.

Fought Reserve Bill That Saved Nation

The same group of stupid financial and business "leaders" who lined up against the creation of the Federal Reserve System and issued solemn statements of the ruin it would bring; the same group of bankers that mobbed a man who tried to speak for it at the national convention in Boston when it was pending, are now posing again as the "wise and the good."

If the statesmanship of the last Democratic administration had not ignored the stupid opposition of financial "leaders," who did not know their business, there would have been no Federal Reserve System.

And if there had been no Federal Reserve System, there would have been a crash when the World War began.

And there would not have been a splinter left of the financial structure of the nation after these wise "financial leaders" and the "tried and true leaders" in Washington had made the present panic inevitable by the most unscrupulous, greedy and dishonest practices in our history.

It takes some "guts" for these pompous pretenders to superior wisdom, who are responsible for the general ruin, now to appear with propaganda interviews of intimidation, solemnly to advise their victims that, if Mr. Roosevelt is elected, these crooked practices on which they have thrived at the expense of the public cannot be continued!

The purpose of the people in this election is to put an end to this organized, subsidized fleecing of the whole people with the active aid of an administration which has been and is their pliant tool.

Hoover Dances to Financial Lash

Just when did these gentlemen become so enamored of the "leadership" of Mr. Hoover? Just four months ago, I know personally that the atmosphere of Wall street was sulphurous with denunciations of Mr. Hoover as a man without the initiative, the decision, or the courage of leadership in a crisis.

What has happened since?

They have concluded that they prefer a "leader" who can be led, and who interprets a nation in terms of financial groups, though it be the man they so recently painted in such profane colors, to a leader of the Roosevelt type, who interprets a nation in terms of general humanity.

Meanwhile the Roosevelt tide, that will sweep to an overwhelming victory, is still rising—and Ogden Mills still is on the stump! He has just made another attack on Garner; and our advice to any one in doubt is to read Mr. Garner's speech on Mr. Mills and Mr. Mills' speech on Mr. Garner. Nothing could be sweeter.

In the balancing of the budget there was a long and dangerous delay because the repeated blundering of Mr. Mills on the amount of the deficit made it impossible for Congress to frame a bill that would bring in the revenue required. It had to write three bills before one could be passed; because twice, when a bill was framed, Mr. Mills, who clearly was at sea about his own business, blundered to the tune of hundreds of millions in his estimate of the deficit.

Mr. Mills is a wizard with figures, a bit backward in facts; and that was demonstrated to the satisfaction of New York when, in the race between Mills and Al Smith, the latter made him look like a sheepish school boy who had neglected his home work.

Roosevelt Openly for Tax on Beer

Businessmen bowed down with taxes to meet the Hoover deficit will be interested in Gov. Roosevelt's statement, made publicly, not whispered, in Pittsburgh:

"A tax on beer in those States which by state law permit its sale will add hundreds of millions of dollars annually to the nation's revenue and go far toward avoiding a new tax increase."

If Mr. Roosevelt is elected there will be a repeal of the Volstead Act after his inauguration. This will put hundreds of thousands of jobless men back to work on wages they will spend with the hard-pressed merchants; and add hundreds of millions of dollars to the revenue.

But this is only possible in the event of his election; for Mr. Hoover is against it. Under the method of repealing a Constitutional Amendment, nothing possible can be accomplished for four years more; and in the meanwhile there will be no modification of the Volstead Act and no beer tax.

Desperate Attempts to Intimidate Voters

So the average man will not be much influenced by these cheap and desperate attempts to intimidate the voter; and these intimidative statements will have to come from people in whom the public has more reason to have confidence.

They certainly have no reason to have faith or confidence in the spokesmen of the Hoover administration, who have specialized in flagrant misrepresentations for four years.

But have they reason to have confidence in Wall street leaders? Ask the first dozen men you meet on the street or in the corn row.

The truth is that one of the tragedies of the crisis has been the utter lack of intelligent leadership with any vision among these so-called financial "leaders." Nicholas Murray Butler has commented sharply upon that tragedy.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

You want some article but you haven't the price and can't afford it.

You become impatient and rather than wait until you have saved the desired amount you purchase something similar that does not suit you.

A few weeks—or a few months—and you might have saved enough to buy exactly what you wanted.

How much better to have waited and been able to own eventually the particular make or brand you have in mind.

Much of the discontent, dissatisfaction and regret which we experience in life is due to a lack of control of desire.

Too impetuous, too much like children—isn't that a fine reputation for an adult to have to own to himself?

Then comes the renewed longing for the article that pleases.
